Chernobyl Disaster Affects Commodities Prices

BY MIRIAM GREENFIELD
Lebanon Co. Staff Correspondent

When the nuclear disaster occurred at the Soviet power plant in Chernobyl two weeks ago, the effects were not immediately known. Even now, the large damaged reactor is reportedly still burning. Experts can only guess the short and long-range effects of the unknown quantities of radioactive particles released by the meltdown and fire. Scientists haven't been able to measure the radioactive fallout, but many people think there was enough fallout to have ruined agricultural products in the Ukraine for this year and probably decades or centuries to come.

On Wednesday, April 30, following news of the disaster, the July futures price of wheat peaked at $2.93½ and farmers were able to "forward price" their quality wheat to be delivered in July at that price. "Forward pricing" means locking in a contract for future delivery. On the following Monday, May 5, a farmer could have "forward priced" at $2.85 per bushel; and on Tuesday, May 6, at $2.90.

Farmers agree that whether it's plowing, planting, harvesting, or breeding, "timing is all." According to the marketing division managers at PFA, the adage is as true for marketing as it is for producing: "timing is all."

It's Spring. In the fields, farmers are out on tractors reading patterns and colors of clouds in the sky for rain, or interpreting the behavior of birds and insects as signs of the quality of the crop they will be harvesting in late summer and early fall. At the same time, in an office at the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association in Camp Hill, Michael A. Orndorff, Director of Futures Trading, is sitting at his desk reading patterns on the financial charts on the electronic screen of his computer and listening to the wire reports for signs of the futures market prices

Futures Stay Strong

LANCASTER — Wheat futures continued the strong upward trend which began last week following the nuclear accident at Chernobyl.

Dry weather which has been plaguing the wheatbelt and southeastern portion of the country for the last four months is responsible for maintaining a high futures market this week, said H. Louis Moore, Extension ag economist.

Present futures are higher than last week, when the nuclear accident in Chernobyl sparked the market last Tuesday to near the limit. The market responded to news of a second problem reactor in the area by reaching the limit.

Court Orders New Regulations For Buyout Program

WASHINGTON D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture filed a motion this week asking the federal judge to reconsider and clarify his directive to issue new regulations for the Dairy Termination Program.

The judge, ruling on a suit filed by the National Cattlemen's Association, determined that USDA did not follow an orderly marketing of the animals in the buyout program.

The judge directed USDA to issue new regulations to solve this problem no later than June 1. The court order also specified that no more than 7 percent of the national dairy herd can be slaughtered in each calendar year, with a proportionate number for the period from April through September.

Until the June deadline, the program will continue under the original guides and be administered by the present regulations.

Cattlemen complain that the marketing procedures employed in the buyout have maximized rather than minimized the adverse effect on the beef industry.

However, the secretary followed orderly marketing procedures established in the statutory requirements, according to National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) Chief Executive Officer Jim Barr.

Roger Bergland, vice president of communication for the National Cattlemen's Association, said cattlemen are seeking a plan that would force the dairymen to market their buyout animals in a specific week rather than selling them randomly within each period.

Barr, disputing the claim that the termination animals depressed the market noted, "There is no documentation that huge numbers of cattle are going out at this point."

Dairy Month Is Coming!

June is dairy month, but this dairyman doesn't wait for June to promote milk. He tells everyone who drives past his Scattered Acres Farm on Rt. 183 near Bernville in Berks County to "Drink Milk." Dairy Editor Martha Gehringer took the photo of the calf hutches as a reminder that the June 7 issue of Lancaster Farming is especially designed for dairy news, special dairy features, interviews and the annual dairy recipe feature.

To have your favorite recipe that contains at least one dairy product included in this year's feature, send it to this newspaper right away. Your recipe will be published in one of the June issues of Lancaster Farming. A lot of milk products will get used when everybody makes the recipes at home and Lancaster Farming will send you a gift in appreciation sharing your favorite recipe.

Ag Sec. Discusses Disease Control at PEMA Meeting

Richard E. Grubb

LANCASTER — Promotion, egg inspection and disease control were topics discussed by Secretary of Agriculture Richard Grubb who was scheduled to speak at a Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association meeting at Lancaster's Old Hickory Inn last night.

Touching on Pennsylvania's three-pronged egg inspection program, the keynote speaker noted that one phase involved quarterly USDA inspections mandated by Congress. Some 146 egg packing plants and 28 hatcheries are involved in this program, said the Secretary.

A second inspection phase involves a voluntary program initiated by the state. Fifty-nine of the state's packers are visited once to twice a month by state in-

PRV Outbreak Affects Hogs, Cattle, Sheep

BY JACK HUBLEY

EPHRATA — Concern in the livestock community mounts as a particularly virulent strain of pseudorabies virus takes its toll among hogs, beef cattle and other livestock.

Centered in northeastern Lancaster County, the current outbreak began showing up in January. Ephrata-area livestock farmers assembled at Ephrata High School Tuesday night for an update on the disease by Pork Council and Extension personnel.

Describing the current pseudorabies (PRV) outbreak as a "hot strain," Penn State Extension swine veterinarian Dr. Larry Hutchinson said that clinical signs have been noted in all 10 of the Ephrata-area farms infected. Located in the Ephrata-Hinkletown area, the outbreak involves nine commercial breeder herds and one feedlot, bringing the total number of PRV-quarantined swine herds in the state to 27.

"It can be a fooler," said Hutchinson, noting that clinical signs of the disease can range from nothing at all to deaths among baby pigs. Other symptoms in-

County Extension Agent Retires

BY CRAIG BINGMAN
Snyder County
Staff Correspondent

To work with Harold Holt is a learning experience. To know him as a person is a privilege.

On April 30, Harold Holt retired as county agent in Dairy for Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour Counties. For twenty seven years, Harold served area dairy farmers by assisting them with herd health, marketing, and dairy promotion.

An Indiana County native, Holt was raised on a dairy farm near the small town of Marion Center. After a short stint in the army during World War II (he was wounded in action in 1945), he attended Penn State University and earned a bachelors degree in Agricultural Economics in 1950.

After eight years with two private milling dealerships, Holt began his career with the Hun-

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, May 8, 1986
Report Supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Prices were unchanged to higher on large sizes, unchanged to lower on mediums. Cartoned egg demand ranged light to instances moderately good with best movement usually noted where retail features were planned or in progress. Floor stocks of large were adequate to fully adequate. Extra large were adequate to well-cleared. Mediums were adequate or available and in heaviest supply. Breakers, while absorbing some of the lighter weight nest runs, were showing less interest for heavy breaking stocks at higher trending prices.

A Extra Large 62½-66; A Large 2 60½-64; A Medium 48-52.

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, May 8, 1986

Market Comment: Movement of ready to cook whole birds was again improved for immediate deliveries but was generally only fair. Offerings were in better overall balance but at least adequate. A better call for whole birds was noted for next week's business. Demand for parts was mixed. Cutlets cleared better than yesterday while rib-on-breasts were in good balance. Legs were irregularly available while spot discounting was needed to clear leg quarters. Wings were adequate to fully adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to one cent lower at 50 to 57 cents. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were uneven in a full range of light to heavy. Slaughter schedules were moderately heavy. The undertone was about steady.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva:

Average Weights 5/06 4.52, 4/29 4.36.

Market Comment: Prices were higher with commitment for next week developing at the outside of today's quotes in very competitive trading. Offerings were tightening, and the recent opening of a new processing plant was affecting activity. Canner pack movement was light for the most part, and some product was being stored for later use.

Lancaster Farming

OPINION

Faith In The Future of Agriculture

Agriculture in Lancaster Farming territory is growing in importance. When compared to other areas of farm production, we have increased our share of the national market, and we have increased our dominance. That is because we have a lot of diversification. We have dairy, cattle, poultry, hogs, mushrooms, horticulture and even grains. We don't "put our eggs all in one basket." In addition we are close to large markets such as New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and other major eastern cities.

By taking advantage of these factors, the dairy, poultry and hog industries have all experienced substantial growth. In Pennsylvania for example the dairy industry ranks fifth in production nationally. Production of broilers, chickens and turkeys also ranks fifth. And egg production ranks fourth in the nation.

We hear much about how bad off the farmer is, and there are many problems. Recent figures show that maybe 20 percent of all farmers are in financial trouble. And we know how inherent problems are in farming as in any other business. But if these figures are correct we still have 80 percent of the farmers who are not in trouble.

We think a very encouraging indicator of faith in the future of agriculture comes with the building of a new feed mill in Mount Joy as reported in this issue of Lancaster Farming. This company says their customers are the kind of farmers who manage well and stay with the business side of farming.

Another encouragement came in the form of a little note to the editor from a farmer who said, "this note is not for publication, but I just want you to know that some of us farmers out here are still making money".

So while we may not hear as much from the good farmers who are doing all right, we know a lot of people have a great deal of faith in the future of agriculture in Lancaster Farming territory. And of course we do too.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Refreshen Pseudorabies Prevention Guidelines

Spring is a busy time for swing producers, but with recent outbreaks of a hot strain of swine pseudorabies, caution must be taken. It's a time when producers could become relaxed in swine disease prevention measures.

Control and prevention of pseudorabies in Lancaster County must be an ongoing program. Chester D. Hughes, Extension livestock agent, refreshes swine producers with these pseudorabies prevention guidelines for spring and summer for all herds:

– Isolate pigs from all other livestock.

– Allow no visitation in your hog house and don't visit others.

– Sanitizer and footbath, or clean boots and appropriate clothing provided for authorized visitors.

– Control stray animals.

– Pre-sort hogs for shipment to prevent hogs from entering truck and returning to pen.

– Haul pigs in clean, sanitzed vehicles only.

– Dispose of dead pigs promptly, bury under one foot of cover, incinerate, or seal in bag and give to scavenger.

– Call vet if herd has nervous disorders or unusual problems.

– Eradicate infections–request eradication guidelines.

– Encourage everyone to adopt these practices – farmers and servicemen.

– Consider permanent identification system in your herd.

To Do Spring Pruning

Many plants and bushes require some corrective pruning to improve their appearance, to hold them to desirable size, and to remove damaged and weakened sections.

There is a time to prune and a time not to prune, and this varies from plant to plant. A good time for pruning spring flowering plants is after they've bloomed and before they start forming next year's flower buds. Pruning soon after flowering also gives more time for new growth to cover up that newly-pruned look.

To Be Careful With Weed Sprayers

Farmers and gardeners should keep in mind that many weed killer materials will stick in the equipment for years. This is especially true of all forms of 2, 4-D. Sprayers in which this material has been used should be kept only for weed spraying, or very carefully cleaned. The use of very hot water and household ammonia (1 part of ammonia to 100 parts of hot water) is suggested; this mixture should be allowed to stand for 24 hours in the equipment and then sprayed out. Extreme care should be taken with this cleaning job after each herbicide treatment.

The safest method is to have separate sprayers for weed killers. Over the years I can recall a number of tobacco and vegetable plants that have been damaged because a sprinkling can or sprayer used last fall was not thoroughly cleaned.

To Practice Lawn Mowing Safety

Lawn grasses are growing rapidly now. Bluegrasses push-up their seed heads, making cutting more difficult, clogging mowers, using more power to operate and causing more accidents.

Unsafe operation of power lawnmowers leads to 75,000 mowing accidents every year according to the National Safety Council. Unfortunately most of the injuries occur to the hands and feet of boys and girls.

Follow common sense safety rules in operating these power machines: wear sturdy shoes; keep hands and feet away from moving parts; never mow while the grass is wet from dew or rain. Always insist that the engine is shut off when servicing, adjusting or cleaning under the machine. Accidents cannot happen from moving parts...if there is no power available.

The Joys Of Being A Farmer Boy

Recently several samples of writing came to our desk entitled, "The Joys of Being a Farmer Boy". These samples captured the personal feeling many of us have had as we grew up on the farm. The accompanying letter said, "Our son Daniel who loves to read and write is 13 years old. He is an Amish boy from a family of eight boys on a 160-acre farm in Franklin County along the Blue Mountain. It seems like there is always something agoing and we thought perhaps you would be interested in hearing some of the farm life. He is dependable in his schoolwork and chores."

Yes we were interested, and we thought our readers may get a good feeling from the boy's viewpoint too. So here is the first article in a series of six by Daniel Luke Fisher, son of Mr. & Mrs. Ben Fisher, RD 1, Newburg, Franklin County, entitled,

"The Joys of Being a Farmer Boy"

"Giddap!" is a very comman word on this farm since we farm with mules. Some of the mules are big, some are small. Some are shy, some are bold. We have nine altogether. There is Jake, Kate, Jenny, Jack, Mamie, Jill, Pete, Queeny, and Jane.

Jane is the one that Mom is always afraid will run away.

But there is one thing the she won't do and that is run away with Mark driving. She does with Matthew but not with Mark. One time Mark was driving her and she started going real fast. He slapped her so she would run away because he wanted some excitement. But she soon slowed down.

One time Jack and Queeny ran away for Mark. They headed straight for a telephone pole. Jack went on one side and Queeny on the other. They crashed right in the pole and the wagon tongue snapped.

We use Jill to haul manure out of the cow stable. We have a long rope connected from Jill to a fork in the cow stable. Dad hollers "All right!" I give Jill a kick in the ribs to get her moving. She slowly walks along out till she feels the pull of the rope, then she starts going fast. She goes till the end of the trail which she made by herself by going along there.

When she is almost at the end of the trail she goes slower and slower till Dad hollers "Whoa!". Then she slowly turns around.

When the manure spreader is full, I jump off her back and hook her up with the other mules at the spreader.

One time Ben and Dad hooked up Mamie to the rope to see how well she pulls. She went along till she felt the pull of the rope. Then she went tearing down the meadow with Ben hanging on. He got her stopped though.

Working with mules is a very enjoyable thing to do.

We have already driven Mamie to school in the pony cart.

Sometimes we all go riding up to the mountain with mules and ponies and horses or whatever else is handy.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE LANGUAGE THE SPIRIT SPEAKS

May 11, 1986

Background Scripture: Acts 1:4-8; 2:1-21; 13:1-12.
Devotional Reading: John 16:12-15.

Many Christians don't know what to do with Pentecost. It is an experience they have never had. Furthermore, they're not even sure they would want it if it were offered them. Essentially, as presented in Acts 2, Pentecost is an ecstatic experience and ecstasy, particulary spiritual ectasy, is a rather rare commodity in standard brand Christianity where there is a kind of common, unspoken understanding that, if you feel some ecstasy coming on, take a deep breath and try to hold it until it passes. Fearing the consequences of religious emotional excess, we have pretty well eliminated the emotional dimension of religion in many churches.

INSPIRED CONTROL

As a result, many Christians are bored by a religious lifestyle that so tightly reigns in all emotion that it is always "safe" and correspondingly impotent to lift us out or above ourselves. At the same time, we both covet the apparent power of the spiritually less inhibited and remain eternally vigilant lest anything, including the Spirit of God, causes us to lose control of our normal detached demeanor.

Is there no middle ground between these two apparent extremes? I believe Pentecost indicates that there is. That which makes Acts 2 a Pentecostal experience is not that the disciples of Jesus were "out of control" with religious ecstasy, but that they were under the precise inspiration of the Holy Spirit. The experience was not one of chaos, but of an inspired order. This was not a case of each worshipper "doing his own thing," but doing God's "thing" under the direction of the Spirit.

Furthermore, many people have a picture in their minds of Pentecostal Christians speaking ecstatically in unintelligible sounds or tongues. But, if you read carefully Acts 2 you will find that the tongues in which these people were found speaking were not unintelligible tongues but bona fide languages that could be and were understood by many people in the vicinity. No less than three times the writer of Acts tells us "each one heard them speaking in his own language" (2:6,8,11) and goes on to list the different languages that were recognized.

INSPIRED POWER

The essence of the Pentecostal experience, therefore, was not ecstasy for its own sake or exhibitionism, but power to witness to the saving grace of God. The "tongues" were intended, not to point to those who uttered them or to say, "Look what we can do!" but to point to God and say "Look what He has done and is doing!" The Spirit had the worshippers speak in intelligible tongues so that others could be edified, not mystified.

In other words, Pentecost gave the disciples the power to speak of God in Christ to people in words they could understand.

BCS tillers do a lot more than till. Because the tiller can be replaced by a lot of other implements. Like a snow blower. Or a lawn mower. Or a sickle-bar cutter. And it only takes a few minutes to make the change. But you really have to see it to appreciate it.

Come in and check out this mechanical masterpiece. Ask to see the BCS in action. BCS

Tests Reveal No Heptachlor Contamination in School Lunch Beef

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture today reported that testing of school lunch ground beef for heptachlor residues show that none of the 222 samples contained illegal levels of the pesticide. As a result, USDA is releasing all ground beef products placed on hold in late March when the testing began.

USDA initiated the testing of school-lunch ground beef and some commercial beef products after the Food and Drug Administration discovered heptachlor in milk from dairy herds in Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

"The results indicate that consumers need not be concerned that meat products destined for use in the National School Lunch Program are contaminated," said Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

On March 25, USDA placed a hold on ground beef processed for the school lunch program by five plants known to have received animals or raw meat from the affected area. The holding and testing of products from these plants was initiated as a precautionary measure; USDA had no direct evidence that products from the plants were contaminated.

According to Houston, the testing of commercial meat and poultry products for heptachlor is continuing. A sampling program to monitor beef, hogs, sheep and poultry for heptachlor residues in slaughter plants in Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas will continue at least through May.

Results to date have identified 14 out of 625 meat samples that contained violative levels of heptachlor.

"Since our testing has been targeted at school lunch and commercial meat products likely to have come from the contaminated area, the results indicate there is no widespread contamination of the meat supply," said Houston.

USDA has initiated procedures for assuring that animals from herds identified as being contaminated with heptachlor do not reach market channels.

Chernobyl Disaster Affects Farm Prices

of those same crops the farmers are currently producing in the field.

Michael Orndorff is the PFA's agent for futures trading. While Pennsylvania farmers are tuned into the weather conditions to find out if it's the right time to plow, plant or harvest. Orndorff is tuned into an electronic system hooked up by a satellite dish outside the Camp Hill office. The satellite transmits futures prices as they are listed on the Chicago Board of Trade and The Chicago Mercantile Exchange. These reports help indicate Orndorff whether it's the right time to contract for a future sale. While a farmer watches the weather for signs of a coming situation, Orndorff sits in his office without a window and watches what he calls his "window to the world," a screen that reports the future prices of beans, wheat, livestock. His job is to advise and lock in contracts for members of Pennsylvania Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association (PACMA) who use his brokerage service.

"The market waits for no man," Orndorff says. Forward pricing means locking in a contract for future delivery of a commodity. Forward pricing is contracting to sell a quality product, at a locked-in price, at an agreed upon place, at a future time. Forward pricing may seem like speculation, because it happens on paper with no real exchange of goods or money; however, forward pricing is as legally binding as an actual exchange of goods. Waiting to go to market with a product is speculating, because the farmer has to sell at the market price.

Orndorff explains that last week's jump and the subsequent decline in the futures price of wheat was caused by a number of factors besides the Chernobyl incident. "Because the old wheat crop was discounted and oversold and there were more sellers than buyers," Orndorff says, "futures prices of wheat were lower than they should have been." He said the initial jump in price after the Chernobyl incident was a reflection of "short covering." According to Orndorff, the first rise in prices happened not because people were buying, but because those who had "sold short" were buying back to cover their selling short. According to Orndorff, the commercial shortcovering which occurred immediately after word of the Chernobyl incident, "pulled in new marketing" which in turn raised futures prices even higher.

While all agricultural commodities saw a futures price rise following the Chernobyl incident, Orndorff explains why the Chernobyl disaster affected wheat more than it affected other commodities: 1) the Ukraine grows a lot of wheat and sorghum; and 2) wheat is considered the most important world market grain.

The reason why futures prices for wheat and other commodities rose so high so fast, says Orndorff, is that the prices were lower than they should have been in the first place. The farm bill has reduced loan support and caller for the issue of payment-in-kind (PIK) certificates in an effort to get rid of a lot of 1985 grain surpluses. With the reduction of loan supports, the payment in kind certificates, which were anticipated during early May caused futures prices to be driven even lower than they should have been, agreed Orndorff and Ron Manley, Director of PACMA, who helps farmers in handling cash marketing.

So news of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster was a catalyst that affected futures prices of agricultural commodities, especially wheat, by driving futures prices up. Another time prices were drastically affected by news reports was in March when results of the dairy buyout program were announced on the Monday after Easter. At that time, prices for June cattle futures plummeted from 61 cents per pound to 53 cents per pound.

According to the PFA marketing division, forward pricing is a tool that gives farmers an opportunity to lock in the futures prices for their commodities at strategic times when futures market prices favor the seller. Farmers can find out current futures prices and when they see their commodities going for prices that would cover the cost of production plus allow for some profit, they can agree to a contract at that price.

Of course, the futures prices may go higher after a farmer has locked in a contract. In that case, a larger profit might have been made by waiting. But market managers at PFA advise farmers to keep accurate track of the costs of production so that they know what a good price is. A good price is the price of production plus a margin of profit. As Orndorff says, "You don't go broke selling at a profit."

Forward pricing, or forward cash contracting, is one of three ways farmers can get some control of the price of their goods. Ron Manley, director of PACMA, serves farmers who arae cash marketing their products. Some farmers might prefer sacrificing some of the security gained by forward cash contracting and take on their own futures trading account where they assume basis risk and gain flexibility. Orndorff serves those farmers too.

Farmers Union Applauds Reclassification of Casein

HARRISBURG – Leaders of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union responded enthusiastically to the news that the House Ways and Means Committee had approved an amendment reclassifying casein imports as part of an overall trade bill.

Casein, a milk protein derivative, has traditionally been classified as an industrial chemical due to its use in such products as paint and glue and has therefore been free of import duties and quotas.

In recent years, casein has been predominantly used in food products, such as non-dairy creamers, non-dairy whipped toppings, and imitation cheeses.

"Our dairy farmers get hit two ways," said P.F.U. President David Stetler a Juniata County dairy farmer. "American consumers are purchasing millions upon millions of dollars worth of imported casein every year, and then most of it ends up in substitute foods that compete with our farmers' real dairy products."

"When we're seeing record levels of domestic dairy surpluses," he said, "quota-free and duty-free casein imports just don't make sense."

Stetler explained that by treating casein as a food product, it would be included in established dairy import quotas and fees. "This has been Farmers Union's policy for years," Stetler said. "Advocates of 'free trade' won't be very happy about this amendment, but we feel it may help keep some dairy farmers in business — that makes it worthwhile."

High Tensile Fence Built at Student Farm

"You can learn about building fences by reading, but experience is the best teacher", remarked John Sengle of Centre county, Penn State graduate and part-time livestock producer. John recently attended a high tensile fence workshop at Penn State's Circleville Farm.

Farmers know the value of a good fencing system but choosing the right one can be difficult. With the rising cost of raising livestock these days, farmers need to find cost effective fencing systems.

During two different day-long workshops, students and local livestock producers installed two contrasting high tensile fencing systems.

Kiwi Fencing Systems co-sponsored the first workshop and was represented by John Wall. John is originally from New Zealand and is known as the person most responsible for introducing the concept of high tensile fence to this country. With more than 15 years of experience with fencing systems, John provided the information and coordinated the hands-on experiences everyone was looking for.

Co-sponsoring the second workshop was Springtight Power Fence Company, represented by Ken Porter. Ken operates a 300 acre grain operation in Centre Hall, Centre county and also sells and builds high tensile fence. Even though the weather wasn't very cooperative, both workshops were filled to capacity.

The workshops were organized to give the students and local livestock producers a chance to evaluate two popular fencing systems for their own use.

High tensile wire has many advantages over conventional barb wire. High tensile wire has a high elastic limit with greater breaking strength than barb wire. It's also very versital. The spacing of the horizontal high tensile wire can be modified in a variety of ways to satisfy specific fencing needs. High tensile wire also lends itself wonderfully to electric fences. By using electricity, farmers can use small fence posts and extend the spacing between major posts which can mean a considerable cost savings.

Dave Myers, ag science major and livestock coordinator at the student farm, was introduced to high tensile fence roughly two years ago. He says, "high tensile wire is much easier to work with than conventional barb wire and requires less maintenance. Also, it figures out to be a cheaper investment in the long run."

The workshops were also designed to provide practical fence building experience. "My wife and I plan to install 6000-7000 feet of high tensile wire this spring and we feel both systems have features we'd like to incorporate", says John Sengle.

John is getting out with 25 ewes this spring and is developing a rotational grazing system on his farm in Julian. "Thanks to both workshops, I have a better feel for how to install high tensile fence, I've saved myself some money already", remarks John.

The Circleville Farm is a student demonstration farm sponsored in part by the College of Agriculture, The Pennsylvania Legislature and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

"It's the ideal place for practical workshops in farming", says Bill Kruesi, Circleville Farm manager.

Staff Changes Listed by Dairy Board

ARLINGTON, Va. – National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDPRB) Chief Executive Officer, Joe Westwater, recently announced changes in the assignments of four members of the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board.

George de Jager was promoted to Senior Vice President of Marketing and Evaluation. In this position, de Jager will be responsible for management, oversight and implementation of the Board's advertising and evaluation programs. de Jager joined the National Dairy Board staff on May 13, 1985 following a position as Director of Market Research and Development for the Florida Department of Citrus. He is an "honors" graduate from Rollins College (Winter Park, Florida) with a B.S. degree in Business Administration and Economics. He earned his MBA from the University of Central Florida.

Marlin C. Harmon, Ph.D. was promoted to Vice President of Product Research and Development. He will supervise the Board's efforts in dairy product research and development including the implementation of the "Dairy Research Centers" concept at various universities throughout the nation.

Harmon joined the National Dairy Board staff on October 31, 1985. Prior to joining the Board, Harmon was senior microbiologist for the National Food Processors Association in Washington, D.C. He earned his Ph.D. in food technology from Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Kathryn McHugh will move from a position as economist to Manager of Evaluation Programs. McHugh earned her B.S. degree in food science and M.S. in agricultural economics from Pennsylvania State University.

Debra Dillon will assume increasing responsibilities as Manager, Board and Executive Activities. She was among the first employees of the Board.

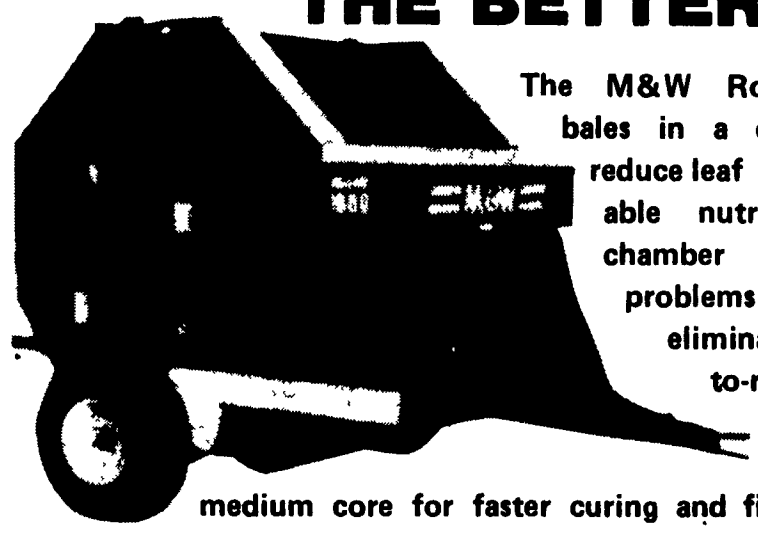
THE BETTER BALER



The M&W Round Baler makes bales in a closed chamber to reduce leaf loss and retain valuable nutrients. The closed chamber also reduces dust problems to a minimum and eliminates expensive, hard-to-replace belts. The M&W Baler forms bales with a soft to medium core for faster curing and firm outer layers for protection from the weather. Additional weather protection is available with the optional plastic wrap system. Outer layers are protected by a specially designed plastic while the open center allows air to circulate through the bale. Come in today for a closer look at the M&W Round Balers.

Conservation Meeting Set

LANCASTER – Dr. Ruth Patrick, an award winning author and a pioneer in the area of ecological study and Limnology, will be one of several featured speakers who will take part in a Conference on Rural Preservation in Pennsylvania, Saturday, May 24, 1986, on the campus of Franklin & Marshall College, Lancaster.

Dr. Patrick's presentation will focus on the environmental component of the agricultural preservation equation.

The speaker currently is Honorary Chairman of the Board of Trustees at the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia and she is an occupant of the Francis Boyer Research Chair of Limnology. She founded the Limnology Department at the Academy of Natural Sciences in 1947.

The holder of 20 honorary degrees, Dr. Patrick has received many awards throughout her illustrious career, including: The Philadelphia Award which she received in 1973; the Merit Award for the Botonical Society of America; and the Eminent Ecologist Award of the Ecological Society of America.

Among the other Conference speakers will be: Arthur Davis, Maurice Goddard, Professor of Forestry and Environmental Resources at Pennsylvania State University; Ralph Grossi, President of the American Farmland Trust; Charles Barry Wookey, a British Farmer who profitably farms 1,600 acres in Wiltshire, England using organic methods; Dr. William Liebhardt, Associate Director, Rodale Research Center, Emmaus, Pa.; and Dr. Gerald Torres, Professor of Law, University of Minnesota and Director of Agricultural Law and Policy Institute.

The day-long Conference will be broken into 10 sessions, all held at Franklin and Marshall College's Stahr Hall. The Conference is open to the public. Registration fee is $55.00 which includes lunch.

Coordinating the Conference are: Lawrence B. Kurland, West Chester, Pa. attorney and chairperson of the Agricultural Law Committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association; Henry Meigs, President of the Schuylkill Valley Nature Center; Pennsylvania State Representative Samuel W. Morris, (D-Chester), Chairman of the Pennsylvania House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, and Mrs. Eleanor Morris, President, French and Pickering Creeks Conservation Trust, Inc.

The Agricultural Law Committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association focuses on the problems and opportunities affecting rural and farm interests throughout the state. The French and Pickering Creeks Conservation Trust, Inc., located in R.D. 2, Pottstown, Pa., is a non-profit, scientific, educational and charitable corporation, whose purpose is to preserve historic sites, open space, and natural conservation areas in the watersheds of the French and Pickering Creeks and their tributaries, in Northern Chester County.

Anyone interested in attending the Conference can make reservations by contacting The French and Pickering Creeks Trust, Inc. at 215-469-0150, or by writing to the group at Box 360, R.D. 2, Pottstown, Pa. 19464.

Eastern Opens Troy Store

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc. has announced the opening of its fourth retail store, to be located at 7 Canton Street in Troy, Pennsylvania. The new store will be open for business starting on May 12, with a grand opening celebration and ribbon-cutting ceremony planned for the end of May to coincide with the Troy Dairy Days festivities.

The Troy store, like Eastern's existing three stores, will sell bulk and cut cheese varieties, meat products and both dip and soft ice cream. The store will have a deli, serving subs, pizza and hot dogs. A new feature will also be added – a lunch and dinner "smorgasbord" featuring hot and cold foods to eat there or take-out, as well as make-your-own sundaes.

The Troy store is the latest expansion of Eastern's Dairy Products Division, which currently consists of a warehouse/dairy store complex in Canton, PA, retail stores located in Wellsboro, Pa. and Newark, N.Y., and a truck distribution system covering an eleven state area. The Dairy Products Division was started just seven years ago as a simple "products-to-producers" program offering two items to Eastern members. Under the management of Thad Woodward, the operation has expanded to offer over 120 products, achieving over $6.4 million in gross sales in fiscal 1984-85.

"Eastern's long-range plans call for the periodic opening of retail stores in strategic locations to serve our membership and the public," said Earl R. Forwood, President of Eastern Milk Producers. "The Troy store is just another step towards fulfilling those plans."

Nearly 500 Sheep Flock To Maryland Festival

BY SHARON SHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

WEST FRIENDSHIP, Md. – People and sheep alike, flocked to the Thirteenth Annual Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival, on May 3 and 4, at the Howard County fairgrounds. Even a horse dentist from Kentucky elected to miss the Derby to attend the sheep show and sale.

No need to count sheep at night; 455 of the best of the flock were entered for the two-day show, representing 12 states and Canada. Jeff Ruppert of Cedar Cliffs Farm in Union Bridge, Md., showed the supreme champion ram, a white Corriedale, and Billie Andrews, of Vesper Valley, Spring Grove, Pa., showed the supreme champion ewe, also a Corriedale. The Shepherd's Award went to Randolph Irwin, with Richard and Mary Johnson close runners-up.

Purebred Winners

Four varieties of purebred sheep were judged in the main ring. The Border Leicester competition saw Randy Irwin of Triple L Farm in Freeland, Md., and John Woodward of Hemlock Hill Farm in Sabillasville, Md., vying for first and second place in most of the classes. Irwin captured the titles for champion ram and ewe, with Woodward holding the reserve champions. In the end, Woodward was the one who garnered the most exhibitor points to become the premier exhibitor in the Border Leicester competition.

Jean Woodward made it a husband and wife sweep with her title as premier exhibitor in the Romney showing. Like her husband, she also held reserve champion ram and ewe. The Woodwards won 12 blue ribbons in various class competitions. Lucy H. Conant, Overdale Farm in Chester, Mass., showed the champion ram, and Sally and Bob Young; Plum Runs Farm in Canonsburg, Pa., showed the champion Romney ewe, a yearling.

Ruppert won the champion and reserve champion ram titles in the Corriedale and the Natural Colored, medium wool competitions. The champion Corriedale ewe, a yearling, was shown by Andrews. Harlow Walker, Valley Lamb & Wool of Middletown, Md., was awarded reserve champion for his spring ewe lamb. Premier exhibitor for the Corriedale show was Ruppert. Florence Hall, publicity chairperson said, "That was a Ruppert Day."

In Sunday's Columbia show, Richard and Mary Johnson of Hyline Farm in Lakewood, NJ., were premier exhibitors with champion ram and reserve champion ram and ewe. Bob and Suzy Leib of Shepherd's Crook in Mechanicsburg, Pa., showed the champion ewe.

Top Sellers

Twenty-six sheep were sold at an average of $181.53, with a gross of $4,720. The high selling sheep was Ruppert's yearling Corriedale at $450, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hollowbush, of Fleetwood, Pa. The next highest sale was $440 for a purebred black Border Leicester ewe with lamb at side, presented by Beverly Tiffany of Ohio, and purchased by Laurel Schuman of Dalton, Pa.

FFA and 4-H members were afforded the opportunity to purchase lambs to be fed for later showing at the fair, during the sale of feeder lambs. What the judge described as "a good set of club lambs," the 75-pound (class 3) champion and 70-pound (class 2) reserve champion feeder lambs were entered by Diane Conaway of Pine Haven Farm in Newville, Pa. The champ was auctioned for $235, with reserve champion not far behind at $210. Hall reported that a new record was set with the average sale of feeder lambs at $1.11, with 45 head sold.

Not content to just collect her winnings and head for home, Conaway, a fourth grade teacher, said she, along with interested parents of club members, are planning a Spring Preview to "give kids practice before the fair." She explained that this unique opportunity evolved as a means to "give them a gauge to see how their lamb is doing. They (FFA and 4-H members) don't have to go cold turkey to the fair." Prizes and expenses for the event are funded by the group of parents and interested parties. The second annual Spring Preview is scheduled for May 31 in Cumberland County, Pa., at the Shippensburg fairgrounds.

Champion Fleece

Freshly shorn sheep shivered in the cold, blustery wind on Saturday, while bundles of their warm, wooly fleece were displayed for competition and sale. Fleece chairperson, Joan Hagerty, displayed more than 350 fleeces. The grand champion fleece was 11 pounds of white Corriedale, submitted by Nancy Low of Wooly Hill Farm in Lincoln, Vt. Deborah Ralston, from Granville, Pa., entered the reserve champion fleece, 10 pounds of Lincoln.

While thousands of people dressed warmly in woolen sweaters paraded by the wool-related wares of more than 150 craftspeople, the Moon Spinners wove their first-place shawl in 2½ hours. Nancy Roche, a spinner for the group, from College Park, Md. said, "I was surprised we won. I thought the others were beautiful." This was the fourth year for the Moon Spinners in the Sheep-to-Shawl contest. She described the second place Clover Hill Spinners as "stiff competition." Roche said she attributed the win to "a lot of spinning experience." The group consists of two more spinners, Nancy Norris of Riverdale, Md., and Jane Hyland of Kensington, Md., and their weaver, Julie Bealieu. Dave Greene was shearer for the Moon Spinners. The fleece of "Treasure", a ewe owned by Debby and Bill Glass of Airville, Pa., was used for the contest.

The shawl featured "a simple twill structure with good drape." Roche said that was complemented with the ikat technique of dying; much like tie-dying. Natural Brasilwood and logwood dyes were used to achieve the purple colors. Roche, a scientist, said the craft of spinning "dovetails my interest in science and art."

Sheila Rovelstad, coordinator of the contest, said, "after it (the shawl) was washed, it was just perfect." Their work was excellent all the way through." The Moon Spinners scored 98 of a possible 100 points. The shawl sold for $120.

Lamb and Wool Queen

Amid the whir of spinning wheels and the clatter of looms, Leslie Clary, 16, was crowned the new Lamb and Wool Queen. In response to her fishbowl question, "What can you do to promote the sheep industry in Maryland?", Clary said she would "go to different shows and promote the importance of wearing wool and eating lamb."

She tends a flock of 18 natural-colored sheep and is a member of the West Friendship 4-H. An avid spinner, she served as chairperson for the junior spinning contest at the festival. Princesses selected were Sarah Ruppert, 15, of Frederick County, Md., and Kim Cala, 17, of Baltimore County, Md.

Last weekend belonged to the sheep at Maryland's Howard County Fairgrounds as thousands of sheep fanciers turned out to take in shows, sales, wool crafts, lamb cuisine and much more.

Lamb Cook-Off

Four judges armed with six-packs of Perrier, judged the culinary talents of 10 entrants in the Grand Lamb Cook-Off. They selected Helen Nimmo's Hot Lamb Delights as the winning recipe. Nimmo, from York, Pa., also captured first place in last year's competition. Esther Blum's Breast of Lamb with cornbread stuffing came in second.

Just outside the cook-off pavilion, the air was filled with the smokey aroma of pit cooked lamb. Leah Meile of Bob's Mobile Beef, said the secret to cooking delicious, tender lamb is, "to cook it slow. You can't rush it." She recommended at least three hours on the open grill, and basting with a mixture of curry powder, vinegar, water and garlic.

Weston Farm Lamb continuously served an endless line of people waiting for lamb in pita, lamb kabobs and butterfly leg of lamb sandwiches. At Weston's the chefs said the secret was in the marinade — yogurt and garlic.

Working Dogs

If you followed your nose upwind, the ever-popular sheepdog demonstration was in progress. Twelve-year-old Meg and eight-year-old Kate skillfully penned and herded the flock at the simple Scottish commands given by Dave Kennard of New Hampshire. Kennard trains working dogs, pointing out the distinction from trial dogs. He said farm dogs have more ability to "psych out" the sheep, using strong eye contact called "wearing." Kennard said the dogs instinctively know the best way to herd sheep. It was a cool day, but after each task, Meg and Kate returned to their water pan, not to drink, but to plop down in it.

Ernest Hall, sheep shows coordinator for the festival, said the event has grown over the years. Thirteen years ago, he and his wife, Florence, were instrumental in establishing the wool festival. Hall said craftspeople were invited to join the affair, and the event gradually expanded to include sheep.

Hall said he hopes to see the festival grow to include more purebred shows, with "Lincolns possibly next year." More competitions will mean "either adding another day, or judging two at a time."

Glenn Eidman of Strong City, Kansas, served as judge for the sheep shows, for a second year. Internationally acclaimed, the judge is "among the best in the United States," Hall said.

Hall said the festival came about as the result of "the work of a lot of dedicated people." Mrs. Hall added, "in cow country, it's important that everyone knows that there are a lot of good sheep here, too."

Polled Hereford Sale Averages $742

BY BETSY STITT
Blair Co. Staff Correspondent

BEDFORD — Cool temperatures failed to chill the enthusiasm of the buyers at the "Sale of Star Performers" sponsored by the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association on May 3.

The top selling animal of the sale was PS Victoria 514, selling for $2,300 to Steve Fritz. This Penn State University consignment is the daughter of Stillbrook Gilead 67K a Superior Sire.

Earlier in the day judge Gail Long had named this Hereford the Champion Junior Heifer.

The Champion Senior Heifer was consigned by Falklands Farm of Schellsburg. She is a daughter of PRL 930K Hotline 347N, a Gold Trophy Sire, and is bred to Stillbrook Gilead. She sold for $1,475 to the Hawbaker Farm in Chambersburg.

WHF Clementine, consigned by Lu Rose Estate, Inc. of Hagerstown, Md., was named the Champion Cow of the show. Sired by GK Vindicator 1, she sold with her April 11 Renegade heifer calf for $810 to Green Pastures Farm, Berlin Center, Ohio.

Graystone Farm of Schellsburg consigned the Champion Bull, GS The Force. This bull is out of one of Graystone's most productive cows and the sire Superior Sire Enforcer. He sold for $775 to the Malone Farm in Everett.

Twenty-nine animals were auctioned off by Jack Downin with Les Midla reading pedigrees for an unofficial average of $742. These animals came from 14 consignors and sold to four states.

PS Victoria 514 topped the "Sale of Star Performers" sponsored by the Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association. This champion junior heifer sold for $2,300 to Steve Fritz.

Judging School Slated

STATE COLLEGE — The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association will be sponsoring their annual Judging Schools this summer. These schools are open to all youths interested in learning more about the basics of evaluating dairy cattle.

Three schools will be held across the state with the local Holstein clubs coordinating the farms which will supply the animals for the classes.

Each school runs from 12:00 noon to 12:00 noon. The participants will judge and give reasons on four classes on day one and six classes on day two.

The Central School will be held in Huntingdon County on July 8 to 9. The School Official will be Dale Olver, Atlantic Breeders

Crawford County is host for the second school on July 10 to 11 with Ronald Long of Select Sires serving as the School Official.

J. Lloyd Ebersole, Sire Power, is the School Official for the third and final school in York County on July 14 to 15.

Cost will be $25.00 for overnight participants, which includes room and an evening meal, and $15.00 for commuting individuals. There will be a $5.00 discount for the second member of a family that attends the school.

Registration deadline is June 17, 1986. Complete details on the schools and registration forms will be available in the near future.

That's why Deutz-Fahr hay tools treat your hay, and your money, gently.

In 1967, Cummings & Bricker introduced the FAHR HAYMAKER in the Northeast. At that time tedding was thought to be a thing of the past. It didn't take long to prove that theory wrong.

Since that time, over 6000 have been sold in our trade area. In fact, there have been more Fahr Haymakers sold, worldwide, than any other one piece of farm equipment. Over a MILLION!

In the past few years there have been several different makes of tedders introduced, but few have been able to match the quality or the gentle handling of the crop that we have.

When you need a hay tedder, do some shopping. Don't settle for a machine that will only do half of what you really want it to do.

Homecoming Weekend Planned for Genesee Country Museum

MUMFORD, N.Y. — A wide variety of hands-on activities will be offered to visitors to the Genesee Country Museum over the Memorial Day Weekend, May 24, 25 and 26.

Adults and children alike will be offered an opportunity to learn to milk a goat, plant a 19th century vegetable garden, attend a 19th century Protestant church service or attend a garden tea party.

The Homecoming Weekend revolves around home, farm and garden and will demonstrate many of the chores 19th century housewives and farmers performed each spring.

All the activities of Homecoming Weekend are included in the regular admission of $7 for adults and $3 for children six through 14. Children under six and museum members are admitted free.

The museum is located 20 miles southwest of Rochester, N.Y. It is near New York State Thruway exits 47 (Leroy) and 46 (Rochester) and is a 20-minute drive west of Avon Exit 10 of Interstate 390. Museum hours for Homecoming Weekend are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

The new Pennfield feedmill under construction at Mount Joy to be finished this fall is a $6.5 million project. The new facility will update and consolidate Pennfield's dairy and hog feed processing.

Pennfield Makes "Obvious Commitment" With 6½ Million Dollar Building

MOUNT JOY–In reference to a new feed mill under construction at Mount Joy in Lancaster County, Kenneth Greenwood, director of milling operations Pennfield Corporation said, "You can say we have made an obvious commitment to local agriculture. Our present plants for dairy and hog feed are old and inefficient. That comes with wear and tear of production over the years. With this new facility we are upgrading our technology with a network of programmable logic controllers that will be efficient and give us control over every phase of the milling operation."

The new 150' high structure with 28,000 square feet of floor space will have a capacity to produce 75 tons of feed per hour. The cost of the project is set at $6.5 million. Pennfield's dairy and hog feeds will be produced at the new location when the project is complete in October.

"For us," Greenwood said, "the new plant is symbolic of Pennfield's commitment to the local livestock business. We have faith in the long-term view, and we have faith in the short-term outlook," he said. "Our major customers are committed to the farming business. They are good managers, and we want to support them in their business."

"Agriculture is here to stay," the Manager said. "It has its ups and downs. But over the years it has done well. And it will continue to do well," he said.

Measure Fields To Be Eligible for Wheat, Feed Grain Program Benefits

LEESPORT – Before planting spring crops that may be covered by the 1986 farm programs, Donald E. Lutz, Chairman of the Berks County ASC Committee suggests that farmers obtain pre-measurement of their acreages.

To be eligible for price support loans, target prices and other farm program benefits, he said producers must report actual planted acreages. It would be unfortunate for a farmer to lose program benefits because of failure to comply with acreage reduction requirements for wheat and feed grains.

Before crop planting time, ASCS will stake and measure any type of acreage, or portions thereof, that a farmer requests. To be assured that program requirements are met, producers must plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured. After planting, program participants are required to report their crop acres to ASCS.

Lutz said pre-measurement is important in helping farmers plan which land to devote to the acreage conservation reserve and which fields to plant. The acreage conservation reserve is cropland removed from production and put into conserving uses under the 1986 farm programs.

According to Lutz, premeasurement costs $25 to start the service and includes measuring, referencing and marking out fields with stakes prior to planting. Acres pre-measured by ASCS are guaranteed for the program year.

Other producer services include measuring total cropland, field or subdivisions to be planted and land areas for other purposes. Fees vary, depending on the type of service rendered.

Don't Fertilize Too Soon

Every time planting season comes around I'm reminded of ole "Too-soon" McGoon. In days gone by, Too-soon was well known as a game bird hunter, a darned near-sighted one. Now unfortunately, his fame wasn't for the number of birds Too-soon would get, but rather for his style in getting any at all. Too-soon would go out into the thickets where he figured they'd be, then just start firing into the air outa his 2 barrel. For sure, this would scare some birds up into the air. And as if to compensate for his near-sightedness, Too-soon was quick at the reloading and quicker still at the unloading. Quick enough that the air would be so full of lead that a bird or two couldn't help but fly into some. Pleased, Too-soon would head home with his kill, but it sure cost him a heap of birdshot. "Ah, shot is cheaper than a store-bought chick'n" he'd say. But times are a-changing' and they're just not making shot as cheap as they used to.

A short time back I ran into McGoon again. Lo and behold, he was wearing eyeglasses, or "high tech specs," as he called them. And that wasn't the only difference. He's not as quick these days, but McGoon claims he uses half the birdshot he used to, and even gets a couple more birds. It seems that the glasses were the reason for the difference. Because of them he could see better and didn't need to part as much air with lead, when he could count on parting more feathers. You know, nobody around here calls him Too-soon anymore, now they're more likely to talk about "High-noon" McGoon.

They tell me its a similar story with nitrogen fertilizer. Sure you can pile the nitrogen on the ground early, that's just what "Too-soon" would have done. But there won't be any corn plants hankering for it until late June or so, and nitrogen moves almost as fast as birdshot.

Loss of incorporated nitrogen will occur in two ways, both of which are related to soil wetness. The nitrate form of nitrogen will leach out of reach of the plant roots when the soil has more water than it can hold against the force of gravity. Then water moves down through the soil and takes with it anything that isn't holding on. Nitrate, because it has a negative charge, as do the clay particles in soil, is not attracted to soil and will easily leach. And it's that leached nitrate that finds its way to ground water wells, yours maybe.

The other loss of nitrogen is denitrification, the conversion of nitrate to nitrogen gas in saturated soil. Saturation is likely to occur in any area of poor drainage where water tends to stand after a rain. Significant loss of nitrogen can result when the soil remains saturated at least two days.

Leaching of nitrate out of the root zone and denitrification are processes that can not be directly controlled. However, the potential for their occurence can be reduced by waiting to apply the nitrogen near to when the plants are able to take it up. Is there really that much of a chance of nitrogen being lost? Just think about how much rain interfers with getting that first cutting of hay off and dried. That same rain may rob you of early applied nitrogen. Is it worth the extra work to delay application of the bulk of nitrogen? Are these times when you can afford to fill the air with birdshot and not have as many birds to show for it? McGoon was "Too-soon" because he was near-sighted, maybe it's time we had our management vision checked!

June Milk Set at $14.01

ALEXANDRIA, Va. – Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine announced a Class I milk price of $14.01 per hundredweight for June 1986. This price is down 4 cents from May and is 39 cents below last June's Class I price. Effective with the May 1986 Class I price, the Order 4 Class I differential increased from $2.78 to $3.03 per hundredweight in accordance with the Food Security Act of 1985 and the subsequent order amendment.

Mr. Shine announced a Class II milk price of $10.91 per hundredweight for April 1986 and a butterfat differential of 16.0 cents for the month. The Class II price was down 8 cents from the previous month, while the butterfat differential increased two-tenths of a cent.

The June 1986 Class I price and the April 1986 Class II price are based on the April 1986 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $10.98 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for April was $1.3875 per pound and the nonfat dry milk price was $.8057 per pound, f.o.b. plants in the Chicago area.

Step up to "wide-roll" conditioning in a 12-foot Hesston Mower-Conditioner, priced under $11,300.*

Here's high-capacity cutting performance in one of the most economically-priced haymakers on the market. Hesston's Model 1150 Mower-Conditioner uses a unique conditioner roll design that lets you adjust the crop handling action to fit your specific operation. You won't find another "full-width" conditioner roll with this much flexibility.

For even more flexibility, you can switch in seconds from windrowing to a wide, 9-foot swath for fast crop dry-down. If you're looking for high speed cutting capacity and superior crop-handling capabilities, Hesston's Model 1150 Mower-Conditioner has it all.

Farm Groups Win Fight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Milk prices to northeastern dairy farmers will be $31 million better during the next 12 months because a coalition of dairy co-ops and farm organizations from the Northeast waged, and won, a major battle behind the scenes when the 1986 Farm Bill was being hammered out.

Dairylea Cooperative President, Clyde E. Rutherford, one of the key participants in the fight, told a meeting of farm women in Montrose, May 1, that representatives of his organization and several other dairy co-ops and farm groups from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England insisted on "equal treatment" when a provision to increase certain Class 1 (fluid) milk prices in federal orders was debated.

"The midwest dairy leaders were insistent on increasing the Class 1 prices only in markets in the south," said Rutherford. "They even argued that the Class 1 price here in the Northeast should be cut by a dollar a hundredweight. That would have reduced our blend price by about 40 cents, and it would have been a reduction on top of those already planned as part of a herd buyout program."

Instead, said Rutherford, who is also chairman of the Northeast Farm Bill Committee, the local organizations stood their ground.

"We told them that if we didn't get the same relative price treatment that was being proposed for other markets, we would not support the Farm Bill at all," he said.

The end result was a victory for the representatives from the Northeast. Class 1 price differentials were increased here, as well as elsewhere in the U.S. by the Farm Bill, starting with milk being produced this month. For just the 14,000 dairymen whose milk is marketed under the New York-New Jersey Federal Order (#2), the victory amounts to about $14 million during the next 12 months, money that would not have been there if the fight had been lost.

For other Orders, the Northeast's negotiating success amounts to: New England (#1) $6.7 million; Middle Atlantic (#4) $7.2 million; Eastern Ohio-Western Pennsylvania (#36) $2 million; New York State Order for Niagara Frontier, $800,000, and New York State Order for Rochester, $400,000. Total, including Order 2 — $31.1 million.

"We hear much discussion about negative things that happen in our industry, such as the bankruptcy of NEDCO, but not much about the good things," said Rutherford. "The co-ops and our allies were successful in keeping $31 million in farmers' milk checks in this region, and that means ALL farmers, including those not belonging to cooperatives."

York County Farmers May Have Pleasant Surprise on Reassessment

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Staff Correspondent

YORK — York County farmers worried about the upcoming reassessment of their farmland for taxing valuation might be in line for a pleasant surprise.

A court ordered reassessment of county farmland begins this month. While fair market values seem likely to raise taxes on farmland in many areas, farmers who opt for preferential taxing, via the state's Clean and Green Act, could see their final property tax bill drop.

That's the prediction of the father-son team of David and Robert Barr, former Centre County dairymen and owners of 21st Century Appraisals. Their firm has been hired by the county to handle the reassessment of farmland parcels of ten acres and over, which will continue through December. The firm has been gathering background information on the soil capability of each parcel since November.

While the Clean and Green legislation, or Act 319, has been law for several years, relatively few farmers have signed into the program. In exchange for having their property taxed solely on its production capability, landowners basically agree not to sell parcels off for development.

Clean and Green preferential tax treatment for farmland came into being in the 1970's. Some farmers in the rapidly developing areas in Bucks County were receiving tax bills based on potential development market values of $5-8,000 per acre.

Purpose of the legislation is to retain the state's farmland, and discourage the development of highly productive soils. In return for lowered taxes, landowners agree to keep the land in agriculture.

A landowner who does opt to develop a parcel, after enrolling in the Clean and Green preferential tax program, pays a penalty of up to seven years tax rollback on the fair market value over the farmland value, plus interest of six percent.

There are exceptions which allow a farmland owner to split off a piece of property, at no tax penalty. A plot can be transferred or separated to another party and retain preferential tax status, if it remains in farming. If the new owner alters the land's use, he pays the tax rollback.

A two-acre clause also allows limited annual split-offs, to a maximum of ten percent or ten acres of the total property, whichever is less. This permits the splitting off, for instance, of a building site to a child. However, the owner of such a residential split-off must continue to occupy the house, or tax penalties will be incurred.

To reassure landowners concerned over the ramifications of reassessment and Clean and Green signup, Wayne Fleming, assessor for Washington County, related his experiences there with farmland reappraisal in 1980 during a recent meeting at Red Lion High School. Of 7,000 parcels with Clean and Green signup potential, 4,000 enrolled the first year. An additional 1,000 signed up the second year.

While a few did receive tax increases, Fleming noted that the majority of property owners saw a 60 percent difference between fair market valuation and the Clean and Green, or farmland use, valuation and the "advantage was apparent."

Assessors gathering information on farms will drive vehicles marked with 21st Century Appraisals identification and will carry personal I.D.'s as well. Along with a standard series of questions, assessors will ask if property owners would like them to look through the home, although owners are not obligated to admit them. All buildings will be measured and a photograph of the buildings taken.

"We will try to identify what the farm is used for: dairy, hogs, horses, etc.," explained Robert Barr. "The Extension Service has asked us to do that."

In March, 1987, initial notices of fair market and Clean and Green tax values will be sent to landowners. A series of informal meetings will then follow, where property owners can ask questions and request aid in filling out Clean and Green signup applications, with an enrollment deadline of July 1, 1988. Appeal hearings and individual meetings with officials are planned for property owners unhappy with assessed values. The first tax bills based on the reassessed values will debut in 1989.

Clean and Green is being administered through county tax assessment offices, and not the state's Department of Agriculture. During the reassessment period, application for signup can be made through the 21st Century Appraisals office, and after reassessment is complete, through the county assessor's office.

To be eligible for ag use valuation, a ten-acre or larger plot of land must have produced an ag commodity for three previous years, or grossed a minimum of $2,000 ag income.

Open, non-commercial, and non-ag producing plots of ten acres or more may be signed into a reserve program. However, the property owner must agree to then, in exchange for preferential tax treatment, open the land for public use. "This doesn't affect ag use land and isn't a popular option," Robert Barr hastened to ask.

A forest reserve program is also available, on plots ten acres and larger, with 25-cubic-feet per acre timber production annually.

If Clean and Green tax preferential enrollment is approved, the parcel must include all contiguous land described within each deed. Only land, and not homes and outbuildings, qualify for Clean and Green consideration.

Three meetings remain in the series of sessions that has been held across York County to brief property owners on the reassessment procedure. Those sessions continue as follows, each beginning at 7:30 p.m.: Tuesday, May 13, at the Northern Middle School Auditorium, R2, Dillsburg; Tuesday, May 20, at Spring Grove Area Junior High School Auditorium, Roths Church Road, Spring Grove; and Wednesday, May 21, at Northeastern Senior High School Auditorium, Manchester.

Property owners seeking additional information may also contact 21st Century Appraisals, Inc., 800 Edgewood Drive, Suite 2, York, PA, 17402, or call 717-755-4445, or 717-755-4455.

PSU establishes ag engineer grant

HERSHEY — An agricultural engineering scholarship fund has been established at The Pennsylvania State University, the Board of Trustees learned March 15 in a meeting at The Milton S. Hershey Medical Center.

The Frank Peikert Memorial Scholarship has been established with contributions of more than $15,000 from the family and friends of Peikert, who headed the department from 1954 to 1975.

The first two Peikert scholarships were awarded this academic year. Lowell D. Graybill of Mohnton, a senior majoring in agricultural mechanization, and Dwayne M. McGrody of Philadelphia, a senior majoring in agricultural engineering, each received $700 awards.

Outstanding full-time junior and senior class students who are agricultural engineering or agricultural mechanization majors are eligible for the annual awards. In addition to academic achievement, scholarship candidates must demonstrate leadership qualities through active participation in the Penn State branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers or the Penn State Agricultural Mechanization Club. The recipients must also be U.S. citizens.

Choose Garden Vegetables Carefully

Over the next few weeks, home gardeners will stock up enthusiastically on vegetable plants and transplants, with visions of bountiful, mouth-watering harvests. How successful they are in reaching this goal will depend on how carefully they select the varieties they plant.

What makes a vegetable variety good for your garden? More than just a pretty picture or a fancy name is involved, says University of Delaware extension garden specialist Dave Tatnall. Growth habit and mature size of plants, vigor and yield, intended use, adaptability to your growing conditions, and resistance to diseases and insects are the critical factors to consider. Most seed catalogs provide this information as part of varietal descriptions.

Specific use. Some varieties are best for immediate consumption. Others are ideal for freezing or canning. Some keep well in storage, some don't. And some are fine for all these purposes. Be sure the varieties you select are suited to the uses you have in mind, Tatnall says.

Growth habit and mature size. If you have limited space, look for space-saving varieties. Each year new ones are introduced, including compact forms of squash, cucumbers, cantaloupes and watermelons.

Vigor and yield. These qualities depend partly on soil fertility, available water and other growing conditions. It often pays to buy hybrid varieties which offer built-in vigor, improved quality and higher yield than standard varieties.

Adaptability. How well a particular variety grows in a given locality depends in part on general climatic conditions, including length of growing season. Seed catalogs and packets furnish much of this information. But be alert to conditions in your own garden, Tatnall advises. Factors such as soil depth and texture, and exposure to sun and wind affect plant performance.

Resistance to pests. Select disease-resistant varieties whenever possible. This is especially important for tomatoes, cucumbers, cantaloupes and other crops subject to destructive wilts, mildews and viruses. Some seeds, such as peas and corn, are available treated with a fungicide to prevent rot after planting.

Few varieties have inbred resistance to insects, although many tomatoes are now nematode-resistant, Tatnall says. However, you can select types of vegetables that are naturally less bothered by bugs. Good examples include carrots, lettuce and butternut squash (reported to be borer-resistant).

The Dairy Business

By Newton Bair

The Fiber in Cow Rations

There must be some way to take the "fib" out of fiber. Whether we use the word in relation to human food, as in Fruit an' Fiber, or in the context of dairy nutrition, as in CF, NDF, and ADF, it's a confusing term. The confusion should be sorted out.

Fiber is an analytical term for one of the important nutrients in all feeds for cows as well as humans. In cow feed it's often related to the term "roughage," meaning almost anything we feed cows except grains and grain byproducts. This relationship is false, because nutrient fiber is found in many feeds. Technically the term refers to the analytical measure of the cell structure - Lignin, cellulose, hemicellulose and pectin.

Lignin is indigestible and reduces the digestibility of the other fiber components. It is the primary limiter of forage digestibility. The other components are digestible, but at slower rates than starches, proteins and sugars. The individual components of the fibers in cow feed must be considered, in formulating rations. They are separated in the laboratory and reported as crude fiber (CF), neutral detergent fiber (NDF), and acid detergent fiber (ADF).

Crude fiber (CF) fails to separate the digestible parts of the cell wall constituents from the indigestible parts. These components are often "guestimated," but can be too rough for a finely tuned feed program. So Dairy nutritionists use lab tachniques to separate the undigestible lignin from the more digestible cellulose, hemicellulose and pectins. Hence, the terms NDF and ADF have now become important terms in feed formulation.

NDF fiber relates to the intake of feed by the cow. It contains all the fiber elements that take up room in the rumen, but are slowly digested. ADF fiber relates to the digestibility of forages, because it still contains all of the indigestible portions of the fiber fraction, (lignin), plus some very slowly digestible cellulose.

Why be concerned about these little niceties of laboratory analyses? Especially when we are talking about cell walls, not the really important stuff like energy, protein, vitamins and minerals.

Well, since these fiber components influence both intake of forage feeds as well as the digestibility of the forages, they become vital to the nutritional balance that directly effects milk production. It "ain't just hay" we're talking about now.

We are getting very picky and choosy about the kind of stuff that makes up our hay, haylage, pasture and anything else that comes under the heading of forage for cattle.

The great variation in forage quality is universally recognized, but often underplayed in actual feeding. We still try to wing it by guessing at the actual intake of forages, based on what we have in the hay mow or silo. Of course, once the stuff is in storage, what can we do but feed it?

The big secret here is to control quality at harvest and storage time. The only other control is to analyze what you have, and balance it accordingly. This requires a competent nutritionalist, not a salesman. Unless, of course, the salesman is a trained nutritionalist working for you, with results as his goal. A competent dairy nutritionalist will insist on forage analysis, as well as an educated "eyeball" of your forage quality.

Some dairy nutritionists are giving high priority to the NDF and ADF content of the feeds they prescribe for high production. When all the other nutrients are properly balanced, there is no other way to measure the potential intake of the feeds prescribed.

Therefore they start with the forage QUALITY, and then prescribe the forage amounts, based on actual intake. When intake of quality forage dry matter is high, feed balancing is fairly straight forward and economical. The economy is the name of the game, when it means efficient production.

Dairymen Returns $17.2 Million To Members

SYKESVILLE, Md. – Members of the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc. were allocated on May 1 their share of $17.2 million in equity for the 16-state regional milk marketing cooperative.

This allocation brings to more than $192 million the total amount of equity distributed to members during the cooperative's 17-year history.

Equity is the net retained margins (patronage dividends) and capital retains invested in the cooperative by the members, and is returned to the members after it has performed the important function providing the necessary capital to finance the cooperative.

Checks totaling over $2.1 million accompanied the notices mailed this week to Dairymen's total membership of approximately 7,000 dairy farmers. This check represents that portion paid in cash at this time. The remaining portion will be returned under the cooperative's revolving equity program.

Dairymen has historically revolved its members' equity investment on a five-year cycle. This is one of the shortest retirement periods among dairy cooperatives.

"We are proud of our member equity program," said Division President Fred G. Butler, Inwood, W. Va. "We're also quite pleased to be in a financial position that has allowed us to revolve this amount within just five years. This is a sound program which has the strong support of our membership."

This equity allocation to members was made at the rate of 29.7 cents per hundredweight (100 pounds) of milk marketed through Dairymen during fiscal year 1985.

"Members can look upon this current distribution of equity as the final settlement paid to them for the milk they marketed," said James E. Mueller, chief financial officer. "We are pleased to be able to return our members $97.70 of each $100 in sales for milk marketed in fiscal 1985."

Dairymen markets approximately 70 percent of its members' milk to processors of milk and dairy products in the East and Southeast United States. The remaining 30 percent is marketed through the cooperative's 20 bottling and manufacturing facilities under the brand name products, Flav-O-Rich and Farm Best.

Bovine Growth Hormone Claims Refuted by Scientists

ITHACA, N.Y. – Cornell University scientists say that nothing in their studies supports claims being made by a coalition of environmentalists, farmers, and animal rights activists opposed to the commercial introduction of bovine somatotropin (growth hormone), a biotechnology product that promises to boost the production efficiency of dairy animals.

In a recent petition calling on the Food and Drug Administration to prepare an environmental impact statement on growth hormone, the Foundation on Economic Trends of Washington, DC, charged that the use of growth hormone "will damage the environment, cause unnecessary suffering to cows, and wreak havoc on the dairy economy."

The foundation, which is headed by Jeremy Rifkin, a critic of biotechnology, is joined in the petition by a Wisconsin farm group called the Wisconsin Family Farm Defense Fund, the Humane Society of the United States in Washington, DC, and Wisconsin's Secretary of State Douglas LaFollette.

In a sharp rebuttal against this and other claims made in the petition, animal scientist Dale E. Bauman and agricultural economist Robert J. Kalter, both in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, called those assertions totally erroneous and unfounded.

Bauman, who has pioneered the somatotropin technology, countered: "These groups cited our studies in making these claims, but our actual research data do not back such allegations."

In their petition, the groups cited Kalter's study on the economic implications of the biotechnology product for the nation's dairy industry and contended that, among other things, "entire dairy communities will be economically and socially devastated by the widespread commercial use of bGH (bovine growth hormone)."

"They used our economic study to support their claims in such a way that it sounds as if we were making those allegations," Kalter complained. "We were taken completely out of context."

The central issue in this controversy is bovine somatotropin created through genetically engineered microorganisms. This laboratory-produced product has the ability to boost cows' milk yields dramatically, just as the natural one secreted by the pituitary gland in cattle does. In a series of studies conducted over the past several years, Cornell's Bauman and his colleagues have discovered that the substance has the potential for an unprecedented increase in the efficiency of dairy production.

The petitioners claimed that the use of bGH "will require an increase in total feed requirements," thus affecting agricultural land use, with adverse effects on the environment.

Bauman said he was astonished that his "studies were cited as a basis for that claim."

"Our results show exactly the opposite effects on total feed requirements," he pointed out. "Because of the dramatic increases in efficiency achieved with bGH treatment, the same quantity of milk is produced with less total feed and fewer cows."

Citing the economic study conducted in 1984 by Cornell's Kalter, the groups also charged that bGH will have adverse economic and social impacts, claiming that "within five years, nearly one out of every two dairy farms will be eliminated."

Calling that claim "totally off the wall," Kalter said, "There is nothing in our study that says anything remotely like this."

"Over the past two decades– from 1964 to 1984– the nation has seen a 77 percent decline in the number of dairy farms," he pointed out. "This has happened without the hormone technology, and the trend is expected to continue regardless of the hormone, although bGH may speed up the process a little."

Reacting to still another claim that bGH will create "additional surpluses for an industry already plagued by overproduction," Kalter said, that the new technology may produce "a few bubbles" in the short run, but the root cause of the surplus problem lies squarely in the long-standing government price support program.

Kalter, chairman of Cornell's Department of Agricultural Economics, argued that poorly designed government programs have caused the surplus problem to persist even without the bGH technology.

"Surpluses would disappear and milk consumption would increase if we let market forces operate more efficiently," he contended.

In yet another claim, the groups opposing the use of bGH maintained that "animals injected with bGH will be under greater physiological stress and will be subject to a host of diseases, including mastitis, crippling lameness, fatty liver disease, and metabolic disorders including ketosis and acetonemia. Their resistance to infections and contagious diseases will also be lowered which will increase the probability of sickness and suffering."

Rebuffing these claims as totally groundless, Bauman said: "Scientific evidence does not support the idea that bGH treatment would incude physiological stress or health abnormalities."

In collaborative studies conducted with scientists at USDA's Agricultural Research Service and the New York State College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell, "we have never observed any health abnormalities or evidence of stress," Bauman said. "In fact, the dramatic increases in efficiency we have observed with bGH treatment would have never occurred if cows were unhealthy or stressed in any way."

A nutritional biochemist in Cornell's Department of Animal Science, Bauman emphasized that "because the discovery is new, it has not yet been examined under a broad range of environmental and husbandry conditions. Such studies are prerequisite to FDA's regulatory review process."

Citing numerous technological advances made over the past several decades that have dramatically improved production efficiency of today's dairy animals, the Cornell scientist stressed that the bGH technology is yet another research milestone that has the potential to ensure an abundance of food at costs affordable to consumers.

In addition to boosting the production efficiency of dairy animals, the bGH technology, according to Kalter and Bauman, would have several other positive effects on the dairy industry and consumers.

Among them is the fact that the technology is important for small and medium farms to survive. "Efficient farmers can use bGH to their advantage regardless of the size of their operation," Kalter said. "This technology is not capital intensive, hence it can be used by every farmer whether he has 10 cows or 1,000."

Also widespread use of bGH will help farmers to be more competitive and offset rising farm costs. In Kalter's view, the dairy industry should encourage this technology because it will help make the industry as a whole more competitive with other sources of food and beverages. "If the dairy industry rejects new technological advances that improve production efficiency, it will suffer in the long run," he warned.

In addition to this, the consumer will benefit since the cost-reducing technology will lead to lower milk prices.

"New technology is essential for the farmers to make a living and for the consumer as well to improve the standard of living," Bauman emphasized.

With the world population expected to double in the next 40 years, gains in agricultural efficiency are even more critical in the long run.

"The amount of food needed for the next four decades is equal to all the food produced in the history of mankind," Bauman said.

US Senate shows view on European ag trade

WASHINGTON, DC – The US Senate recently unanimously passed a resolution expressing the sense of Congress in opposition to the European Community's latest restrictions on U.S. agricultural exports and urging the President to use his authority to respond to these actions.

Senator Jesse Helms, Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, introduced the resolution. It was cosponsored by Majority Leader Bob Dole, Senator Edward Zorinsky, ranking Democrat on the Agriculture Committee, and many other Senators of both parties.

"The United States has allowed the European Community, through its pernicious agricultural trade policies, to wage economic warfare on our farmers for too long," said Helms. "President Reagan has already announced his intention to fight back on behalf of our farmers, and this resolution demonstrates the fact the Congress backs him up in that fight."

Helms explained that Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng and Special Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter leave Thursday for negotiations with top EC officials to discuss these restrictions. The resolution, said Helms, will strengthen the negotiating hand of the U.S. team by "showing that Congress is fed up with European attacks on our farmers and their utter disregard for fair trade."

The dispute arises out of additional restrictions placed on American agricultural exports to Spain and Portugal as a condition of those two countries joining the European Community. The new restrictions will reduce U.S. exports to the EC by as much as $1 billion annually.

On March 31, the President announced that the United States will retaliate by imposing quotas and tariffs on $1 billion of EC products entering the United States. The resolution passed today urges the President to implement this retaliatory strike unless the EC rescinds its trade-restrictive measures or otherwise compensates the United States for the loss in trade resulting from the new restrictions.

"The United States has talked, cajoled and warned the Europeans for the last four years, while they have escalated their predatory trade practices against American farmers," said Helms. "At some point, Congress and the Administration must draw a line in the dirt, and sooner is better than later. We must demand relief on these new restrictions so that the EC knows there is a price to pay for its predation, and so our American farmers know the U.S. government will stand behind them to insure fair trade in world markets."

Major Dairy Sales And Dispersals Nationwide

Reports from seven sales for the week of May 2 to 8 showed 320 head averaging $2,272.20. These sales were from Oregon to Oklahoma to Vermont. The top prices at the sales ranged from $42,000 to $702. Here is a brief look at the results of these sales.

AYRSHIRES

The 18TH EMPIRE STATE SPRING SALE held in New York averaged $702.46 on 59 head. A bred heifer sired by Star Man topped the sale with the price of $1,425. Second in the bidding was a first calf heifer by Bozo, selling for $1,225.

The six cows averaged $837.50 and the 10, first calf heifers averaged $843. Tom Whittaker was the auctioneer.

JERSEY

The NEW ENGLAND JERSEY SPRING SALE averaged $1,550 on 42 head. A 3-year-old sired by Milestone Generator topped this sale with a price of $4,100. Second in the bidding was a 2-year old Canadian consignment. This Bonnie Burn Doris Paragon daughter sold for $2,500.

The GOLDEN BONUS SALE held in connection with this averaged $925 on six calves. The highest price calf was sired by Quicksilver Magic of Ogston and sold for $1,550.

Auctioneers for the day were C.W. Gray and Sons.

GUERNSEY

The WESTERN GUERNSEY SIRES SALE in Oregon averaged $856.58 on 19 head. The top two selling entries were 2-year olds sired by Welcome Choice Admiral. The highest price was $1,700 followed by $1,450.

In their youth sale, the high price was $900 on an 8 month old daughter of Wincrest Volcano. This sale averaged $418 on 15 head.

The OKLAHOMA STATE SALE averaged $1,038 on 34 head. A junior yearling by Raemelton Deacon Fashion topped the sale with the price of $1,800. Second in the bidding was a 2-year old sired by Welcome Choice Admiral, selling for $1,750. She was followed by a 2-year-old daughter of Lone Palm Telestar Judilee with the price of $1,700.

The six cows in this sale averaged $1,331. Gary Estes of Missouri served as the auctioneer and Ernest Berousek read pedigrees for this sale.

HOLSTEIN

The FOCUS ON GENETICS INVITATIONAL SALE held in Illinois averaged $8,833.66 on 66 head. This sale was topped by a 3-year old Valiant daughter. Included in her selling price of $42,000 was a contract on the calf she is carrying. This cow also has two records over 25,000 pounds of milk.

Second high in the bidding was a price of $39,000 on a 3-year old sired by Cal Clark Cutlass. Another 3-year old sold for $33,000 and was sired by Carlin M Ivanhoe Bell.

All the cows sold were classified very good or excellent. The auctioneering firm of Burton and Fellers managed the sale.

The RANSDELL DAIRY INC. DISPERSAL averaged $2,000 on 94 head. The 5-year old daughter by Conductor topped the sale with a price of $12,700. This cow, classified excellent, produced a 4-year old record of 33,670 pounds of milk. This sale was managed by Southern Holstein Marketing and McIntyre and Wiley. Auctioneers were Marvin McIntyre and Elvin Yoder.

Farm Talk

By Jerry Webb

Chemicals or Cultivation?

If I were growing corn or soybeans this spring, I would certainly be looking for the cheapest way to get a reasonable crop. That may be a different way of thinking than some farmers are used to. In the past high yields have meant bigger profits. But with two-dollar corn and five-dollar soybeans this isn't the year to pour on the chemicals and shoot for maximum yields. No, instead this is the year to find the cheapest way to get a crop in the ground with some assurance of a respectable yield next fall. And that may mean throwing out some of the technology of the past decade.

In fact, if you look through all of the technology of crop production since the beginning of time, you quickly realize there are some old methods that aren't very expensive and there are some new methods that aren't terribly expensive. Somewhere in that maze of options is a combination of minimum tillage and minimum chemicals that looks pretty good. Agricultural Experiment Station research and farmer trial and error at scattered locations around the country supports this thinking.

If you already have the equipment there's no cheaper way to plant a crop than with no-till. But then you are faced with an awesome chemical bill. And that stops a lot of farmers. Particularly those with serious financial troubles. So how about a combination: no-till planting, banded applications of herbicides and no-till cultivation. That may sound like a contradiction in terms but it's being done and it's working. Illinois researchers are cultivating no-till crops and getting less soil erosion, better run off control, more moisture to the plants and better yields. Al Buening a Glennwood, Indiana, farmer cultivated all of his 1,500 acres of row crops last year at least once and cut his herbicide bill in half. In Mississippi agricultural researchers report two to four-bushel yield increases from cultivating soybeans planted in stubble. Illinois researchers report 10 to 20 bushels more yield from no-till corn cultivation and an average seven bushels from no-till soybean cultivation.

Marshall McGlamery, an Illinois extension weed specialist, thinks more farmers will be using cultivators and banding herbicides in unplowed fields. He says it's a matter of economics. "They can do 90 percent of their weed control with cultivation and band their herbicides".

These innovators and researchers are using heavy duty cultivators with special sweeps that work the soil just under the mulch. They say normal cultivator shovels and light weight equipment doesn't work very well in unplowed fields.

If you are not set for no-till planting and no-till cultivation there's still something to be said for the economics of crop production without the heavy reliance on herbicides. The financially pressed farmer who doesn't want to risk $20 or $30 an acre for chemicals might be better advised to do some conventional tillage and some old fashioned cultivating. Those old cultivators will still control weeds. They do take time and fuel but even then it might be a lot less expensive than heavy chemical use. When you look at the options and talk about least cost methods, cultivation looks pretty good. If you already have the equipment, and most farmers do have a cultivator, then there is not much out of pocket outlay--fuel costs and maybe wear and tear, but how much can that be on a tractor that's already a few years old and well depreciated.

That philosophy might seem absurd to the modern farmer who's used to planting his crop and paying somebody else to spray it while he looks for something to do until it's harvest time. Consider the cost of chemicals and custom applicators. Add to that land rent, seed costs and some of the other necessities and there isn't much room for profit. On the other hand if you trade herbicides for diesel fuel, then maybe there's some hope. It will take time, but what's that worth if the farmer is not gainfully employed doing something else.

That seems to be the dilemma of a lot of farmers. They have plenty of time between planting and harvest and not much of a way to put that time to work. So what's wrong with replacing some herbicides with some old fashion cultivation? Maybe not 100 percent but some combination.

There's little point in a financially troubled farmer planting another crop that isn't going to make money. So he must set a realistic yield and price goal now and then work back from there. What are the fixed costs? What are the variable costs? What can he do to change them? If he adds them up and there doesn't seem to be any profit then he's really better off not planting. On the other hand, if he can adjust some of those variable costs and trade his own labor for herbicides and custom applicators then maybe there is room for some profit.

No doubt herbicide salesmen won't be all that pleased with this kind of thinking. But surely they realize that farmers in trouble have to find some relief. And surely their commitment to agriculture includes helping those farmers find a way to make some money even if it means reduced chemical sales.

It's time for some farmers to break the mold, do a little thinking on their own and come up with some least-cost production methods that work for them. No-till planting combined with some cultivation and some herbicides could be an option. This is definitely not the year for a high stakes effort. Current commodity prices definitely call for realistic yield goals and scaled back costs of production.

Summer Promotions Mark 50th Dairy Month

WILLIAMSPORT – Dairy farmers nationwide will celebrate June Dairy Month for the 50th consecutive year through a $1.5 million dollar promotion program using the theme, "Bring Home Real Dairy Freshness." The program will be sponsored locally by the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council.

As in the past, the main elements of the dairy industry's summer promotion will be consumer media advertising and supermarket dairy case displays. Products being promoted are milk, cheese, butter, cream, sour cream, whipping cream, cottage cheese and ice cream. A special display has been created for the ice cream section of supermarkets using the theme "Taste Summer."

To attract consumer interest, the promotion also includes an offer for consumers to purchase a set of stoneware commemorating June Dairy Month's golden celebration. Order forms will be available through supermarket displays and newspaper advertisements.

The stoneware collection includes a one-quart milk pitcher, a butter dish, a creamer, and bowls. A 50th June Dairy Month imprint on the bottom of each piece is designed to increase collectors' interest.

The summer promotion will be run through the months of June and July. Supermarket displays will be installed during the end of May. Over 2,000 supermarkets in ADADC's area will carry the promotion. Pennsylvania supermarkets participating include Acme Markets, Giant Markets, Insalaco Markets, IGA Food Marts, IGA Independents, Wyoming Valley Distributor Independents, Uni-Marts, Stop 'N Go's and Time Markets.

It's No Bull

"Freemartin" Produces Four-Percent Milk

LITITZ — "Becky" was born as a freemartin (twin with a bull) which normally would have sealed her fate and insured a trip to the slaughterhouse. However, that was not to be. Today she is producing 15 pounds of four percent milk per day and hasn't peaked yet.

Sheryl Wenger, the owner of the scientific marvel, purchased "Becky" from a neighbor. At birth, in June, 1984, she weighed in at 50 pounds, half the size of a normal calf.

This was compounded by the fact that she was born as a twin with a bull. With these points against her, the neighbor opted not to raise the calf himself and offered it to Sheryl.

Adding this calf to her small corral, Sheryl intended to raise "Becky" for beef. These plans were changed in July last year when Sheryl noticed "Becky's" udder was beginning to swell as if she was springing.

"I starting milking her just to see if I could get any milk," Sheryl said. One her first try she squeezed out about a quarter cup of milk that had the consistency of colostrum.

"I continued to milk her out of curiosity. I wanted to see if by milking her I could stimulate more production," Sheryl added.

Gradually the milk cleared and "Becky's" production has been slowly climbing ever since. They started using the milk for their own use, making ice cream and other dairy products. When her production increased they found a ready market among their friends and neighbors.

"Becky" has a regular heat cycle and Sheryl once tried to have her bred. "The inseminator told me that she had no reproductive organs but he thought the horns and ovaries might present," Sheryl explained.

According to Dr. Dreisbach, a vet from Hamburg, these organs could produce sufficient hormones to induce lactation. He further added that a freemartin coming into lactation without benefit of hormone injections was very unlikely.

Presently this bovine wonder feeds on pasture and has grain available but she often refuses it. Sheryl's father, Earl, added that they are not feeding her anything special to support any production level.

"Becky's" future on the Wenger farm will last as long as her milk supply, then it will be the beef market for her. However, Sheryl commented that she might just sell her to someone else since butchering this cow would be difficult.

Until then, the Wengers will continue to enjoy their bovine curiosity and the attention "Becky" has been receiving.

Of particular concern to experts is the outbreak's spread to other species of livestock. Ironically, although the swine industry has suffered the greatest losses, the disease is actually more dangerous to other livestock. "When non-swine species are infected, it's highly fatal, whereas the fatality rate in pigs other than baby pigs is not high," Hutchinson pointed out, noting that at least four or five of the farms currently involved have experienced beef cattle losses. Dogs, cats and sheep have also been killed in the current outbreak.

Hutchinson said that direct contact between animals is the primary cause of the infection's spread. "The thing that has saved our dairy cattle is that not many farms have dairy and swine, and when they do, they don't come in direct contact," he said. "If I were a dairyman with a hog farm next to me, and knew there were cats and dogs that could go back and forth, I'd be concerned," the veterinarian cautioned.

Strasburg swine producer John Henkel agreed that the movements of all animals capable of carrying the disease should be restricted. Henkel, who currently serves as chairman of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council's PRV Task Force, urged farmers to tie up their dogs and be "particularly hard on cats." Wildlife can also spread the disease to swine, he said.

Hutchinson emphasized that PRV is not related to rabies and has no effect on human health. He also pointed out that, because the disease affects nervous tissue, the brain and the spinal cord, it has no direct effect on meat quality.

Producers do suffer losses when marketing infected pigs, however, because of the higher condemnation rate due to secondary disease problems that reduce meat quality. Other losses are incurred from the deaths of baby pigs and the lost reproductive potential of infected sows that are sent to slaughter.

But the really crippling losses are sustained through down time, Hutchinson said. While fixed costs continue, producers have no income from the time that infected sows are marketed to the time that replacement gilts are once again producing pigs.

Removing infected animals is the only way for producers to get out from under the quarantine imposed on infected herds. A producer with PRV-positive pigs cannot sell breeding stock and must obtain a permit to move animals to market. All pigs must go directly to a slaughterhouse and none may be marketed through an auction.

Although improved vaccines are currently in the development stage, the most effective way to combat the disease is to depopulate an infected herd. Even when vaccinated, pigs can contract, carry and shed the virus, although vaccinated stock will not shed as much virus as "sick pigs," said Henkel.

Vaccinated sows will pass immunity to baby pigs, said Hutchinson, but it's not known exactly how long that immunity remains. The biggest problem with vaccine is that there is no way to distinguish vaccinated pigs from pigs carrying the virus, the veterinarian said. "But the situation's changing rapidly with vaccines," Hutchinson pointed out. "A year from now we may be saying something different."

Because of vaccine's ability to mask the disease, vaccination has not been permitted in Pennsylvania. In areas involved in acute outbreaks, however, the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry has elected to be more lenient. "We're giving that serious consideration," said bureau director Dr. Max Van Buskirk. "It will be allowed on a case-by-case basis. What we do insist upon is a responsible plan for eradicating the virus within the herd," Van Buskirk added.

Assistance in drawing up a written plan and submitting it to the bureau can be obtained through an advisory team coordinated by the PRV Task Force. According to Henkel, the team will be comprised of the producer's veterinarian, the county livestock agent, a producer who has had PRV experience, a BAI official and Penn State's Larry Hutchinson.

Producers who suspect problems within their herds should first contact their veterinarians, Hutchinson advised. The next step is to submit samples for testing to PDA's Summerdale Diagnostic Lab. Where death losses are involved, a preliminary diagnosis on baby pigs can be made in a matter of hours, said Hutchinson. Blood testing requires a week or more, he said.

A House bill recently signed into law by the Governor provides $1.4 million to be used to cover the cost of the recent avian influenza outbreak, as well as for "incentive payments" to swine producers with PRV-infected herds. The money will be provided to producers as incentive to depopulate infected breeding animals as quickly as possible, said Van Buskirk. Since working out the details of the indemnity program, the bureau is currently awaiting approval from legal counsel before implementing it. "I'm confident that it will be approved soon," said the bureau chief. Once approved, the incentive program will not be retroactive, he said.

GSI YOUR SOURCE FOR GRAIN EQUIPMENT

Including Air Drying, Stirway Systems, Aeration Systems

NOW Introducing: The New GSI Top Dry System

The Top Dry Difference

1. A precise number of circular bands are mounted at key locations in the drying chamber. These bands work in conjunction with gravity and the angle of repose of grain to achieve a constant layer of grain depth.

2. Perforated hoppers and dump chutes are strategically spaced in the drying chamber floor. This guarantees that when hot dried grain is dumped, it will be evenly dispersed over the cooling floor below. Troublesome grain spreaders are not needed with a GSI Top-Dry.

3. Optional deluxe rotary switch indicates a full drying chamber of wet grain. When wired to a horn or light, operator on the outside can be signaled to stop the intake of wet grain.

4. The Top Dry system uses specially designed airstream heaters that have a HI-LO burner standard. These heaters will produce relatively low constant temperatures of 110°-180°F without cycling heater on and off These lower temperatures combined with a shallow grain depth and higher airflow (cfm) fans, make GSI Top Dry capacities higher than that of other systems.

5. Its a drying bin, cooling bin, and storage bin all wrapped in one.

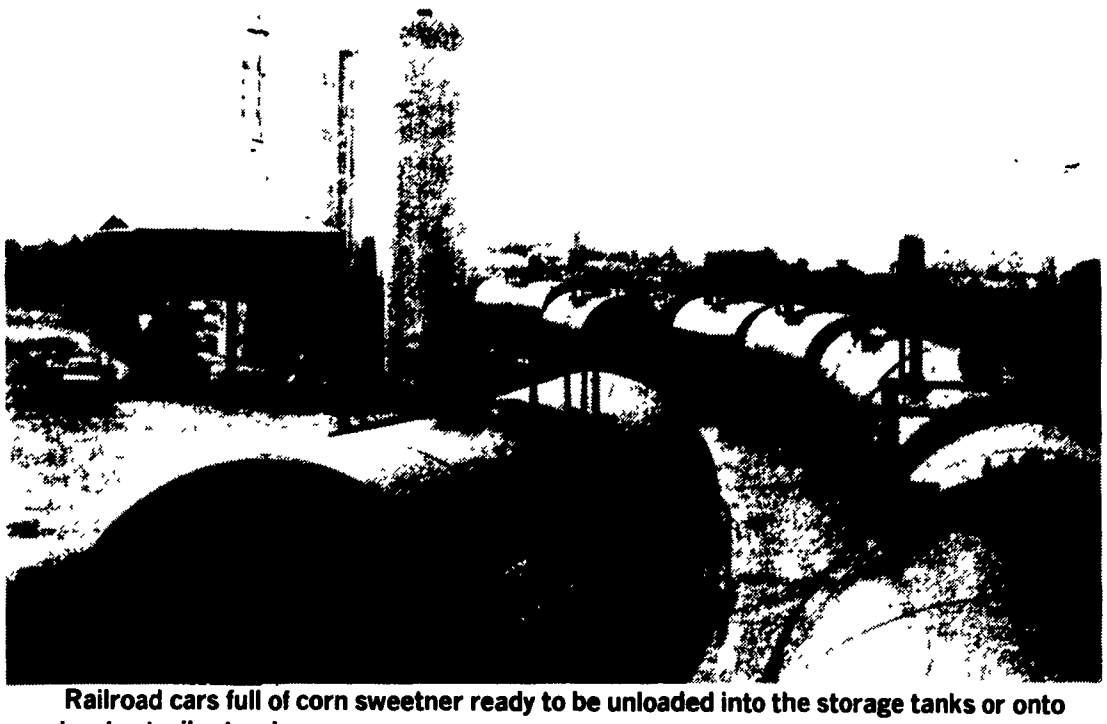
Bareville Plant Becomes Distribution Point For Corn Sweeteners



Railroad cars full of corn sweetner ready to be unloaded into the storage tanks or onto a tractor trailer truck.

BAREVILLE--Corn refiners have experienced a 7% increase in the use of fructose corn syrup according to statistics compiled for the Corn Refiners Association, Inc., Washington D.C.

A local company who only recently opened its storage tanks to this market is L & S Sweeteners, Bareville. A division of Zook Molasses, Inc., this new business owned by Larry and Sally Martin, RD2, New Holland, saw more than 300 tractor trailer loads of corn sweeteners go through the plant in the month of April. The heavy corn syrup arrives at the distribution center along the railroad siting in tank cars. These tank cars must be heated to 120° Fahrenheit before the syrup can be pumped out of the railroad cars into the stainless steel silos that provide insulated storage for the sweeteners.

The heating process is accomplished by using spent oil in a huge boiler that creates steam. The steam pumped through pipes in the walls of the railroad cars warms the syrup to pumping consistency. When the sweetener is ready to pump, a series of valves and flow patterns have been arranged so that cars parked in the 7½ acre terminal can be unloaded into any of the four storage tanks. By switching valves the materials can be pumped out onto tractor trailer trucks for delivery to the customers.

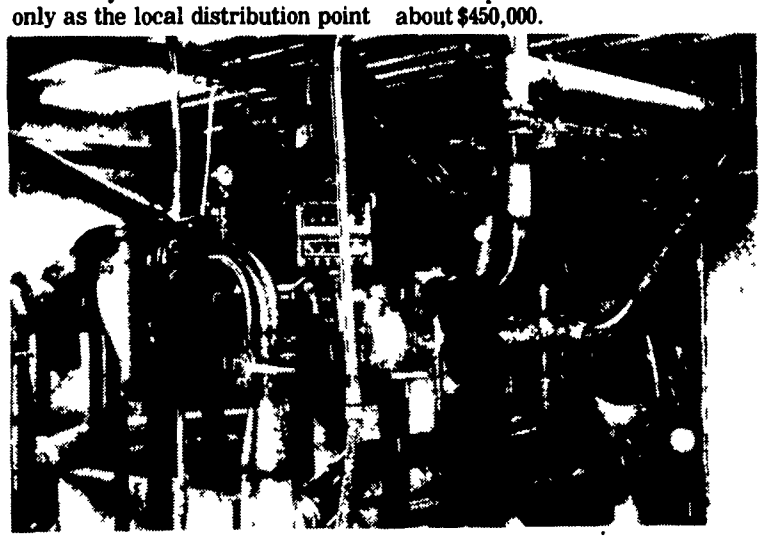
Actually L & S Sweeteners act only as the local distribution point for Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) of Decatur, Illinois. ADM who closed two other terminals in the northeast since this plant opened decided to use the Bareville location for several reasons. 1. The labor force is reliable. 2. The trucking firms are reputable. In addition, the location is central to the northeast markets.

A USDA report shows that corn sweeteners constitute the single largest source of sweeteners in the American diet. Refinery products include: high fructose corn syrup, glucose syrup, dextrose corn syrup solids, and maltodextrins.

In recent years major soft drink bottlers have increasingly replaced sugar in their formulas with HFCS. A move analysts attribute to a number of factors: reliability of supplies, consistency of quality, acceptance among consumers and economic advantages.

In addition, the locally distributed sweeteners go to bakeries and candy manufacturers in Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Delaware and western Pennsylvania.

The storage silos are 12½' in diameter and 50' tall. Coils in the bottom of these tanks also allow the steam system to maintain a 120° temperature in the silo. Each silo holds 2½ railroad cars or 40,000 gallons of syrup–that's 10 tractor truck loads. Invested cost of the operation is estimated at about $450,000.



The pumping metering system in the corn sweetener distribution center. The syrup must be heated to 120° Fahrenheit before they can be pumped through this system.

W-W's all new Renegade 250.

Here's a Shredder/Grinder/Chipper designed especially for homeowners

The big 30" × 33" hopper lets you dump overflowing bushel baskets into the shredder-grinder without spills. And a new cone-shaped chipper chute feeds limbs up to 3" in diameter directly into the chipping assembly

To assure stability, W-W gave the Renegade a low center of gravity and a wide stance. We also added a 5-hp engine for extra power, and a centrifugal clutch for easy starts

If you can find a better Shredder/Grinder/Chipper, buy it.

Farmers Eligible for National Conservation Awards

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Farmers and ranchers demonstrating practical and innovative ways to conserve soil and water in their operations are invited to participate in a national soil and water conservation awards program.

This is the fourth annual awards program, sponsored by the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation and the Du Pont Company, which selects a conservation farmer/rancher from each state and awards $1,000 to each of the three national winners. In 1985, the national winners and spouses attended a special ceremony in the Roosevelt Room of the White House.

"The purpose of the awards program is to identify and honor those farmers and ranchers who are implementing sound, innovative and cost-effective conservation techniques," says Emmett Barker, chairman of the Endowment and president of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute. "These outstanding farmers and ranchers deserve special recognition and through this program their conservation initiatives are brought to the attention of others in agriculture and the public."

The top conservation farmer/rancher will be selected from each state by committees of farm, conservation and government leaders. The Endowment Technical Advisory Committee will then review the conservation work of the state winners, selecting up to 10 national finalists on the basis of their accomplishments in soil and water resource management and pollution abatement.

The national finalists and their spouses will receive an expense-paid trip to attend a national awards ceremony in the fall. Three national winners will be selected from among the finalists.

The winners in the 1985 program were from Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Washington.

Finally, state inspectors periodically visit retail outlets to inspect eggs at the consumer level.

Addressing the subject of disease control, Grubb noted that his department's goal is to work closely with Pennsylvania poultry producers to keep the state as disease-free as possible. Discussing the special avian flu quarantine order invoked by the department earlier this year, Grubb noted that bans on poultry exhibitions and the sale of poultry through auction would be lifted May 17. Regulations governing the cleaning and disinfecting of poultry hauling equipment would remain in effect, he said.

Grubb had praise for the industry's quick response to the January avian flu outbreak, noting that the state's previous experience aided in minimizing losses during the latest outbreak. "But the virus is still circulating in New York live bird markets," he cautioned, stressing the importance of strict biosecurity measures in keeping the disease at bay.

Futures Market

"This was a mob response to the problem. It was thought there was widespread damage to the soil," Moore said. Anticipating massive crop destruction, increased speculation drove the market upward, even though the Russians rarely buy from the United States because of the high price of our wheat on the world market, Moore added.

"The Russians were expecting a record crop this year," Moore noted. Even with the radiation damage, which is expected to be less than 3 percent, the crop will still be large, Moore noted.

Another reason for the limited crop damage is the location of the reactor. "It is located in the southern part of the Ukraine and the area around it is primarily woodland and vegetable crops," a spokesman from the International Agricultural Statistics said.

He added: "The long term implications of this accident are unknown. Although Chernobyl is not located in an agricultural zone, it is located on a primary river which supplies water for human, livestock and irrigation." He supported Moore's prediction that the impact on the grain production for the region will be minimal.

New Regulations

Some animals were held due to the controversy on the branding issue and the actual physical branding of cattle takes time and may have delayed the rush, Barr added.

He said clarification has been requested since, to meet the judge's order, contracts would have to be shifted among the periods. This would be in opposition to the judge's request that the program continue without disruption.

It is a concern that farmers will either sell prior to the June 1 deadline to take advantage of the current regulaions and depress prices further, or they may wait to see what develops with the new regulations.

Prices were depressed by 20 to 25 percent in April according to Lowell Wilson, secretary of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. "Dairymen were hurt just as the beefman with the depressed prices; however, it is not as important to him since it isn't his sole source of income," Wilson said.

The Pennsylvania Association is not joining the NCA and 30 other state associations in their suit against the USDA, Wilson noted, as they realize the important role of the dairy industry in the state. It is their opinion, he continued, that the suit does have merit.

Some beef producers are holding animals that are ready, waiting for the price to rebound. This holding action will continue to depress the price into the summer, Wilson stated.

While the initial drop in the market may have been a psychological, anticipatory reaction, Bergland also noted, "The future market drop is for real and it is lower then it would have been."

Bergland summed up the beef producers' position by explaining, "We are trying to get the best out of a bad situation."

Farm Market Opens In Harrisburg

HARRISBURG – A cornucopia of fresh Pennsylvania produce awaits visitors at the opening of the 1986 Farm Show Farmers' Market on May 6 at noon.

According to Glenn and Flo Fosselman, market managers, more than 30 vendors, including four new participants, will be displaying their assortment of products on the parking lot of the Farm Show Complex through November.

Bedding plants, flowers, asparagus, potatoes, mushrooms, lettuce and carrots will be among some of the early season offerings at the market.

The new members are: Wayne Biller of Liverpool, Perry County; The Sweet Course Bakery, Dauphin, Dauphin County; Whispering Springs Fruit Farm, Mount Pleasant Mills, Snyder County; and Charles and Florence Heim of Rebuck, Northumberland County.

Hours for the Farm Show Farmers' Market are noon to 8 p.m. each Tuesday and Friday through November 25.

For additional information contact Glenn and Flo Fosselman at 717-652-5516.

tingdon County Cooperative Extension Service in 1959 as an assistant agent. In 1968 he accepted the position of director of the Snyder County Cooperative Extension Service.

Holt admires the many volunteer programs by the multi-county extension staff. He said he's enjoyed working with people who give of their time for the 4-H program. "It's very rewarding to see the programs work because of their efforts," he said.

Through Holt's own efforts, the volunteer programs gained popularity in his eighteen years in Snyder County. In 1975, he started the Snyder, Union, and Northumberland Area Dairy Princess Committee. The girls and the dairy industry both benefit because of public exposure to the two parties.

Other programs started or promoted by Holt include: livestock sale co-sponsored by FFA and 4-H clubs at the Beaver Fair, milk promotion efforts, poultry committee for the PA Farm Show, a state task force on extension organizational policy, and a state program development committee for agriculture and natural resources. For his numerous contributions to PA agriculture, Holt was honored with the Distinguished Service Award by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in 1982.

A recent accomplishment of Holt that gained state attention was his development of a milker's school in 1984 to record mastitis problems on Snyder County farms. So successful was this program in the four county area that it is now being used statewide. In fact, in the last twelve years his dairy efforts have increased milk production efficiency by seven percent as compared to the state average of three percent.

When asked about the future of the dairy industry, Holt felt that agricultural management is the key to success. "It's going to take better managers using better management tools to keep abreast of the whole situation. They must realize what parts are profitable and then develop a balance sheet to know where they are at," he said.

Another pleasurable work project was his involvement in agri-business programs. He stated that closer work should be done with agricultural lending agencies to help farmers with the uncertainty of the farm economy.

To honor Holt for his 27 years of assistance to area agriculture, 182 friends, co-workers, and family members from seven counties gathered on April 19 (his 60th birthday) to honor him with a surprise retirement dinner. Harold was not only praised by speeches from well-wishers, he was also bestowed the honor of "Honorary Dairy Princess" and presented a lamb as part of his departing gifts and momentos.

His future? Harold Holt plans to pursue his woodworking, improve his gardening, and visit his six children and nine grandchildren with wife, Vida.

"I'm looking very forward to retirement," he said.

Treat Mother to a Rewarding Walk Through a Wildflower Preserve

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

PEQUEA – Far away from the hustle and bustle of most of Lancaster County, there is a quiet, beautiful wildflower preserve that beckons. It is a place of unequaled natural beauty, and it's free. You may not be able to give this "gift" to your mother on Sunday, but the beauty of it is that it will be available throughout the year.

Shenk's Ferry Glen Wildflower Preserve is a part of Pennsylvania Power & Light Company's Lake Aldred Recreation Area, and it is well worth the trip to southern Lancaster County to enjoy its beauty. Just the drive through the countryside to Shenk's Ferry revives your spirits. Once there, you can just let the peacefulness of the area take over.

Kathy Giegel, consulting naturalist with PP & L, leads walks through the preserve, but it can be enjoyed on your own just as well.

To enjoy the special beauty of this natural place, it is best to plan a leisurely walk. The trail is easy, so old or young alike will have no trouble. A stream moves through the wooded area, adding to the sense of serenity.

The walk itself can take as little as 45 minutes, but for those really interested in becoming attuned to their surroundings, it could take over two hours. Set your own pace and just enjoy.

Kathy points out that each day there are different flowers, so it's worth more than one visit. Now spring flowers are in full array, but beginning in June, the fields and hills will take on a different look as summer flowers take over.

If you would like to learn while you're enjoying the slower pace and the solitude, Kathy suggests that you take a wildflower identification book along. If you find something especially intriguing and don't have a book, she suggests making a sketch of it and checking when you return to civilization.

Many books have keys to help with identification of plants, but Kathy notes that the shape and color of a flower are the starting point in identifying any wildflower. The leaves can also help make a positive identification possible. Kathy suggests carrying a small book on the trail, but there are some very complete thicker, heavier books available.

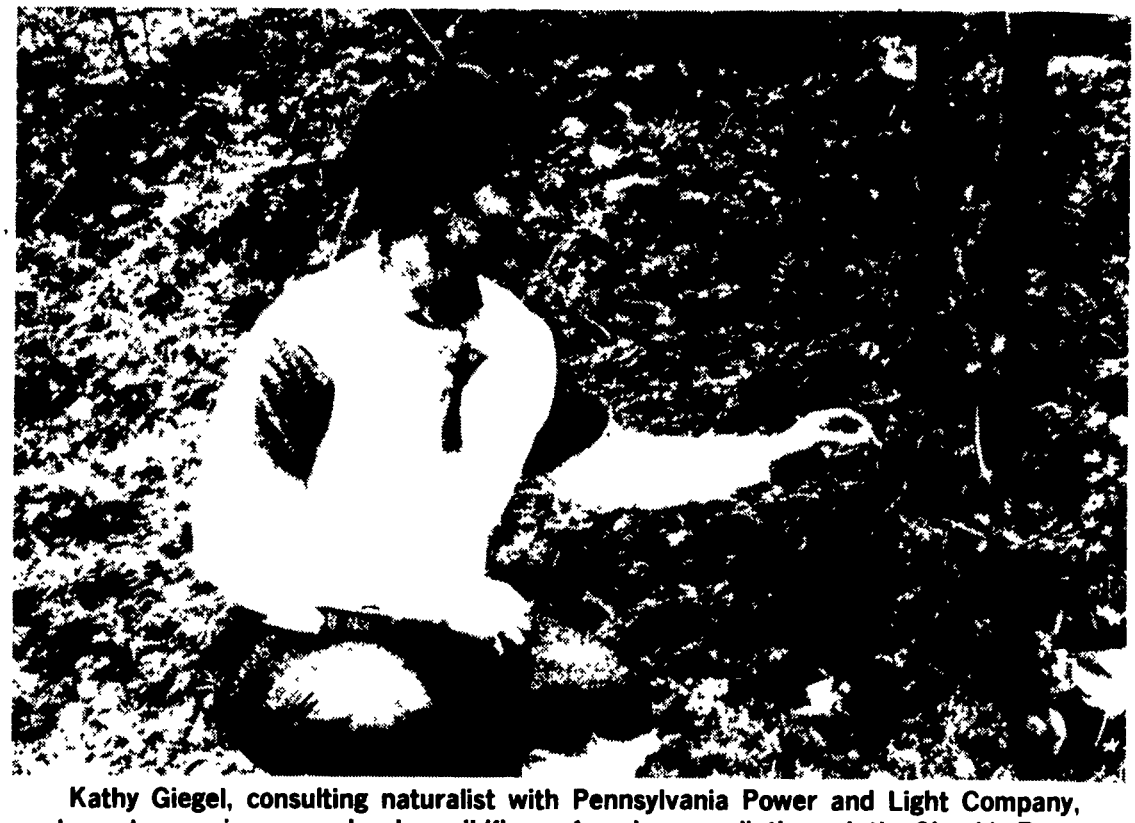
She notes, "Don't be afraid to ask someone you meet on the trail. Most people will be glad to help identify a plant or may have an idea about what something may be."

Kathy said that one school class visited the glen with identification books in hand and managed to identify over 70 different plants as they walked the trail.

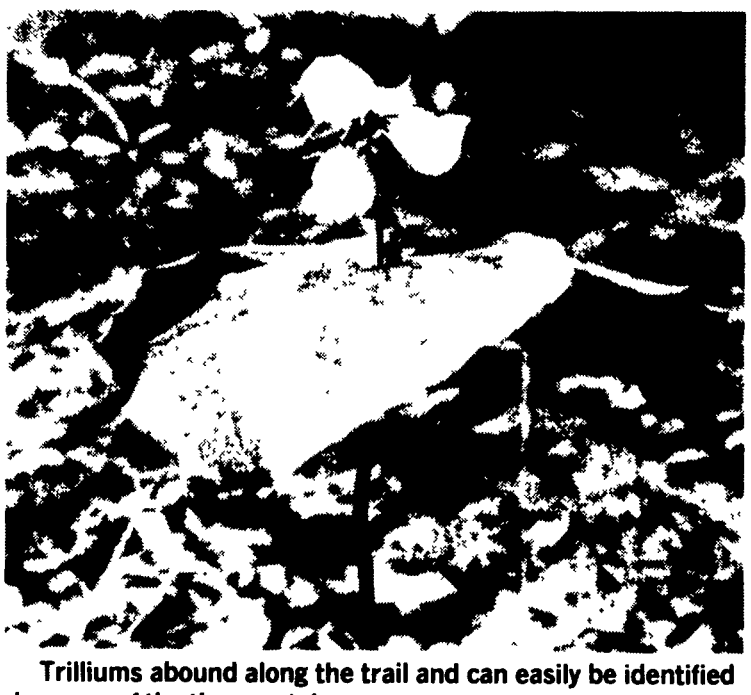
Kathy also pointed out that soil and weather can affect the appearance of a plant and its flowers, thus making identification a little more difficult.

The most important part of taking a wildflower walk is to "take your time," Kathy reminds visitors. "A wildflower walk should not be rushed. Enjoy the beauty."

Sundays are the fullest days for the Wildflower Preserve, so if you can find time in your schedule, a weekday may offer a quieter walk.



Kathy Giegel, consulting naturalist with Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, stoops to examine more closely a wildflower found on a walk through the Shenk's Ferry Wildflower Preserve near Lake Aldred recreation area. Kathy points out that shape and color are the two most important ways to identify an unknown flower.



Trilliums abound along the trail and can easily be identified because of the three petals.

The variety of flowers to be found in this secluded glen is amazing, but it does take some close searching among the plants. Kathy notes that as the season goes on more weeds are growing and it is harder to find the flowers.

Kathy said there are four kinds of violets to be found in the woods. Deep blue ones and white ones can be found in abundance. Kathy pointed out that on the white ones the bottom petals have black veins, which the bees like because they use it as a runway to guide them directly into the nectar.

Masses of Virginia bluebells greet the visitor, and Kathy explained that they were first found in colonial America in what is now Massachusetts. Much earlier it was known as Northern Virginia; hence the name.

On sunny days, the hillsides are filled with "spring beauties" which feature a root system that is capable of spreading rapidly.

Each plant has some beauty, and Kathy pointed out, "Even dandelions have some good about them. The flowers are prized to make wines, the juice from the stem is said to cure liver problems and the leaves are good for salads."

As hikers go along the trail and look over the hilly slopes, their eyes are treated to fields of blue phlox. These are also known as Wild Sweet William, and make a lovely carpet across the hills in this deep wooded area.

The unusual characteristics of the Jack-in-the-pulpit can be seen here. Upon close inspection the flower which forms the "jack" can be identified in his "pulpit."

Mayapples were in abundance, and the buds were just about to burst forth on some of the plants. Sometimes the buds were hidden by other foliage, so visitors will need to look closely to find the flowers as the weeks progress.

Wild geraniums were just beginning to be seen, with beautiful flowers and the familiar greenery which denotes geraniums.

The small group which hiked last week included several "eagle eyed" walkers who could spot interesting flowers along the way. Some investigation and discussion was required to make identification. Hepatica was one little known flower they found. Kathy noted that it is a rare plant and was once endangered. She said it is often mistakenly confused with spring beauty.

There were true Solomon seals and false Soloman seals, with the differences noted in each. Jack-in-the-pulpits were in abundance with their unusual shapes. A kidneyleaf buttercup was identified, as was golden ragwort, goldenseal, corydalis, cut-leaved toothwort, and saxifrage. Among the more common plants identified were sedum, chickweed, wild strawberries and lamb's ear.

Kathy will be at the Preserve on Sunday afternoon, May 18, beginning at 1 p.m., as well as Thursday mornings, May 15 and May 22, at 10 a.m. Anyone interested can meet at the Shenk's Ferry parking area, located one mile north of Pequea off Shenk's Ferry Road. For more information, call 284-2278.

Give your mother (or yourself) a long-lasting treat this year. Take the time to enjoy the solitude and unusual beauty of Shenk's Ferry Glen Wildflower Preserve. It's free and requires no appointment. Most importantly, it is sure to refresh your spirits — as often as you take the time to visit.

The solitude of the Shenk's Ferry Wildflower Preserve can be felt somewhat in this picture with the fields and stream. Blue Phlox cover the banks on both sides of the stream. Peace and quiet are not disturbed on this beautiful sanctuary.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Sad. We live in such a crisis world.

Nuclear plant disasters — with little information or facts. Repeated failures suddenly tarnishing our ambitious space program. Earthquakes (even another little one in our own backyard). Bombings. Shootings. Terrorism.

I've never paid much personal attention to the terrorism crisis. It was too far away. Terrorism was a problem in Greece, in Libya, in the general region we label the Middle East.

That's all changed. Not just for me, but I suspect for 19 friends as well.

Last Saturday's layover in the Atlanta, Ga., airport began as routine time-killing between flights. This was the last leg of a week-long cultural exchange with an Alabama high school and all 20 of us were weary from a hectic, but memorable, embrace with Southern Hospitality. Spirits were high, in spite of fatigue.

Gathering at the gate to prepare for boarding, we suddenly found our party, along with all other passengers on the flight to Baltimore, being hurriedly herded, not onto our plane, but downstairs and into waiting buses.

Grim, worried looks crossed many faces. Puzzlement and aggravation marked others.

Our flight had just become the target of a bomb threat. A sabotage alert. Of the hundreds of flights that leave this busiest airport in the country every day, our number had come up.

We were suddenly, unexpectedly, frightfully, innocently, big money players in the Looney Bin Lottery of terrorism.

Slowly, the trio of buses wound its way through the maze of terminals, warehouses and giant jet airline traffic. At the distant edge of the tarmac, our luggage waited on tram haulers. We would each have to claim our own bags. While we waited, we joked about searches through dirty laundry and bags stuffed so full they'd never again be secured if we zipped them open.

Ambulances, firefighting equipment, police vehicles, men dressed in dark suits and carrying tiny radios hovered around. To the credit of both harried airline officials and delayed travelers, everyone was courteous, cooperative and extremely understanding.

The wait dragged on as luggage was reclaimed and then returned to the trams for reloading. Meanwhile, our plane was being carefully searched, isolated at a distance from people, buildings, and other traffic. Freight, mail, all other cargo intended for the flight was removed.

And from the back of our bus came the plaintive voice of a child: "I don't want to die, Daddy."

This account, needless to say, has a happy ending. Just an hour and a quarter after our scheduled departure time, we soared over the green and reddish ground patchwork of Georgia's farm country, headed home.

The fact that one gentlemen passenger just a few rows ahead of our group could have passed as a twin to Moammar Khadafy is probably an irrelevant bit of information.

Not all people, tragically, are as fortunate as were the passengers of that flight. Accounts of senseless terrorism continue almost daily in our headlines.

But we still are no closer than we were one week ago to an answer to our most basic question.

Why?

Poultry Queen Candidates Sought

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Poultry Association is seeking contestants for this year's Poultry Queen Pageant, scheduled for Aug. 8 at the Farm and Home Center.

To enter, contestants must be single, under the age of 23 at the time of the banquet and should have completed their junior year in high school.

Potential candidates should contact Milton Landis, R2, Box 347, Parkesburg, PA 19365.

The pageant winner will receive either a $500 educational scholarship or $300 in cash for future endeavors. The runner-up will receive either a $300 educational scholarship or $150 in cash for future endeavors.

NJ FFA to Hold Annual Convention May 15 to 17

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — The New Jersey FFA is celebrating its 57th Annual State Convention May 15 to 17 at Loree Auditorium, Cook College, Rutgers University, New Brunswick. During the three-day convention vocational agricultural/FFA members gather to be honored with awards for achievements through the year as well as to conduct business of the Association.

This year the National FFA president, Rick Malir, will be present to encourage members and guests to achieve their goals. Honorable Raymond J. Zane, State Senator, will be this year's convention speaker.

Two official delegates from each of the 41 State FFA Chapters will represent their membership to vote on business at the convention. Key issues for the 1986 convention will be making constitutional changes, setting events and dates for activities, setting of dues and contest fees, and electing 1986-87 State Officers.

Recognition to chapters will include safety awards, community service (Building Our American Communities), superior chapter and a most improved chapter awards. This year an award will be presented to the FFA Chapter raising the most money for the refurbishment of the Statue of Liberty.

The highest state FFA degree, Garden State FFA Degree, will be presented to 25 FFA members who have qualified because of their leadership and occupational achievement. Over $5,000 in awards will be distributed to FFA members through the New Jersey FFA Foundation, National Foundation and FFA Association. Money is donated to the foundations by individuals and business and industry who support youth in agriculture.

In addition to student recognition, several adults and groups will be cited for their service to the FFA. Four adults will receive the Honorary Garden State FFA Degree and two groups will be presented a Distinguished Service Citation.

Contests in tractor driving, public speaking, parliamentary procedure and demonstrations will also be conducted at the convention. The State Alumni Association and H.O. Sampson Collegiate FFA Chapter (Cook College) will be sponsoring two social events at the conventions. On Thursday, Collegiate FFA members will be holding the first annual FFA Lip Sync Contest for FFA members. Friday night's activities include a dance sponsored by the State Alumni Association.

Spruce Up the Entree with Tasty Side Dishes

Side dishes can enhance a tasty entree to make a good meal great! And they don't have to take a lot of extra time either.

A cold salad, glorified applesauce, or a favorite vegetable with a slightly different twist, can be just what you need to enliven a familiar entree.

Below are some side dish recipes Lancaster Farming cooks shared this week. Try one today and save the rest for your files.

Don't forget, June Dairy Month is almost here! We need your recipes featuring fresh dairy products to make our June Home on the Range pages successful. To thank you for your support during Dairy Month and throughout the year, we'll reward you with a spaghetti measurer/server to use in your kitchen!

TRIPLE CHEESE POTATOES

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
4 medium potatoes, about 1⅓ pounds
½ cup hot milk
1 egg yolk
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspon pepper
1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
1 cup grated mozzarella cheese
1 cup grated provolone cheese
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 375°F. Spread 1 tablespoon butter on bottom and sides of 5-cup ovenproof baking dish or cake pan. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Peel potatoes and cut into quarters. Boil or steam until tender.

Mash with hot milk, remaining butter, egg yolk, salt, pepper and seasoning. Spread about half mixture in bottom of prepared dish. Combine mozzarella and provolone and sprinkle half of mixture on potatoes. Top with remaining potatoes and layer of cheese. Top with Parmesan cheese and bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CONFETTI RICE PILAF

2 tablespoons salad oil
1 cup uncooked long grain rice
½ cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 15½-ounce jar spaghetti sauce
1 cup water
2 cups broccoli flowerets or cauliflowerets
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
½ cup chopped carrots

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat, in hot oil, cook rice, onion and garlic until rice is lightly browned. Add spaghetti sauce, water, broccoli, mushrooms and carrots. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover. Simmer 25 minutes or until rice is tender, stirring occasionally. Makes 5 cups or 6 servings.

COLD SALAD

1 can green beans
1 can kidney beans
1 large sweet onion, sliced
1 can yellow beans
2 cups diced celery

Mix all ingredients. Serve with Dressing.

Dressing

1 cup oil
¾ cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

Mrs. Betty Biehl
Mertztown

ZESTY GREEN BEANS

½ cup water
1/8 to ¼ teaspoon dried crushed red pepper
1 small onion, thinly sliced
¼ teaspoon or less salt
1½ pounds fresh green beans, cut in ½-inch pieces
1 to 2 tablesoons oil

Combine water, salt and red pepper in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Add green beans. Cover. Cook beans in boiling water for 10 minutes or until tender. Drain. Saute onion in oil until onion is tender. Stir in green beans. Cover. Cook 1 to 2 minutes or until everything is hot. Makes 6 servings.

OVEN FRENCH FRIES

2 medium size potatoes, pared or not
1 cup cold liquid skim milk
1 tablespoon polyunsaturated vegetable oil
Salt and pepper
Paprika, optional

For flavor and extra fiber, don't pare the potatoes; simply wash them and pat dry. Cut potatoes in half lengthwise. Then slice each half lengthwise into thick slices (so that some of the peel is on each slice.)

Put the potato slices in a plastic bag with the milk. Place the bag in a bowl (to catch leakage) and allow potatoes to soak in the milk 5 or 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, preheat oven to very hot (475°F.) Spray a nonstick cookie sheet or baking pan liberally with cooking spray (or wipe with vegetable oil).

Drain milk thoroughly from the plastic bag. Add oil to the plastic bag, close top tightly and shake up with potato slices to lightly coat them. Arrange potatoes in single layer on baking pan.

Heat, uncovered, in preheated very hot oven (475°F.), stirring and turning occasionally so they will brown evenly. Sprinkle with salt and pepper (and paprika, if you wish).

FRESH CARROTS WITH APRICOTS

1 pound fresh carrots, shredded
6 dried apricots, sliced into fine strips
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon good wine vinegar

Heat butter and water in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add carrots and apricots. Saute 2 to 3 minutes. Sprinkle the sugar over the top. Add vinegar. Stir and cook rapidly until nicely glazed for 1 minute and serve.

SWISS CHEESE SALAD

½ pound baby Swiss, cut into thin strips
Bibb lettuce
Leaf lettuce endive
½ cup shredded carrots
½ cup French dressing

Wash lettuce and tear into small pieces. Chill for at least 1 hour. Marinate the cheese in the French dressing for 1 to 2 hours. Drain. Toss the lettuce with the carrots and place the cheese on top. Chill until serving time.

GLORIFIED APPLESAUCE

Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup cottage cheese
½ cup applesauce
3 tablespoons sour cream
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons sugar
Nutmeg

PASTA SALAD WITH GREEN BEANS AND WALNUTS

8 ounces corkscrew pasta
3 cups cooked fresh green beans
1 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
4 tablespons olive oil
2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
1 cup ham or salami, diced
4 green onions, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons parsley, minced
1 tablespoon dried dill weed or 3 to 4 tablespoons fresh dill, finely chopped
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
Salt to taste

Cook pasta, drain and immediately rinse with cold water. Drain well and pour into large bowl. Cut green beans in 1-inch pieces. Toss with pasta. Toast chopped walnuts in oven until hot to the touch. Combine olive oil and white wine vinegar. Pour over pasta and green beans. Gently toss with two forks. Add ham, walnuts, onions, parsley, dill weed, cayenne and salt. Toss well. Serve at room temperature or slightly chilled. Makes 4 to 6 generous servings.

ESCALLOPED POTATOES

4 cups potatoes, sliced
1 can cream of celery soup
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
½ cup milk
Salt to taste
4 slices cheese

Slice potatoes into a greased casserole dish. Mix the soup, cream cheese and milk together. Pour mixture over potatoes. Bake at 350°F. for ½ hour; add cheese slices to top and bake an additional ½ hour or until potatoes are tender.

Jan Elliott
Lancaster

In little more time than it takes to boil plain long grain rice, you can create a colorful, nutritious side dish to liven up even the dullest of dinners. Confetti Rice Pilaf includes carrots, mushrooms, and broccoli, so you need not prepare a salad or additional vegetables.

VEGETABLE COLESLAW

½ cup cottage cheese
¼ cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons vinegar
1½ teaspoons grated onion
Salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon caraway seed
6 cups finely shredded cabbage
2 cups diced apples
½ cup chopped green pepper
Cabbage leaves

Combine first six ingredients to make dressings. Add to cabbage, apples and green pepper. Place in a large bowl lined with cabbage leaves. Garnish with cottage cheese and green peppers. Chill thoroughly.

BROCCOLI POLONAISE

1 bunch, about 2 pounds, broccoli

Separate broccoli into flowerets. Peel the stems, cut across vertically. Cook in small amount of water, 4 to 6 minutes. Serve with Polonaise Sauce.

Polonaise Sauce

¼ pound (1 stick) butter or margarine
½ cup bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste
1 hard-boiled egg, finely chopped
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Melt butter, add bread crumbs and toss until golden. Mix in salt, pepper and chopped egg. Add minced parsley if desired.

CUCUMBER RELISH

1 peck large cucumbers
6 large onions
3 cups sugar
⅓ cup salt
1 tablespoon celery seed
2 tablespoons mustard seed
1½ cups vinegar
1½ cups water

Grind cucumbers and onions; sprinkle salt over mixture and let stand one hour. Drain. Combine sugar, spices, vinegar and water; pour over cucumbers. Cook slowly for 25 minutes. Pour into jars and seal.

Mrs. Amos Fisher
Willow Street

RISI E BISI

¼ cup butter
½ cup finely chopped onion
5 cups chicken broth
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ cups long grain rice, uncooked
1 10-ounce package frozen peas
2 tablespoons soft butter
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in 3-quart saucepan; saute onion until tender. Add chicken broth and bring to a boil. Add salt, rice and peas. Cover; simmer 20 to 25 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir in butter and Parmesan cheese.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe comes from the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board. Last Saturday, apple growers in Adams County hosted the annual Apple Blossom Festival held at the South Mountain Fairgrounds. For a complete story on the festival and a picture of the new apple queen, turn to the story about the event in this section.

This Apple Sour Cream Slaw is another good side dish recipe to add to the others above.

Apple Sour Cream Slaw

1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup sliced celery
2 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup shredded carrots
2 large red apples
⅓ cup raisins
⅓ cup chopped salted peanuts

Combine the first 7 ingredients; beat until smooth. Combine remaining ingredients; add to first mixture, toss to mix. Makes 8 servings. (Excellent with all pork cuts.)

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't seem to find it anywhere, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION - Mrs. Denise Angstadt, Oley, would like a recipe for chocolate shoo-fly pie.

QUESTION - Mrs. Betty Biehl, Mertztown, would like a recipe for a moist chocolate or white (or both) cake to serve 50 or more people. She would also like recipes for honey cookies and honey cake.

QUESTION - Andrew C. Keener, Womelsdorf, would like a recipe for veal head soup.

QUESTION - Esther Kurtz, Elverson, would like recipes for bundt cakes.

QUESTION - Hattie Diehl, Mifflinburg, would like a recipe for making homemade soap using wood ashes.

ANSWER - Mrs. Betty Biehl, Mertztown, requested a cheesecake recipe. Thanks go to J.P. Freed, of Quakertown, for the following recipe and to Fran Westfall, Spring Grove for a nearly identical recipe.

Cheesecake

1 pound cottage cheese
1½ cups white sugar
4 large eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons flour
1 stick butter, melted
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons cornstarch
1 pint sour cream.

Cream the two cheese together. Add sugar and eggs and beat well. Add the remaining ingredients, except the sour cream. Mix until smooth. Blend in sour cream. Pour into greased spring form pan. Bake at 350°F for one hour. Don't open oven door until done. Turn oven off, let in oven for 2 hours with door slightly open. When cool, put in refrigerator for several hours.

For topping, use cherry, or strawberry pie filling or thickened crushed pineapple.

Whole Grain Honey Bread

2 cups milk, scalded
8 teaspoons salt
¾ cup margarine (1½ sticks)
14 cups bread flour
8 cups old-fashioned oats
4 cups whole wheat flour
½ cup and 2 tablespoons honey
6 cups warm water
4 packages active dry yeast
1 cup raw bran
1 cup unhulled sesame seed

Stir in ½ cup honey, salt and margarine. Cool to lukewarm; measure warm water into a large (8 quart) warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add 2 tablespoons honey, stir until dissolved. Let yeast sit for 10 minutes. This is a good time to have 2 large bowls greased. Add lukewarm milk mixture and the 14 cups of grain, stir to stiff dough, adding white bread flour. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, 10 to 12 minutes. Place in greased bowls, dividing in half; cover and let rise until double. Punch down, rest 15 minutes. Divide into loaves — let rise covered. Bake at 400°F. for 30 minutes.

ANSWER - Gail M. Crouse, Stevens, requested a creamy cole slaw recipe. Thanks go to Mrs. Lester Ruhl, Elizabethtown, for the recipe below and to all others who shared cabbage slaw recipes.

Creamy Cabbage Slaw

1 medium head cabbage, grated
1 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sliced (or diced) green onion
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons celery seed

Combine all ingredients.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

On a recent Saturday, we traveled to Jim Thorpe, Pa. and spent the afternoon touring the town. Formerly this small town was known as Mauch Chunk. It has picturesque old stone houses and was called "The Switzerland of America."

On our way there, we stopped at Flagstaff Mountain Park Resort and climbed the observation tower to a scenic balcony where we had a 65-mile view of the Poconos. This lookout was used by the Leni Lenape Indians so that they could defend their homeland.

The town of Jim Thorpe was renamed in honor of the football hero. Formerly it was the home of 13 millionaires who made their fortunes transporting coal down the Lehigh River.

One of the legacies of all this money is St. Mark's Episcopal Church. It compares favorably with some of the biggest churches that I've seen in New York City. It is laid out in the form of a cross and the altar is of white Italian marble. It has an Austin organ, Minton tile floors and Tiffany windows.

One of the men who benefitted greatly from finding coal at Summit Hill and the opening of the Lehigh Canal was Asa Packer. We were privileged to tour the 20-room mansion that he built in 1861. It contains all of the original furniture and fine wood-carvings by European artisans. There are 1,000 rosettes, each carved a bit differently, which cost $75,000. I was impressed with the grand Welty Orchestrian-a roller organ. This magnificant piece was shipped to Florida each time Mary Packer Cummings went South.

It was difficult to realize that Asa Packer, who was apprenticed at age 17 as a house carpenter, died with a $54 million estate.

Troy Fair Home Arts Competition

TOWANDA — Bradford County residents planning to enter the Troy Fair Home Arts competition should plan to enter now to avoid the last minute rush, Extension home economist Cathy Bakalar says.

The number of entries will be limited by the exhibit space available; the Linda Hulslander 4-H Building at the Fairground will house the exhibition during fair week, July 21 to 26.

The 454 possible classes are listed under the main headings of canned foods, sewing, needlecraft, afghans, quilts, coverlets and bedspreads, rugs, traditional handcrafts and home furnishings. The Fair catalog, expected to be available in June, will list all classes.

A TRACTOR FOR ALL REASONS

You'll find Kubota's M Series perfect for all kinds of jobs. For all sorts of reasons. And with a 43 to 85 PTO horsepower range, there's one just for you.

They come equipped with features you'd expect to find only on bigger, heavier machines. There's even a turbo-charged model available for increased pulling power.

These hard-working Kubota tractors are built with strong, liquid-cooled diesel engines. They're noted for incredible fuel efficiency and never need a tune-up.

So put a Kubota M Series tractor to work plowing, cultivating, spraying, mowing, loading or just about any other farm chore. If you have a reason to buy a tractor, you have a reason to buy a Kubota!

All Kinds of People Enjoy Cultivating Vegetable Gardens

WASHINGTON — "Last year raccoons kept diggin' up my corn, and the worms got into my tomatoes, but I didn't give up, and I won't this season," says Sharina Price.

The 10-year-old Washingtonian displays the same sod-busting determination shown by millions of other Americans who are confidently attacking another growing season with hoe, rake, and shovel.

Gardening ranks as the country's number 1 outdoor leisure activity. Last year 39 million households were involved in food and flower gardening and the number is expected to grow.

Motivated by a desire for fresh, nutritious, better-tasting food, the postwar baby-boomers are swelling the gardening ranks. "They garden because they like to, not for the economic reasons of past generations," says Charles Scott, president of the National Gardening Association in Burlington, Vt.

Everybody's Doing It

Baby-boomers are only one offshoot of the planting craze. Special gardens are sprouting up for almost everyone. The young and old, the handicapped, prison inmates, and corporate employees all have their private plots. So do Bible-lovers, history buffs, Asian refugees, and married couples, among others.

Gardens for inner-city kids, such as the one at the National Arboretum, have been especially beneficial. As Sharina Price says, "Gardening is fun, you can watch things grow, then eat them. Besides, it beats staying at home where there's nothing to do."

One of her supervisors, David Johnson, concurs. "School, pool, and Bible studies are the only things a lot of these kids can look forward to in the summer," he says. "Gardening gives them another dimension."

Children added such a dimension at a nursing home in Milwaukee that had plowed up part of its lawn for a garden. Someone came up with the idea of inviting youngsters to help the oldsters with the arduous weeding and digging chores. Friendships and working relationships blossomed along with the crops.

The elderly and handicapped aren't the only shut-ins who enjoy gardens. "Prison inmates don't have to sit around and act like vegetables; they should grow them," says Nancy Flinn, author of "The Prison Garden Book."

Flinn, who has journeyed around the country encouraging voluntary gardening in prisons, says the response from inmates has been overwhelmingly positive. "Gardening gives them dignity and helps the time pass," she says. "And the vegetables don't pass judgment. A brussel sprout doesn't care if someone's a saint or a murderer."

Massachusetts Freezer

The gardens have been so successful in Massachusetts that correctional institutions there have converted their cannery in Concord into a freezing plant. It operates five days a week, four months a year, and produces about 500 pounds of vegetables and 100 gallons of tomato puree weekly.

Prison gardens soon may blossom under the most arid conditions. An acre has been set aside near the correctional facility on St. Croix in the Virgin Islands for a new planting system known as "Living Wall Gardens." The gardens are formed by vertical plastic containers of various sizes. Plants grow out of small openings in the sides of the containers and require relatively small amounts of water and fertilizer.

F. Wesley Moffett Jr., who developed Living Wall Gardens, thinks they may become vital weapons in the war against hunger.

Cultivating difficult areas has long been a specialty of the Hmong people, many of whom have migrated to the United States from the mountains of Laos.

In Seattle, church groups have helped Hmong refugees find neglected patches of land near parking lots, highways, and steep hillsides, which the displaced tribesmen have cleared to plant some of their favorite crops, such as mustard greens.

The spindly mustard is one of the plants that grow in the "biblical garden" nestled next to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. Composed only of plants that thrived during biblical times, the quarter-acre garden surprises some visitors when they don't find an apple tree there.

Botanists have concluded that apples didn't grow in the Holy Land in those days. Some biblical scholars think Adam and Eve might have been undone by an apricot, plum, quince, or fig, the apricot being the likeliest culprit. Trees bearing these fruits shade the New York garden.

Propagating Colonial Plants

At the Northshore Community Garden in Middletown, Mass., green-thumbers honor a much smaller slice of history. They collect "heirloom" seeds and propagate plants that flourished in the 18th and 19th centuries. As many as 312 types of beans and 29 varieties of squash have been raised in the garden during a single growing season.

A crop's yield, not its pedigree, is what matters most to married couples who tend a plot of land set aside for them at the University of Vermont. Created primarily for low-income couples, the garden was designed to help them through college by saving on their food bills.

Many companies have found that gardens ease executive tensions as well as help employees at the lower end of the pay scale. A Hewlett Packard scientist in Palo Alto, Calif., said, "My lab work is very intense; gardening gives me a change of pace and a few calm moments in a rigorous routine."

Industrialist J. H. Patterson is credited with pioneering company gardens in the United States in the 1890s. Garden-minded young people, he theorized, would make the best factory foremen and civic leaders when they grew up.

THE MICRO WAY

LANI BLOOMER

Drying Flowers in Minutes, The Micro Way

Microwaves are terrific, not only for their quick cooking capabilities, but also for the extra, fun things they can do, like drying flowers. Beautiful flowers can be dried in the microwave in just minutes, instead of days!

Here's what you need to dry your own favorite blooms:

1. A Drying Medium: Silica Gel (available at craft and hobby shops) is best and fastest, but also the most expensive; it costs $4 to $5 for about 1½ pounds. This quantity is enough to fill one loaf pan, or three cereal bowls (will dry 2 to 4 flowers in 15 to 20 minutes. If you need to do a lot of flowers at one time, you will need more than this.

Cat litter, not the green type, will also work and is the cheapest drying medium. However, the coarse texture frequently marks thin flowers like daffodils and pansies. Sifting the litter and using only the smaller grains helps.

A third drying medium is cornmeal and borax, mixed in equal amounts. Both of these are available at the grocery store, are finer in texture than the litter, and less expensive than the silica gel.

2. Containers: glass loaf pan, custard cups, bowls, small cardboard boxes or shoe boxes. The container should be at least an inch bigger all around than the flower. Several small flowers may be put in one box, but it is easier to remove the dried flowers if they are each in a separate container.

3. Flowers: Freshly cut. Pick flowers that are newly opened, and dry. The color holds best in flowers picked at midday on a hot sunny day. Do not pick flowers damp with rain or dew. Pick some leaves to dry too, to tape on wire stem. Thick petaled flowers like zinnias are easier to handle. Flowers with long thin petals, like tulips, are very fragile when dry and the petals split or shatter easily.

4. Tools, Misc.: Scissors, toothpick or thin knitting needle, spoon, small soft paint brush (to clean off dried flowers), 20 gauge florist wire and green floral tape (to make new stems), clear craft spray, and thin plastic disposable-type gloves, optional (to keep drying agent from drying your hands!).

General Drying Instructions

1. Pour an inch of drying medium in a container. Leaving about ½-inch stem on flower, clip off the rest of the stem. Place flower face up on drying medium, pressing stem down into it a little.

2. Carefully spoon additional drying medium around the flower. Take your time: use a toothpick to separate petals, and the spoon to slide drying agent in between petals. It is important to get the petals separated, and just like you want them when dried. Fill all the spaces between petals. When flower is almost completely covered, add another ½ to 1 inch of drying medium on top. No petals or parts should be exposed.

3. Repeat steps 1 and 2 for each flower to be dried at one time. When all are covered, continue with step 4.

4. Place a cup of water in a corner of the oven. Put container(s) holding the flower(s) in the oven. Leave uncovered and microwave on high. Now, how long? That depends on what drying agent you are using and how many flowers you have.

It may take a little while to get a "feel" for the timing, but here's a guide to get started with. Choose the time for the type flower you have. These times are for using silica gel. For cat litter or cornmeal, you may need to microwave another 30 to 60 seconds longer.

– 4 to 6 small thin flowers, like wildflowers: microwave 1½ minutes.

– 3 to 4 thin, large flowers, like pansies or daffodils: microwave 1½ to 2 minutes.

– 1 rose: 1½ minutes each.

– 2 medium size, thicker flowers, such as chrysanthemums or carnations, 2½ to 3 minutes.

– 1 large thick flower, zinnia, 2 to 3 minutes each.

5. After microwaving, let flower stay in drying medium for 5 to 10 minutes. Use 5 minutes for thin flowers, 10 minutes for thicker flowers and leaves.

6. Gently and slowly tilt container to remove drying agent. Be careful not to bend or bump petals. Use the spoon, to help lift out the flower, if necessary. If the petals are still soft, lay the flower on top of the drying medium for a few minutes. Flowers like sunflowers or daisys with thin petals and thick parts should be removed from drying agent, but then laid on top of the agent with the stem pushed down into the medium for several hours to finish drying.

7. After the flowers are fully dry, you can finish the job: Clean off any medium stuck to the petals with the soft paint brush. Be very gentle! Insert florist wire into remaining stem on flower, and wind tape around it to hold in place. (Florist tape sticks when it is stretched and wound firmly around the stem and wire). Making a small hook on the end of the wire and pulling it down through the center of the flower helps anchor it more securely. Spray lightly with a clear craft spray to help protect the flowers and make them less fragile.

Notes:

– The drying agent may be used over and over again, but it is best to cool it and containers before reusing. Petals became too brittle (over-dried) before the centers dried when I used the drying agent warm.

– If the flowers are brittle and shatter, they've been over dried. If the petals sag and are limp, they weren't dried enough.

– To keep a permanent arrangement of dried flowers looking its best, it should be protected from dust and moisture with a glass dome or frame. On very humid days, dried flowers may reabsorb moisture from the air.

– Dry a collection of pretty spring flowers and save them in a shoebox. Then use them to brighten your spirits on a dreary day next February! Happy drying!

Carol Kurtz is Berks County Dairy Princess

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Berks Co. Correspondent

LEESPORT — The new Berks County dairy princess is Carol Kurtz. She is quick to smile, outgoing and adamant about promoting milk.

The daughter of Calvin and Esther Kurtz, R3 Elverson, Carol received her crown before a large crowd at the Berks County Ag Center in Leesport May 3.

For her presentation, Carol sang a snappy song about the merits of milk set to music she had taped for her presentation.

"I enjoy going out and meeting people," Carol explained after receiving her crown. She added that she is looking forward to making new friends and spreading the news about the benefits of milk to many people. "Milk is very important to me," she said.

Since graduating from high school in 1984, Carol has studied at the Penn State University Berks Campus and at the Community College of Philadelphia. She is currently a receptionist/secretary for a medical doctor.

While in high school, she was active in the Twin Valley FFA as secretary and was a member of the student council, the Black and White 4-H Club, and is active in the Hopewell-Reading Church.

Her interests and hobbies include reading, jogging, music, sports and working with people. Carol lives with her parents, who own and operate a 200-acre dairy farm with 85 Holstein cows.

Sharing the spotlight with Carol Kurtz were contestants for the Li'l Miss Berks County dairy princess title. Winning by a majority vote from secret balloting of the audience was Lynette Heffner, the 5-year-old daughter of Gary and Martha Heffner, R4 Kutztown. The Heffners milk 40 Holsteins on their farm.

Alternate dairy princess is Clarinda Leatherman, the daughter of Dan and Nancy Leatherman, R2 Hamburg. She is a junior at Christopher Dock Mennonite High School, secretary of her youth group at Oley Mennonite Church and works part time as a bookkeepr for the Harleysville National Bank.

"You learn to work," she said about her life on the farm. Her parents own and operate a 147-acre dairy farm with 110 Holsteins.

Clarinda performed an educational skit telling small children about the benefits of drinking milk while they were on a picnic. "We have to teach each child to say, 'Mom, I need some milk today,'" she said.

Other contestants were Ann Kline, R1 Birdsboro, the daughter of Paul and Christine Kline; and Diane Troutman, R1 Myerstown, the daughter of George and Mary Troutman.

Other contestants for the Li'l Miss Berks County dairy princess, included, Ann Melissa Kieffer, 3-year-old daughter of Mark and Debra Kieffer, R1 Myerstown; Kyanti Kleinsmith, 4-year-old daughter of Tim and Lee Kleinsmith, R2 Kempton; Karen Smith, 5-year-old daughter of Nevin and Roseann Smith, R2 Kutztown; Jaclyn Troutman, 4-year-old daughter of Nelson and Mary Troutman; and Jennifer VanHorn, 3-year-old daughter of Jeff and Melanie VanHorn.

Judges for the pageant were Jane Pepple, a dairy farm wife from Oxford; Dr. John Plummer, chairman of the dairy department at Delaware Valley College; and Martha Gehringer, dairy editor at Lancaster Farming.

Chunks of Wood Become Songbirds Under Evelyn Yonkin's Knife

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

DUSHORE — Many people today use wood to heat their homes. But Evelyn Yonkin of Sullivan County uses wood to create a different kind of warmth. Her carved songbirds warm the hearts of all who possess them with the natural beauty of hand-polished wood.

Since 1967 Evelyn, now 70, has exhibited carvings at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, accumulating at least 20 ribbons, many of them blue.

"I have about 20 ribbons and am going to put them in a frame," she notes.

Evelyn began carving about 20 years ago when she took a course offered by the local extension office. The course, which encompassed ceramics and stone mosiacs in addition to woodcarving, was quite extensive, meeting from 6 to 10 o'clock every week night for a year. Evelyn says she learned design from the course.

"When I took the course I got the basics...I learned how to make patterns and put them together," she recalls.

Although Evelyn occasionally carves other animals, she concentrates on carving various birds, usually songbirds such as cardinals. She has carved ruffled grouse, pheasants, turkeys and quail, and last year took first prize at the Farm Show with her carving of a wood duck.

One of her most striking carvings is that of a graceful 1½-foot falcon caught in the act of landing with wings extended vertically. Due to the fragility of the piece, Evelyn never exhibited it at the Farm Show.

The wood Evelyn uses comes from her farm. The Yonkins are retired dairy and potato farmers. Robert, her husband, saws the largest pieces into a manageable size, which Evelyn regards as the hardest part of her operation. She allows all wood to dry at least a year before she attempts to carve it.

Evelyn uses only hardwoods such as cherry, walnut, beech, and butternut for her carvings. Two exceptions, she notes, are red cedar, which she uses because of its color to create cardinals, and sumac wood.

Sumac, according to Evelyn, is a little tricky to work with because it has two different types of wood and the wood may "feather." She uses it because of its color, which she describes as "yellowish." She observes that ornaments and birds carved from it show up nicely on a Christmas tree.

The carving Evelyn holds won first prize at the Farm Show. Two songbirds sit on this piece of cedar wood.

The first step in the carving process, Evelyn says, is tracing the pattern on the wood. She has a stack of cardboard patterns of various birds accumulated through the years. The wood varies in thickness from one to three inches and she chooses it carefully, giving special consideration to the pattern of the wood grain.

After tracing the pattern she uses a bandsaw to rough cut the wood. She employs a belt sander next to "take all the rough off."

Next she goes to the flexible shaft, a small rotating disc of sandpaper capable of sanding a small area, which gives her a finer sanding. Lastly, Evelyn finishes the more delicate work by hand sanding and then applies two coats of lacquer.

Eveyln uses other parts of a tree in addition to the trunk. She has several creations fashioned from the roots of trees.

One of her most unusual displays, Evelyn notes, was created from a piece of wood obtained from a neighbor who saw its possibilities and refused to consign it to the firewood pile. It was part of a tree which had grown around an old horseshoe. He gave it to Evelyn and she crafted an attractive wall hanging and returned it to him. Presently, he has it displayed in his shop in Dushore and he claims many people who enter the shop stop to admire it.

Songbirds, Evelyn reports, are her most popular item with customers. Working steadily, she says, she can complete one in about two and a half hours.

What does Evelyn enjoy most about her carving?

"Design," she says, "There are never two that come out alike."

Since Evelyn's workshop is unheated, she developed a side interest that she enjoys through the winter months. It is quilting.

"I've quilted since I was 12," she says.

She is currently working on a Brunswick Star quilt which, thus far, has taken 60 hours of her time. Evelyn sells quilts along with her carved items. She attends the Flaming Foliage Festival at Forksville, a large craft show at Skaneatles, NY and sells directly to customers from her home.

But it is evident that Evelyn's main interest lies in her wood carvings. How much longer does she plan to continue her wood carving?

"As long as I'm able," she says, "I like it–it's good for an older person to be busy." And she adds, "I just can't sit around. I've never done that."

Apple Blossom Festival Draws Crowd to South Mountain Fairgrounds

BY GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

ARENDTSVILLE — As sure as spring follows winter, the first weekend in May brings a crowd of people to South Mountain Fairgrounds in the heart of Adams County's 20,000 acres of orchards for the Adams County Apple Blossom Festival.

Adams County fruitgrowers, who produce over five million bushels of apples each year, host the festival, which includes a display of antique cars, square dance and clogging demonstrations, helicopter rides, antique engine demonstrations, homemade crafts, apple products, the crowning of the Apple Blossom Queen, and of course, tours of the orchards in all their spring finery of apple, cherry, and peach blossoms.

In the fall, during the first two weekends in October, the growers host the Apple Harvest Festival, which celebrates the completion of the growing season and the fruit harvest.

The idea for Apple Blossom Sunday started 32 years ago when some fruitgrowers and their wives decided to share the beauty of the country with other people and to host an event that would be free to the public. At the first Adams County Apple Blossom Sunday, dinners were provided free of charge and free apples and apple juice were given to visitors at various roadsides in the fruit area of the county.

But, while the visitors enjoyed the hospitality, they requested more fruit to buy and momentos to take home with them. So, a full scale festival was designed. In 1981 Apple Blossom Sunday became Apple Blossom Weekend and has been a two-day affair since that time.

While the festival boasts a number of perennial favorite activities such as the crowning of the Queen, each year the festival committee tries to add a new attraction. This year Mark Baron of Washington, D.C. made his first appearance at the festival with his scarecrow workshop. According to Ripley's Believe It or Not, Baron is the "only living scarecrow artist."

Baron conceived the idea of the art form while working under the sponsorship of the National Endowment for the Arts. With the recognition he received from the Endowment, Baron decided to take his idea on the road. He now employs eight other people in this business.

At Scarecrow Workshops people design and construct a life-sized scarecrow. For the price of $3 per scarecrow, the participant can rummage through Baron's supplies to select a pair of pants, a shirt, a pair of pantyhose for the head, a tie, and buttons and felt for the facial features. Straw is used for the stuffing.

The clothes Baron uses in his workshop are discards from Goodwill. He uses about 10 ton of clothes in the May to November season that he works. He buys the pantyhose from a mill in North Carolina for 8 cents a pair. All finished scarecrows are taken home.

Another new feature at this year's festival was a hand-work contest with the theme being "apples." Contest chairman Sheryl Hollis Snyder said the response was overwhelming and it is sure to be an event that will continue with the festival. The Best of Show Award went to a counted-crossstitch sampler done by Elizabeth Hortman, Biglerville. The Best Apple Theme Award went to an original quilt design by Ruth Anna Polley, Fairfield.

A special highlight at this year's festival was the return of past Apple Blossom Queens. Of the 30 past queens who were invited, 24 were able to return for the coronation of the 31st Apple Blossom Queen. Prior to the crowning of the 1986 Queen, the past queens judged another new attraction at this year's festival. As a promotional program for apples, the students in the Upper Adams School District participated in an apple poster contest. Posters from the seven participating grades lined the east wall of the Musselman Auditorium. The past queens selected winners by class. Peters Orchards, representing the Mountain Orchards Cooperative, provided a 3-pound bag of apples for each winner.

Climaxing the afternoon's activities was the crowning of the 1986 Adams County Apple Blossom Queen, Danielle Trostle of Biglerville. First runnerup was Kimberly Detwiller and second runnerup was Cristina Hale. Trostle will go on to represent Adams County in the State Apple Queen contest early next fall.

While almost everyone at the festival was wearing a smile, a few fruitgrowers had their festive spirits dampened by the cold temperatures of the previous night. While the fruit had escaped damage from a well publicized cold front that had passed through the orchards two weeks ago, Saturday night's cold had left a different story.

Fruitgrower John Lott, Bear Mountain Orchards, estimates that 5 to 10 percent of the crop was burnt that night. Lott said: "Up until last night we had a great crop. It got down to 32 degrees and in the low spots it got down to 25 degrees. This is what it did," he said, holding up an apple branch with black spots on the stems where there had been buds.

He explained, "We escaped damage two weeks ago because the wind kept blowing. Last night the wind stopped and the cold settled in. There were helicopters up, but there aren't enough copters on the whole east coast to keep all of Adams County's orchards warm. Besides, there was no warm air up there to push down."

Still, the general consensus among the growers is that this looks like a bumper crop year for all the fruits.

Best of show in the apple theme hand work contest went to Elizabeth Hortman, Biglerville, with this counted-cross stitch sampler.

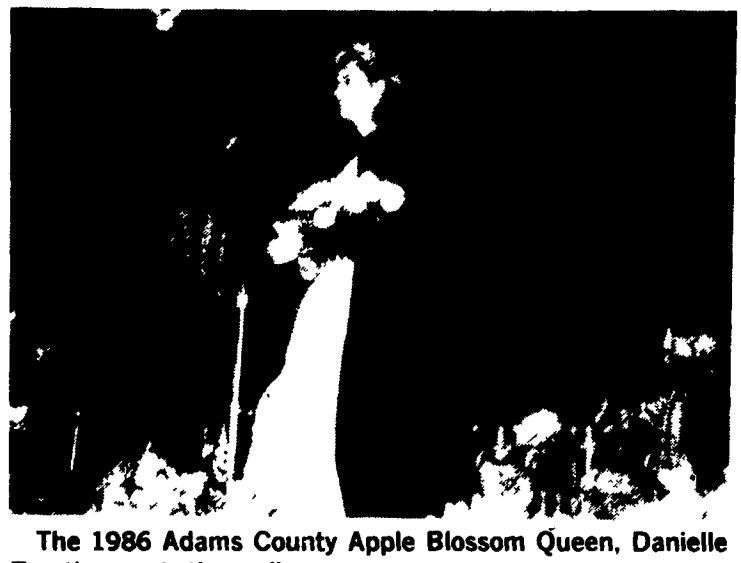
Danielle Trostle is Adams County Apple Blossom Queen

ARENDTSVILLE — Danielle Marie Trostle, 16, was crowned the 1986 Adams County Apple Blossom Queen last Sunday during the 31st Adams County Apple Blossom Festival.

Fred Cory from the International Apple Institute was on hand to crown the Biglerville High School sophomore before a packed audience in the Musselman Auditorium. In the crowd were 24 of the previous 30 Apple Blossom Queens.

Danielle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barry Trostle, Biglerville. She is active in sports and student government at school. Her hobbies include hunting, swimming, and horseback riding. She is also a 4-H member. She will represent Adams County in the State Queen Contest next fall.

Also in the Queen's Court were first runnerup Kimberly Detwiler, second runnerup Cristina Hale, flower girl Sonya Heller, ringbearer Matthew Trostle, and Marion Peters, Missy Emelet, and Sally Schulteis.



The 1986 Adams County Apple Blossom Queen, Danielle Trostle, greets the audience.

Franklin County Conservation District Offers Forestry Camp Scholarship

CHAMBERSBURG — The Franklin County Conservation District is offering a scholarship to attend the second session of Youth Forestry Camp to be held at Stone Valley Civil Engineering Camp, Huntingdon County, near McAlvey's Forest, July 22 to 25.

Young people, 11 to 13 years old, with an interest in learning about forest resources may apply for a scholarship. To participate in the program, an applicant must receive a Youth Forestry Scholarship.

The sponsor's scholarship is $80 of the registration fee and the student's tuition is $35. The fee covers meals, lodging, insurance and program materials. Students must provide their own transportation to and from camp.

The camp serves as an introduction to basic forest management skills, the forest products industry and careers in the field of forest resources.

For more information and an application please contact the Franklin County Conservation District at 717-264-8074 or write to: The Franklin County Conservation District, 550 Cleveland Ave., Chambersburg, PA 17201. Applicants should complete a written essay of 25 words or more on why they would like to attend Youth Forestry Camp. Application deadline is May 23, 1986.

Vertical Path Boom. A leap ahead in loader logic.

New John Deere skid-steer loaders give you up to 30% more reach

Boom arch is eliminated! John Deere's Vertical Path boom lifts loads up and out. So you've got up to 30% more forward reach than most other skid-steers for good truck loading ability.

These new John Deere skid-steers also have 30% more lift per pound of weight than conventional units, thanks to high strength steel and uniframe construction.

And they run the ground well. A low center of gravity, low profile and long wheelbase provide the stability for better rough-terrain performance and faster travel. Hydrostatic drive allows precise speed control. Shorter overall length and narrower width make for superior maneuverability. Two-lever steering and foot controls increase operator efficiency.

Washing Blankets

Spring is frequently the time when blankets get a yearly cleaning. How a blanket is cleaned depends on its fiber content and construction. Most blankets are acrylics and/or polyester with small amounts of nylon, wool and cotton. Most of the satin bindings are washable nylon, rayon or acetate. Here are some tips to help you successfully clean your blankets.

Electric blankets should be home laundered, because dry cleaning can ruin the insulation on the wires. Reduce agitation time in wash and rinse cycles to cut down on abrasion of the wires. Line drying is recommended for electric blankets.

Wool blankets require special handling to avoid shrinkage and felting. Always measure a wool blanket before washing — later it will be stretched and blocked to its original shape. Use only warm or cold water and brief agitation between several 10 minutes soak periods. Use a deep water rinse to remove all detergent residue and reduce agitation time in the rinse and spin cycles.

Wool blankets should be damp-dried quickly on a high temperature setting to avoid abrasion caused by long tumbling. Remove the slightly damp wool blanket and stretch it to its original shape.

Synthetic blankets are generally washed with normal wash and agitation times and warm water. Fabric softener helps reduce static and makes the blanket soft and fluffy. Dry completely but avoid overdrying which causes wrinkles.

Dress for Less

Need a million to look like a million? Not at all. To look your best for less, plan ahead, use your imagination, and buy only what you need. Shopping for clothes on a tight budget is an exercise in control and concentration, so be ready before you begin.

Once you know what you have (first go through last year's supply before you even think of buying something new!) decide what you really need. Casual trendy clothes may be what you want, but are they really what you need? Think about where you spend your time. If you work in an office, tailored clothes may be in order. Fancy party clothes may be what your children want, but what they really need right now are attractive, sturdy clothes for school.

Once you're ready to shop, here are some tips to keep in mind to stretch your clothing dollar and help you dress for less.

• Select clothes that can be adapted for several occasions with a variety of accessories or by mixing and matching with clothes you already have.

• Consider clothes that span the seasons. For example, pin-wale corduroy can look good year round, while wide-wale corduroy looks heavy and is best worn in cold weather. A sweater vest can be worn now through spring, while pullover sweaters have a shorter season.

• Choose clothes with classic lines that retain their style for years. You can always pick up inexpensive, trendy items for variety. Too often, novelty or high fashion clothes seem dated the next year.

• Plan your clothes around one or two basic color groups so clothes will go well together. Solid colors, smooth or medium textures, and small over-all designs usually have the best mix-and-match potential.

• Make coordinated separates the mainstay of your wardrobe. It's easy to do when colors and textures of individual items are related. Choose accessories that go with several outfits instead of only one.

• Always consider the cost of maintaining the clothes you buy. If they have to be drycleaned or washed by hand, they may not be worth the extra expense or effort.

AGRIPRO™ SOYBEANS
NUMBER ONE IN RESEARCH

HP-2530
HP-2530 is an outstanding mid Group II variety with exceptional yield capability. Very good emergence and standability. Good field resistance to Phytophthora. Good narrow row adaptability. Three days earlier than Beeson 80.

HP-3440
HP-3440, a mid Group III maturity variety, offers you very good field resistance to Phytophthora root rot along with good standability, and good narrow row adaptability. Very good potential to deliver top yields.

AP-240
Rapid emergence; outstanding yield potential
• Very good emergence — far superior to Amsoy 71, Century and Beeson 80; better than Wells II.
• Good standability from medium height plants.
• Very good shattering resistance — better than Amsoy 71 and Century; far better than Wells II.
• Good field resistance to Phytophthora root rot.

AP-350
Tests prove it outyields Williams and Mitchell.
AP-350 is a welcome addition to Group IV maturity. It was selected because it combines overall yield performance superiority with an excellent chlorosis rating plus resistance to Race I Phytophthora root rot and tolerance to other tested races. Plus good emergence, too. For its maturity, it would be difficult to find a better bean.

George, Kriebel Named Outstanding Penn State College of Ag Seniors

UNIVERSITY PARK – Duff L. George, son of Jimmie and Rosalie George of Carlisle, and Kimberly G. Kriebel, daughter of Richard and Gail Kriebel of Millerstown, share the honor of being the 1986 Outstanding Seniors in . Penn State's college of agriculture.

The competitive award, made annually be the Coaly Society, the college honor society, is granted on the basis of academic record, leadership activities and contributions to college clubs. Faculty judges evaluated applications and selected finalists for interview.

This year's judges were Charles Boyer, associate professor of plant breeding and genetics; George L. Hargrove, professor of dairy and animal science; Daryl K. Heasley, associate professor of rural sociology; Phil Bucher, assistant director for information systems with Penn State's Career Placement and Development Center; and Beth Raney, educational assistant for Extension Computer Services.

Duff George, a senior in animal production, has a minor in extension education. He began his studies at Penn State's Mont Alto Campus and has received several scholarships in animal production through the College of Agriculture Scholarship and Awards program. He received the Dwight E. Younkin award in 1983 and the Arthur C. Bigalow scholarship this year. George expects to graduate May 17.

Leadership and club activities have been an important part of George's life at Penn State. He was president of the Coaly Society and vice-president of the Block and Bridle Club this year. He has served as treasurer of Ag Student Council, is a member of the College of Agriculture Alumni Society career placement and internship counseling committee and has been a member of both the livestock and meats judging teams.

George also has prepared himself for life after college. In 1984, he had an animal science internship at the Jorgensen Angus farm in Ideal, S.D., where he was a ranch hand for the 450 brood-cow/calf operation. Last summer George had an Extension internship with the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Service working with Chet Hughes, county agent in 4-H and agriculture programming.

After graduation George plans to pursue a career in dairy and livestock nutrition with White Oak Mills, in Elizabethtown, Pa.

Kimberly Kriebel, a senior in dairy production, has a minor in agricultural economics and rural sociology. She plans to graduate in December.

Kriebel has been an active participant in College clubs and extracurricular programs, including acting as sales chair for the 1985 Nittany Lion Fall Classic consignment sale. She was elected Penn State Dairy Princess in 1984 and won the All-Around Grand Champion Award at the 1984 Dairy Expo.

A member of the 1985 Dairy Judging Team, Kriebel also served as secretary to the Coaly Society this year and has been the president for the national student Affiliate Division of the American Dairy Science Association. She received a Craola Scholarship last year and is a member of the Delta Theta Sigma agricultural fraternity.

Kriebel's internship this summer with the marketing department of Sire Power, Inc. in Tunkhannock, will prepare her for her goal after graduation, to work in public relations within the dairy industry.

Winners Named in Eastern Region FFA Contests

KUTZTOWN — The Eastern Pennsylvania Public Speaking and Parliamentary Procedure contests were held recently at Kutztown High School.

The students qualified for this contest by winning their respective area or county contests. Mardell Boyd of Cedar Crest FFA won the Creed Contest followed by Kirk Sattazahn and Brenda McFarland, both of Conrad Weiser.

The Conservation Contest was topped by Jennifer Jesiolowski from Oley Valley. Conrad Weiser's entrant, Kay Fessler came in second followed by Tonya Johnson of Cedar Crest. Rhonda Gibble of the Manheim Chapter placed fourth in this contest.

In the Extemporaneous competition, the duo of Daniel Brandt and Dale Balmer, from the Annville-Cleona Chapter, finished first and second respectively. Coming in third was George Metzler of Octorara.

Sue Elliot from the Annville-Cleona FFA placed first in Prepared Speaking. She was followed by Missy Spade, Oley Valley, and Randy Risser, Solanco.

The team from Annville-Cleona was first in the Parliamentary Procedure contest. Team members include: Dale Balmer, Tim Elliot, Sheila Hostetter, Kent Hoffer, Mike Beare, Scott Brinser, Daniel Brandt and Eric Harnish.

These students will now compete in the FFA Activities Week at Penn State starting on June 17.

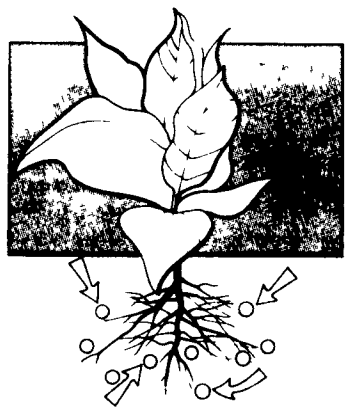
Ridomil® in the soil



For More Effective Control

Ridomil controls blue mold and black shank in your tobacco But for Ridomil to do its best work, it should be applied to the soil before transplanting

Ridomil destroys diseases present in the soil Then it is absorbed by the roots and moved systemically throughout the plant to protect your tobacco as it grows

For the best two-way action against blue mold and black shank, follow your label directions — use Ridomil in the soil

Lower Dauphin FFA Honors Kenneth Staver at Annual Banquet

BY TIM GRUBER
Chapter Reporter

HUMMELSTOWN — The 26th Annual Parent-Member Banquet of the Lower Dauphin Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was held April 18 in the Senior High School cafeteria with over 100 members and guests present.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a special "Blue and Gold Award" to Kenneth Staver, dean of students at Lower Dauphin. A former vocational agriculture teacher, Staver has long supported the FFA chapter. He has done much of the behind-the-scenes work when the chapter has gone on activities. And he has often been the spokesman for FFA in front of the board of education, the administration, and the community.

Cindy Baker, a former winner of the award, presented the DeKalb Agricultural Achievement Award to Lydee Cassel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Cassel of Hummelstown. Lydee has served as assistant secretary of the Lower Dauphin chapter and has an outstanding project of thoroughbred racehorses. She has run these horses at Penn National, as well as other tracks in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Lydee has also won several medals on the state level for her project work.

Frank Gilbert received the Citizenship Award. Frank is chapter president and president of the Cumberland-Dauphin-Perry Area FFA. Frank is a member of Lower Dauphin's football, basketball, and track teams. John Cassel, a member of the board of education at Lower Dauphin, presented this award.

The Star Greenhand award, presented to the outstanding first-year FFA member, was given to Dan Baker and Steve Kiner. Dan is a member of the chapter's parliamentary procedure team and has participated in the county creed contest and poultry judging contest. Dan's projects include work experience and raising poultry.

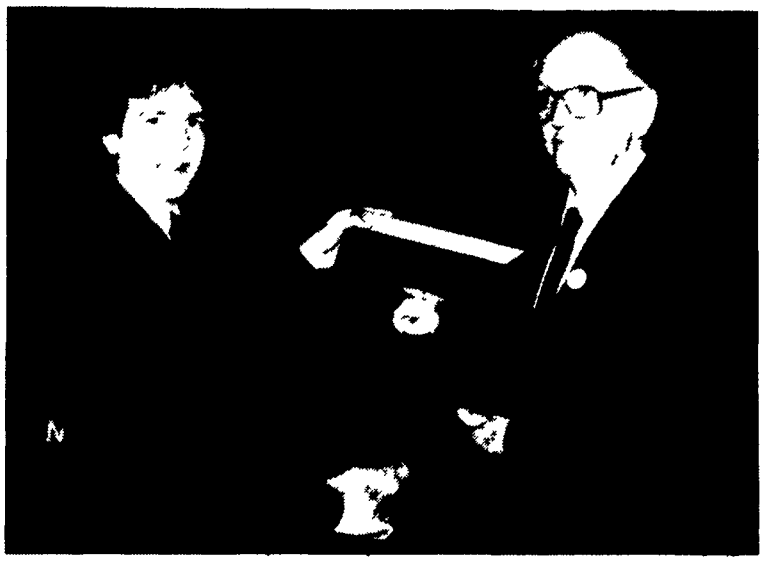
Steve Kiner maintains a wildlife improvement project and has participated in the county poultry judging contest. Steve is active in other school and community organizations as well.

Todd Long received the Star Chapter Farmer award, which is given to the outstanding student who has earned the Chapter Farmer degree. Todd has served as the chapter's community service chairman this past year and won a gold medal in state competition for his project book on dairy cattle.

Proficiency Awards, sponsored by the National FFA Foundation, were presented to the following members: Dave Cheris, specialty animal production; Kevin Johnson, placement in ag production; Dale Morgan, diversified livestock production; Sue Zerphey, sheep production; Jeff Tetzloff, home or farmstead improvement; Stan Tetzloff, fruit or vegetable production; Dave Cheris, extemperaneous public speaking; and Lori Benefiel, general public speaking. Also honored was Brian Hoerner, winner of the state proficiency award in diversified livestock production.

Scholarship pins, presented to members who made the honor roll two out of three marking periods this year, were given to Steve Kiner, Tammy Baker, Sue Zerphey, Doug Bauder, Lydee Cassel, and Todd Long.

Jim Landvater, Jr., last year's FFA chapter president, presented retiring officer plaques to Frank Gilbert, president; and Tim Gruber, reporter. These FFA officers are all graduating seniors.



Doug Bauder, left, president of the Lower Dauphin FFA Chapter, presents the special Blue and Gold award to Kenneth Staver, a long time FFA supporter and school administrator at Lower Dauphin.

Honorary membership in the chapter was bestowed upon several adults who assisted the chapter during the past several years. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crist, Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Cassel, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Long, Miss Mary Smith, and Mrs. Linda Gilbert, all received honorary degrees for helping their sons or daughters to earn the Keystone Farmer degree.

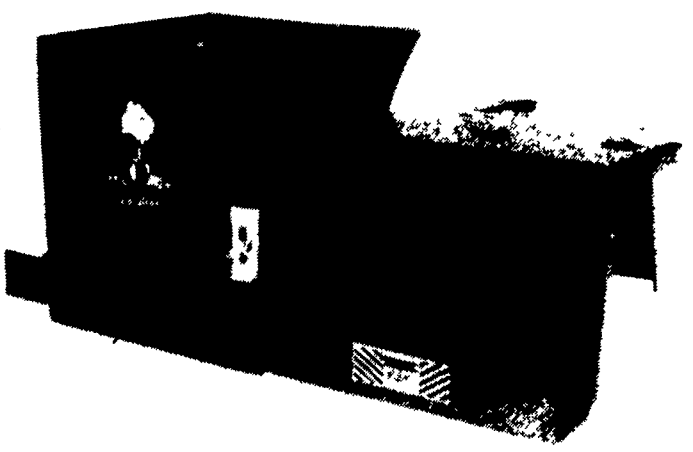
Joan Bonawitz is a school secretary, who has done much of the typing for chapter award applications over the years. She also received the honorary degree. In addition, Dale Fisher was honored as the Alumni of the Year. Fisher assisted the chapter this year by pulling its float in the homecoming parade and by harvesting and buying the oats from the chapter's land laboratory.

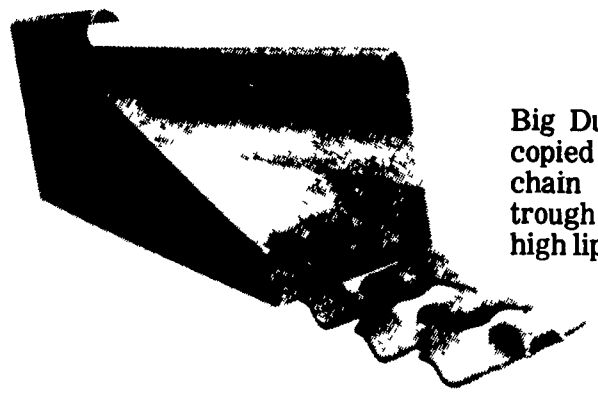
Julie Hess, Pennsylvania state FFA president, offered several remarks to the chapter. A slide series highlighting the activities of the past year was also presented. Finally, Mr. Ramelle MacCoy, a hypnotist, provided entertainment for the guests present.

BIG DUTCHMAN FEEDING SYSTEMS FOR LAYER AND PULLET CAGES

Built on Thoroughly Proven Designs. No Other Feeder Beats it for Reliability and Performance

The straight hopper drive unit is easy to work with and simplifies maintenance. The standard hopper is powered by a helical gear-motor drive.





Big Dutchman feeder chain is the original, which is now copied by nearly all poultry equipment companies. The chain literally carries feed in the trough. The Big Lip trough effectively reduces spillage because of the extra high lip and curl.

Corner wheel assembly guides the chain and feed around the turns to make the endless flat chain conveyor possible. The fluted idler wheel and corner rail keep the chain running true.

Scholarships Available to 4-H'ers, Former 4-H'ers

NEWARK, Del. — Cooperative Extension's national 4-H youth committee has established a college scholarship fund to recognize and further the education of worthy current or former 4-H members. Each scholarship is directly related to the National 4-H Awards Program, so outstanding achievement in this program is a prerequisite.

Qualified Delaware 4-H'ers and former 4-H'ers are eligible to compete for the following national scholarships.

• Two $1,000 4-H career scholarships sponsored by Who's Who Among American High School Students. Scholarships are available to incoming freshmen (fall '86) in any field of study at an accredited college or university. Applicants must show evidence of 4-H influence on their choice of a future career.

• One $1,000 agricultural scholarship sponsored by Alpha Gamma Rho. Candidates must be incoming freshman (fall '86) who plan to major in agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine or a closely related field.

• Four $1,000 agricultural careers scholarships sponsored by DeKalb Ag Research, Inc. Available to high school seniors or college freshmen who plan to study farming, farm management, business and industry, research and industry, processing, marketing, advertising or conservation.

• Ten four-year $1,000 agricultural career awareness scholarships to land-grant institutions, sponsored by E.I. DuPont de Nemours and Company, Inc. Candidates must be high school seniors who are minority members of 4-H and have been accepted by a land-grant institution. They must intend to study agriculture or a closely related field in order to pursue an agriculturally related career.

• Three $1,000 animal science scholarships sponsored by the Continental Grain Company. Candidates must be juniors majoring in animal science at an accredited college or university.

• Three $1,000 dairy goat project scholarships sponsored by the American Dairy Goat Association. These scholarships are available to high school seniors or freshmen at an accredited college who plan to study agriculture, home economics or a closely related field. They must have participated in a 4-H dairy goat project for at least one year.

• One $1,000 food careers scholarship sponsored by Webster Industries, Inc. Candidates must be freshmen in college who have participated in 4-H food preservation, canning or freezing projects and who plan to major in food technology, food and nutrition, food service or a closely related field.

• One $3,000 fashion career scholarship sponsored by the Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers. Candidates must have successfully completed 45 quarter or 30 semester hours at an accredited college or university and must be available to enroll at Tobe-Coburn within the year. They must be able to adapt to an urban environment, meet the balance of their financial expenses and submit a brief essay on "Why I Want a Career in the Fashion Industry." The recipient must intend to pursue studies in the fashion industry in order to prepare for a fashion-related career.

• Two $1,000 rabbit project scholarships sponsored by the American Rabbit Breeders Association, Inc. Available to high school seniors or college freshmen who have completed one year of 4-H work on a rabbit project and who plan to study agriculture, home economics or a closely related field.

• Two $1,000 4-H veterinary medicine scholarships sponsored by Champion Valley Farms, Inc. Available to candidates now enrolled in one of the 28 U.S. colleges offering a veterinary medicine curriculum.

• Six $1,000 career scholarships sponsored by the Gertrude L. Warren Scholarship Fund. Applicants must be a college freshmen who show evidence of 4-H influence on their future career choice and who are enrolled in any field of study in an accredited college or university.

Delaware youth wishing to apply for any of these scholarships may obtain further information and application forms from the county extension office in Newark (451-8965), Dover (737-1448) or Georgetown (856-7303) or from state 4-H leader Marcius Butterfield (451-2509). Applications must be approved by him and submitted to the National 4-H Council by Oct. 1.

Lesa Kimball is Northwest Maple Queen

SPARTANSBURG — Lesa Kimball, Kimball Road, Wattsburg, was named the 1986 Northwest Maple Queen at the fifth annual contest May 3 at Dutch Treat Restaurant, Spartansburg.

Lesa is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton J. Kimball, who have been involved in the production of maple syrup since 1977.

Lesa graduated from Seneca High School in June 1985. While in school she was a member of the Seneca Concert Band, a majorette in the marching band for four years and an honor student. At present she is working at Pizza Hut in Union City. In addition to being active in the family maple operation, her hobbies are knitting, sewing, needle point, latch hook, painting, softball and volleyball.

The two other candidates were Vickie Northrop, Corry, 17-year-old daughter of Dennis Northrop; and Rebecca K. Nichols, Spartansburg, 18-year-old daughter of Frank and Evelyn Nichols.

The judges were Judy Dengler, Saegertown, a registered nurse; Deanna Stahlman, Reno, the 1984 N.W. Maple Queen, and Lori Dengler, Saegertown, who works at Spectrum Control.

Cindy Larrison, Conneautville, the 1985 N.W. maple queen presented Lesa Kimball with the crown.

The Maple Queen planning committee members are: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Allen, Corry; Mr. Dennis Northrop, Corry; Mr. and Mrs. John Deets, Titusville; and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Dengler, Saegertown.

Bernard Tobin, Cambridge Springs, Pa., N.W. Maple Producers' Association president, was master of ceremonies for the evening program.

Frey, Hess Earn Top Awards at Hans Herr FFA Banquet

WILLOW STREET — The Hans Herr FFA honored its outstanding members and parents during the group's annual banquet April 30 at the Willow Street Vo-Tech School.

Doris Kudia
Honorary Chapter Farmer

The evening offered an opportunity to recognize those students who have excelled in projects and competition throughout the year.

Marylin Thode received the Greenhand Degree and 11 other FFA'ers earned Chapter Farmer Degrees. They are: Tammy Bresch, Aimee Cloud, Sherri Frey, Julie Haldeman, James Hess Jr., Cindy House, Jody Lentz, Lisa McManus, Nancy Nissley, Christina Quigley and Kerry Ross.

Those students receiving Foundation Awards were Michael Clark, agriculture mechanics; Whitney Eckman, agriculture sales and/or service; Sherri Frey, chapter star agribusinessman; Lisa McManus, nursery operations; Robert Shaffer, turf and landscape management; Tina Gentzler, public speaking; James Hess, chapter star farmer; Kelly Rhoads, home and/or farmstead improvement; Tammy Bresch, placement in agricultural production; Karen Frank, floriculture; and Debra High, ornamental horticulture.

Sherri Frey was awarded the DeKalb award and Mrs. Doris Kudia was named honorary chapter farmer.

Other awards presented went to those students who placed in national contests. They are: Karen Frank, Barb Kudia, Sherri Frey and Kerry Ross. Debra May High and Kelly Rhoads were recognized for their placings in the Eastern States competition.

Awards were also presented to the top 10 winners in the county FFA Nursery Landscape Contest. They are, in order of their placings, Tammy Bresch, James Hess Jr., Sherri Frey, Julie Haldeman, Kelly Rhoads, Christina Quigley, Kerry Ross, Lisa McManus, Debra May High and Jody Lentz.

The top three winners in the County FFA Nursery Landscape Contest are, from left, Jim Hess, second; Sherri Frey, third; and Tammy Bresch, first. Jim was also named Chapter Star Farmer and Sherri was named Chapter Star Agribusinessman and received the DeKalb Award. In addition to her first place in the Nursery Landscape Contest, Tammy received her Chapter Farmer Degree and a Foundation Award for placement in agricultural production.

Elco Dairy 4-H Club

The Elco Dairy 4-H Club met April 25 at Christ Lutheran Church for a project book workshop. Each of the older members brought completed project books from previous years to share with new and younger members.

Several members participated in dairy judging at Penn State and Delaware Valley College. Stephanie Wagner reported on the Penn State judging and Adam Sonnen on Delaware Valley. Becky Sonnen reported on the Oral Reasons Workshop held in March at Levitz Park.

Duane and Deanette Nolt gave a demonstration on "Making a Delicious Dessert with Dairy Foods."

The next meeting will be held at Nolt's farm May 30; showmanship demonstrations will be presented.

Whatever your herd doesn't have, Mol-Mix/LPS® does.

Mol-Mix/LPS is the number one liquid supplement for dairy herds because it's more than just one supplement. It's a number of formulations based on the conditions unique to your herd, your location, and your objectives.
Visit your local Mol-Mix/LPS dealer for proof. He'll give you the product that provides just the right combination of energy, protein, vitamins, and minerals your cows need—for healthier calves, faster breed-back, and higher milk production.
Mol-Mix/LPS. It's number one because it's more.

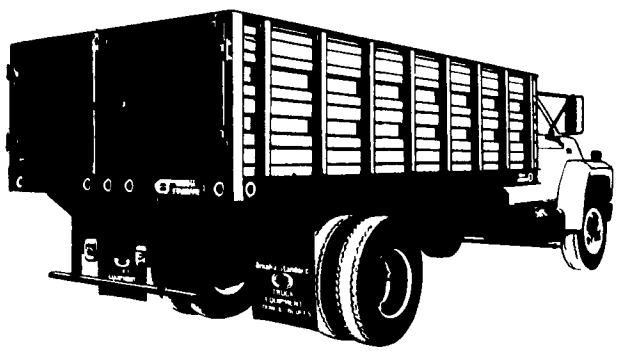
Solid Stake Sides



Omaha Standard's solid steel stake sides are designed for confined cargo or bulk hauling, and are ideal for landscapers, trash haulers and contractors. They fit both our Standard and Metro platforms and come in heights of 28", 40" and 52". These sides are available with the standard solid front or an optional steel bulkhead with full width mesh window.

The solid 2-section, Econo-door rear is "glove" fit to the platform and sides, and offers unobstructed access to the interior. The doors fold back flush with body sides for easy loading and unloading.

The efficient way to high quality feed production.

If you are in the dairy or beef business and raise all or part of your hay and forage, you owe it to yourself to find out what Case IH has to offer in equipment. Case International hay and forage equipment can help you harvest and preserve your crops when they're at their highest nutritional value. See your dealer for equipment that has the crop-handling capacity to enable you to move fast when a crop is ready to be baled or chopped.

You'll see:

- Two advanced design self-propelled windrowers - the only ones in the industry offering three distinct types of interchangeable headers.
- Sickle-bar mowers, and mower-conditioners including models with 12 and 14 ft. widths (3.7 and 4.3 m) for acre-eating capacity, plus dual rakes that reduce trips over the field while keeping your haymaking on schedule.
- Rectangular balers offering up to 19 tons (17,252 kg) per hour capacity, plus round balers that let one man produce up to 18 tons (16,344 kg) of 6 foot (1.8m) diameter bales per hour.
- Advanced design forage harvesters with six interchangeable crop units including a 90-inch (2.3m) hay pickup that handles big, wide swaths with ease.

So see your Case International dealer and have him help you choose the equipment best suited for your operation. And remember, he'll be there after the sale to back you up with the best in parts and service.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

– The top selling guernsey cow in the "Meeting of the Stars" convention sale brought $2,550. This cow Bayville Mar Print Bubblemist bred and consigned by Bayville Farms, Inc., in Norfolk, VA, was sold to Samuel Berke's Deep Lake Farm at Lakeville, Connecticut.

– Victor Plastow, Assistant Lancaster Co. Agent, and Max Smith, County Agent, had four 4-H youth that were honored by the American Business Club of Lancaster. They are Bruce Boyd, Abram Flory, Harry Lee Hoar, and Miss Dorothy Stehman.

– Governor George Leader signed into law this week a measure that permits farmers of Pennsylvania to apply for a full refund of all state taxes on gasoline and other liquid fuels.

– Facilities of the Lancaster Poultry Exchange have been offered to the Coatesville Regional Chicken of Tomorrow Contest Sale. Chickens from the contest will be sold without charge in the May 17 auction.

– The Pequea Valley School Board announced an open house and dedication service this weekend. The announcement was made by Arthur W. Eshleman, Principal.

– The inheritance of the nationally-known holstein bull Lauxmount Admiral Lucifer is now being perpetuated through his newly proven son Penn State Lucifer Star. Lucifer Star was introduced into service this week by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Artificial Breeders Cooperative.

– Identical twin dairy bull calves are needed by the Dairy Breeding Research Center of the Pennsylvania State University in a special research project. Any Pennsylvania dairyman wishing to sell identical twin bull calves to the university should contact their county agent.

Wasp May Be Key to Potato Beetle Control

WASHINGTON, D.C. – A tiny South American wasp, smaller than a pinhead, is an "ace in the hole" for helping the potato industry cut its losses to a revenous beetle, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist says.

Robert F. W. Schroder, an entomologist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service, is relying on a combination of the wasp, a fungus, a growth regulator, and a bacterium to control the Colorado potato beetle, a pest that robs U.S. potato, tomato and eggplant farmers of about $150 million each year.

Schroder is turning to the wasp and the other controls because, he said, "the beetle is becoming resistant to most insecticides." Without any control, he added, this pest can totally destroy these crops.

"The wasp is our ace in the hole because none of the native biological controls tested reduce the beetle population below harmful levels," said Schroder, based at the agency's Beneficial Insects Laboratory in Beltsville, Md. Also, he said, the wasp kills the beetles but does not attack any beneficial insects and is not harmful to humans or animals.

"Scientists from overseas are contacting us for quantities of the wasp to protect potato and eggplant fields," he said. "The wasp has potential to control the Colorado potato beetle worldwide."

Currently, Canada, Italy, U.S.S.R. and the Netherlands are rearing wasps to establish colonies for research on mass-releasing the wasp as a biocontrol. Several other countries, including Yugoslavia, are also interested in using the wasp, he said.

Schroder got the wasp from Benjamin Puttler, an ARS entomologist. Puttler discovered it in 1980 in South America with the help of Colombian entomologists; the wasp was named and described by Eric E. Grissell of the Systematic Entomology Laboratory at Beltsville.

By using the wasp alone or with other biological organisms, plus small amounts of chemical insecticides – a strategy known as integrated pest management – farmers can increase yields and reduce pesticide use.

In three years of field and laboratory studies, Schroder and colleagues found that, on potatoes, the parasitic female wasp kills an average of half of the beetle eggs in which she lays her eggs.

He said the tests also show the wasp provided 95 to 100 percent control of the beetle on eggplants. Wasps could replace up to 15 applications of insecticide on eggplant fields to control the beetle, he added.

Schroder is still conducting field tests on the wasp's effect on Colorado potato beetles that infest tomatoes. "I expect the same results on tomatoes as with the eggplants," he said.

Ongoing studies are being conducted with Rutgers University, the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, and the Virginia Truck and Ornamentals Research Station.

Potato Seminar Book Available

DENVER, Colo. – "Managing Nematode Problems," "Micro Tuber Production," "Marketing and Contracting of Certified Seed Potatoes" and over 18 articles on every aspect of the seed potato industry have recently been published in the Fourth Annual North American Seed Potato Seminar Proceedings.

The 76-page book contains photographs, charts and papers presented by speakers at the 1985 Seed Potato Seminar, Dec. 5-7, at the Westin Hotel in Denver.

The book is available for $30 plus an additional $2 charge for orders placed outside of the United States. To order, send payment with your request to: The Potato Foundation, 4685 Peoria St., Suite 101, Denver, CO 80239.

HAVING SOIL PROBLEMS?

Here's A Timely Tip...

Be sure you apply enough

The new higher-powered fertilizers often require more lime each application to maintain a neutral soil that tests to pH7.

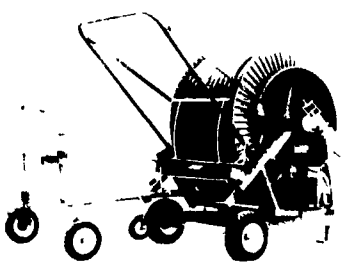
ABI irrigation
AGRICULTURAL IRRIGATION SYSTEMS



FEATURES:
- CONSTRUCTION Fully welded reel and main frame
- BELLOWS DRIVE The patented water bellows drive offers a reliable 'no pressure loss thru drive system' using only 1%-2% of pumped water which is then applied to the crop, saving up to 25 psi when compared with turbine drive. It also enables gun nozzles to be changed to give light applications of water for seed-bed irrigation.
- LOW MAINTENANCE The sumple drive unit offers really low maintenance — No cylinders to repair, No chain or sprockets to wear, No seals to leak, No gearboxes or pulleys to maintain
- AUTOMATIC SPEED CONTROL Ensures an even hose pull-in speed.
- TURNTABLES OR FIXED MODELS
- PTO WIND-IN

OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT:
- Hydro Drive
- Automatic Shut Down Kit
- Delayed Start Unit
- Riser Pipe
- Blow Out Attachment
- Auxiliary Drive Kit

CABLEVEY®

Cablevey - the PROFIT CONVERTER

automates feeding

8 Reasons For Considering CABLEVEY For Your Dairy Barn

(1) CABLEVEY Saves Labor - That's important when you want to maximize milk production by feeding more often.

(2) CABLEVEY Saves Feed - Many dairy producers have found the milk production increased even with equal or less feed after installing CABLEVEY.

(3) CABLEVEY Pays For Itself - Just from the increase in milk production alone, many systems have paid for themselves in 12 months or less.

(4) CABLEVEY Reduces Feed Separation — Unlike flex augers, feed separation is minimal... that means a more uniform ration to all cows.

(5) CABLEVEY Handles High Moisture Corn — The 2" system and plastic drops are specially designed to handle high moisture corn without constant hang-ups.

(6) CABLEVEY Takes The Corners — Specially designed 90° corners allow efficient system operation for nearly any barn layout.

(7) CABLEVEY Saves Energy — 1 Motor and 1 system handle many livestock operations.

(8) CABLEVEY Controls Feed By Weight Or Volume — Cows individually fed a pre-set amount by Weight or Volume automatically 5 to 8 times per day for highest efficiency.

FEEDER WAGONS

16', 21', 27' lengths available. A great feature for feeding cattle in meadows or in feed lots. Can be used for feeding round bales.
If old gas tanks are used for feeder wagon bottoms, they should be sand blasted. If not, the gas and rust may result in sick cattle or even death. Be safe and buy from us as ours are sand blasted before being painted.

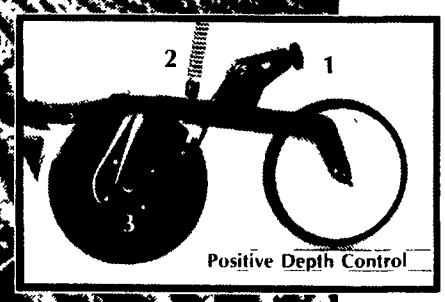
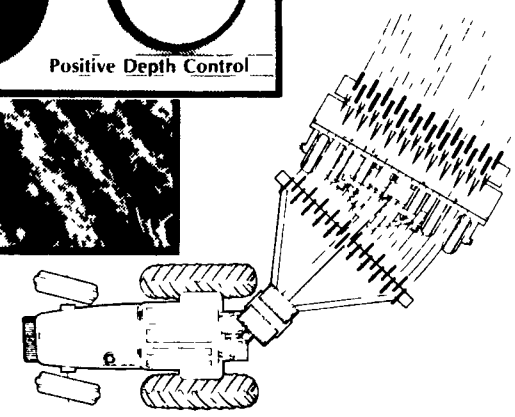
You Won't Find A Better No-Till Drill Than GREAT PLAINS



Great Plains Solid Stand® drills have the planting accuracy drilled soybeans need; (1) Depth-Gauging Press Wheels keep the opener from penetrating too deep; planting depth can be quickly changed with exclusive dial-a-depth adjustment system. (2) Double Down-Pressure Springs hold opener firmly in the soil — preventing the bouncing action which leaves seed scattered on top of the ground.

(3) Special Seed Chute places seed in the very bottom of the v-slot, rather than allowing slot to partially close prior to seed release.

SPECIAL PRICE On 12 Ft. Rental Drill



THE NO-TILL HITCH THAT WORKS

Here's why:
A unique pivot between the coulter unit and the drill allows each disk opener to track exactly in the slot cut by the coulter in front — even while the unit is rounding a curve.

Excellent penetration is also achieved, thanks to a heavy-duty framework, calcium-fillable transport tires, and a special weight transfer design which applies some of the weight of the drill itself to the coulters. Should additional weight be needed, specially designed weight brackets are available which accept most tractor suitcase-style weights. In all, up to 400 lbs. of weight per coulter is possible — ensuring penetration even in the toughest ground.

Finally, all Combination Drill Hitches feature a quick hitch for attaching easily to 3-point drills. So you have the flexibility to no-till some acreage, then switch back to a conventional seeding method as conditions vary.

COMPARE PERFORMANCE! COMPARE PRICE!

YOU'LL BUY A Great Plains NO-TILL DRILL

Check With Us For The Bale Chopper You Need For Commercial And Agricultural Uses

Goossen BALE CHOPPER

GET THE BENEFITS OF TMR, PLUS INCREASED FEEDING EFFICIENCY AND ECONOMY

The bale chopper has interchangeable grates and adjustable knife height, so the cut can be regulated according to the type, toughness, moisture content, and intended use of the material being chopped.

Available either as a standard 3-point PTO model or as a stationary electric powered unit, the bale chopper can be a mobile shredding and delivery system or can supply a stationary mixer The conveyor model can be ordered with conveyors of various lengths to fit your feed room or with a standard conveyor for continuous delivery from your tractor

TELL-US YOUR NEEDS AND WE'LL GET YOU A PRICE

THE BALE CHOPPER IS THE GOOSSEN SOLUTION FOR LANDSCAPE, NURSERY AND BERRY MULCHING

Nursery
The Bale Chopper chops then blows straw around trees, bushes, on bedding areas or any place where you need mulch. Apply mulch with the 30' flexible hose; hand held as shown at right.

Residential & Commercial Landscaping
The Bale Chopper evenly applies straw over large areas, and is easy to use around trees, behind bushes, or in any hard to reach spot. And it takes the Bale Chopper less than a minute to thoroughly shred and distribute an entire bale, so even large mulching jobs are completed quickly.

Berry Farming
The Bale Chopper is ideal for mulching strawberries or any row crop.

MOWER CONDITIONERS, MOWERS AND RAKES

1490/1590 Mower Conditioners
Fast-curing, crush and crimp conditioning plus big, acre-eating capacity—get them all from either the 1490 or the 1590. The overshot auger gently feeds the 106-inch (2.6 m) conditioning rolls, assuring you of fluffy, fast drying swaths or windrows. Hydraulic center-mounted pivot hitch lets you position the unit to the right or left side of the tractor, or to the center for transport.

1190 Mower Conditioner
The 1190 cuts, conditions, windrows or swaths to help you preserve more of the maximum feed value of your hay crops. It cuts fast and clean, has crush and crimp conditioning for fast curing, and the header floats laterally and vertically to harvest more crop.

Sickle Bar Mowers
You get smooth cutting in any crop at speeds up to 8 MPH (12.9 km/h) because of our wrist-action, balanced head drive. The 2,000 strokes per minute knife speed assures plug-free mowing. Mounted or trailing models.

96/97 Dual Rakes
To keep your haymaking on schedule, team these 9½-foot (2.9 m) rakes behind a dual hitch to combine two swaths from a 1590 14-foot (4.3 m) mower conditioner. Save time, labor and fuel while improving the efficiency of high capacity balers and forage harvesters. Rakes also available individually. Choose either ground or hydraulic drive.

86 Economy Rake
Get gentle, clean raking action and save money, too. The 86 rake has a full 8½-foot (2.6 m) raking width, adjustable suspension basket, a 5-bar reel, long-lasting teeth and choice of ground or hydraulic drive.

Model	Size
1590 Mower Conditioner	14.3 (4.3 m)
1490 Mower Conditioner	12.3 (3.7 m)
1190 Mower Conditioner	7 and 9 (2 and 2.7 m)
1100 and 1300 Mowers	7 and 9 (2.1 and 2.7 m)
96/97 Dual Rakes	Up to 22.6 (6.9 m)
86 Rake	8.6 (2.6 m)

UNMATCHED SERVICEABILITY

Rollback ROPS/FOPS

The entire ROPS/FOPS structure rolls back and out of the way and locks in up position for full and easy access to drive and hydraulic components. This structure is spring counter-balanced for easy, one-man rollback. The wiring harness stays intact for better serviceability.

Once the ROPS/FOPS is rolled back the engine and driveline are fully accessible for service. No crowding or extraneous plumbing; just well laid-out. Designed with the service technician in mind.

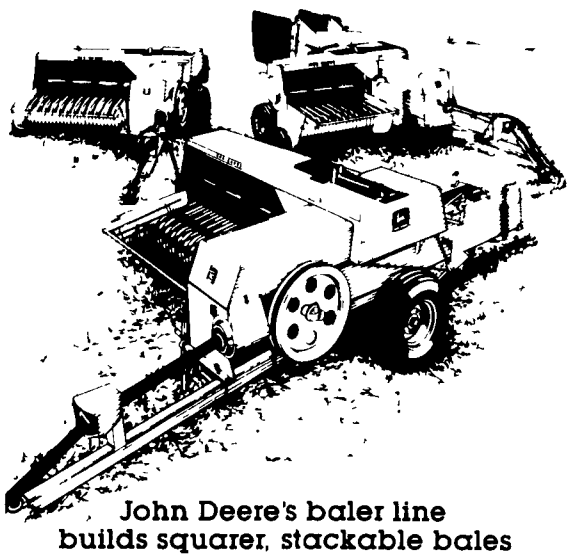
SQUARER BALES



John Deere's baler line builds squarer, stackable bales

To build solid, square-cornered bales consistently, you need consistent control of the hay. And John Deere's 327, 337 and 347 Balers give that control from the moment hay touches the pickup.

A wide pickup with extra teeth lets these balers take in all the hay in today's wider windrows. There's even a compressor to keep the hay under control.

A floating tapered auger and adjustable feeder forks take over to keep material flowing evenly. The gear-driven knotter puts the finishing touch on these solid, stackable bales from John Deere.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS, ETC.
Serving Customers Coast to Coast.

Complete TA assemblies for 706-1586 are priced at $595 and come with a Dana Co Heavy Duty Sprag instead of the usual IH sprag The Dana sprag is guaranteed for 2 years against failure. Sprag kits (includes sprag gear, Dana sprag, and piston carrier) and all items for rebuilding your own TA are available to qualified persons. Ramps and carriers for the older style TA's (as in SMTA, 340, 560) are priced at $150 each and carry a 90 day guarantee We have all the parts needed to rebuild your TA in stock at prices that will save you money We also have a shop available for complete TA installation Or, you may split your own tractor and bring the center housing to us, which we can rebuild while you wait (approx 4-6 hrs) We also stock New and Rebuilt Water Pumps, Dynlife Clutches, Pressure Plates, and PTO Drive Gears, (Spline-fit into pressure plates) for most IH tractors and combines

We are in need of cores for rebuilding purposes. If you have not returned your cores, please do so or call us for pickup.
Dealers: We are paying cash for cores. If you have quantity, we will pick up.

S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

S & S Silo Service Has Experience
Over 160 Silos Have Been Relined With Shotcrete

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

Patent Pending

Marv and Betty Sauder, RD #2, Ephrata

We started on Protek in December of 1984. Before switching to Master Mix feeds, we fed a soybean and mineral mix to our cows for over 10 years. Our rolling herd average consistantly ran in the middle 15,000's, with our highest average going to 16,250. Mike Sensenig sets up our feed program and wanted us to go on Protek, so we did. We are glad we did. Our cows are peaking much higher and holding very good. Our program calls for 35 corn silage, 13 lbs. hay, a cob chop mix equal to a 13% Protek, and topdressing Protek 1890 (Hi Energy) pellets to cows over 60 pounds of milk.

After being on Protek for one year, our R.H.A. increased over 1800 pounds, and 50 pounds fat. It's up 2000 pounds now, and our second year on Protek, cows are still producing better than the first year. Our March DHIA average per cow was 70.3 pounds per day. We never hit 70 before. We hope to go as high as 19,000 as this year goes on. We are off to a good start. We have a number of cows that have increased 3,000 to 4,000 pounds in one year.

Our herd health is also very good. The calving interval is down to 12.3 and the cows just seem to be very healthy, along with peaking high and milking very good.

As far as we are concerned Protek works, and we are both sold on it.

R. Earl Sauder, Goodville, PA

I'm always interested in trying to advance my milking herd for better protits, and I'm really pleased with how we're doing with Protek. My salesman tested my forages and my feed dropped from a 16% flaked dairy to a 12% flaked dairy with Protek. The flaked dairy is made by Sensenig's Mill using flaked corn, oats, Protek, and molasses. I raised some soybeans this year and am topdressing them to cows milking over 60 lbs., our herd production went up and we were able to save considerably on our feed cost. During the winter months, we are consistantly averaging 60 lbs. of milk per head per day. Our butter fat has also been around 3.9.

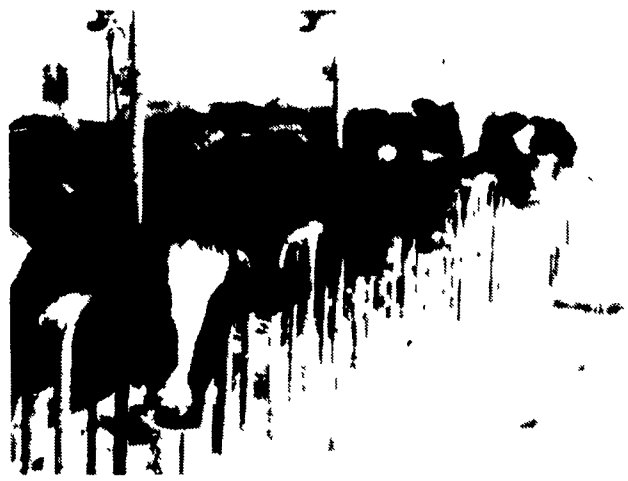
My feeding program consists of 36 lbs. corn silage, 12 lbs. alf hay, Sensenig's flaked dairy with Protek, and topdressing roasted beans. When the beans are all, I topdress the Protek Concentrate.

I would also say Protek made a difference in the cows being able to breed back. In fact, the cows have just been responding better in every avenue!

Amos S. Lapp, Oregon Pike, Leola

I'm feeding Protek, and I like it. It seems to make more milk and my feed cost is down. As far as my production goes, I was never as high as I am at this point. I started feeding Master Mix feeds from Sensenig's Mill in August of 1984, and my herd average was 15,572. In December of 1984 my salesman convinced me to go on Protek. A short time after I started, I saw an improvement. I had one cow that milked 100 pounds for five months straight. I'd never had that before. That's nice.

My feeding program consists of 35 corn silage, 12 hay, a complete 13% flaked dairy made by Sensenig's, and topdressing the Protek 1890 (Hi Energy) pellets to cows over 60 lbs. The cows really hold production with those 1890 pellets. I found most of my cows are 10-15 lbs. higher, and they hold production longer than they used to. I used to have cows go up to 100 lbs. then drop back to 90 or 80. Now they go to 100, and they'll hold. I've had them as high as 110 or better and holding there for a couple months. As of December 1985, after 1 year on Protek, my R.H.A. is up to 17,271, and my average per cow in March was up to 68.9 lbs. per day. So, I would have to say I'm very pleased since being on the Protek Feed Program.



Stevie S. Stoltzfus, RD #3, Honey Brook

We bought our first load of Protek the day it was first made at Camp Hill. It was a new product, and my salesman, Mike Sensenig, said it was tested for over 5 years and he thought I should give it a try and see just how it works.

My feed program is haylage and corn silage mixed along with a few pounds of dry hay, Hi Moisture Ear Corn and Protek Concentrate pellets. The program is doing a good job. We usually run around 18,000 R.H.A., but when we started on Protek we were in the 17,000's. The cows started back up on Protek, and now our rolling herd average is over 19,000. The cows really like the taste of Protek. By going on Protek, my feed cost is also down.

As far as Protek is concerned, it's doing a good job. I'm sold on it.

USDA Announces Record Red Meat Purchases

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng today announced the Commodity Credit Corporation will purchase over 16 million pounds of ground beef and canned beef under provisions of the 400-million-pound red meat purchase program authorized by the Food Security Act of 1985.

Lyng said that of the total 16 million pounds of purchased beef, some 12 million pounds will be ground beef – the largest single purchase of this product on record.

The remaining four million pounds will be canned beef. This is the second time USDA has purchased canned beef, bringing to 9.8 million pounds the amount purchased under the program to date.

Prices for the ground beef ranged from 86 cents to 97 cents per pound. Prices for the canned beef ranged from $1.19 to $1.20 per pound. USDA will take delivery beginning the week of June 1. Purchases of ground beef and canned beef will continue to be made weekly.

As authorized by the 1985 Farm Bill, half of the 400 million pounds to be purchased will be donated to domestic nonprofit charitable institutions for the needy, to nutrition programs for the elderly, to nonprofit summer camps for children and to other child-nutrition programs including the school lunch program. The remaining 200 million pounds will be exported.

Lyng also reminded the industry that first offers for frozen hams are scheduled to begin with bids due on Monday, May 5, and first offers for choice beef roasts are due Wednesday, May 14. Information on purchases may be obtained from the Contracting Officer, Livestock and Seed Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250; telephone (202) 447-2650.

Lancaster Slates Sheep Meeting

LANCASTER – "Everything you wanted to know about sheep... but were afraid to ask!", will be the theme of a special question-and-answer sheep industry meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 19, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

Anyone interested in sheep production is invited to attend to express questions and concerns to a selected panel of experieneed local sheep producers on various industry related topics.

The panel will include: Clyde Brubaker and Tim Fleener of Lancaster, Dr. Robert Herr of Narvon and Gerald Tracy of Elizabethtown. Lancaster Extension livestock agent Chet Hughes will serve as panel moderator.

In addition, those present will be updated on recent actions of the new Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Growers Association steering committee. This will include a brief review of the adopted bylaws, an explanation of membership and dues structure, program plans and membership signup.

The Quality of Light

My March article discussed light intensity and length of the daily light period for poultry flocks. This discussion will focus on various bulb types as the source of lighting in poultry houses. Light quality is one factor to consider in the choice of poultry light sources. Quality refers to the various rays in the color spectrum. The research work in this area has not been extensive, but results show that rays at the orange-red end of the visible spectrum may be more stimulating to egg production, while the blue and green rays favor growth.

Traditionally poultry houses have been equipped with incandescent bulbs. The usual bulb size was either 40 or 60 watts with the light fixtures being spaced 8 to 12 feet on center. Incandescent bulbs were chosen because the relative initial cost of this system of lighting was very low compared to alternatives. In addition, the relative light control over incandescent bulbs is much greater than for alternative systems. Inexpensive dimming systems are available that offer a wide range of control over incandescent lighting. A large portion of the light rays produced by incandescent bulbs falls in the orange-red end of the visible spectrum. The incandescent lighting system was inexpensive to install, afforded the producer a high degree of control and produced a favorable quality of light. Thus, it became the system of choice for poultry houses.

Unfortunately, incandescent bulbs are not very efficient in converting electrical energy into light. Other bulbs, including fluorescent, mercury vapor and high pressure sodium, are more efficient in converting electricity into light. With steadily increasing electrical costs, research and field trials have been conducted to explore alternative lighting systems for poultry houses.

Mercury Vapor and High Pressure Sodium Lamps

The quality of light produced by these lamps is acceptable for lighting poultry houses. They are very efficient in converting electricity into light and have a long lamp life. Currently, the major limitation to these sources of light for poultry housing is the high light output per lamp. Although very few lamps would be required for a poultry house, the light level within the house would be extremely variable. The light level in the area of the lamps would be much higher than proper management would desire.

Fluorescent Bulbs

The initial expense for tube type fluorescent fixtures is greater than for incandescent fixtures and normal fluorescent bulbs cannot be dimmed. The major advantages of fluorescent lights are the greater efficiency in converting electricity into light and the increased bulb life. Fluorescent bulbs are 3 to 4 times more efficient as measured by the amount of light produced per watt of electricity. A 20 watt fluorescent bulb will produce as much light as a 60 watt incandescent bulb.

Recently fluorescent bulbs which screw into incandescent fixtures have been developed. These bulbs are available in sizes that are practical for poultry houses. These screw-in fluorescent bulbs are available in warm white types that produce a large quantity of the light in the orange-red portion of the spectrum.

Field trials conducted by Extension personnel in other states demonstrated that screw-in fluorescent bulbs could be used to maintain egg production levels comparible with layers lighted with incandescent bulbs. The fluorescent bulbs accounted for approximately 50 percent reduction in electrical consumption. Screw-in fluorescent bulbs are a practical alternative for reducing electrical costs associated with providing proper light levels in poultry houses.

Using the right drug for the job aids performance, reduces costs

NEW YORK, NY – Hog producers can reduce feed costs in growing-finishing swine and improve disease control by learning to use feed antibiotics more judiciously, an industry nutritionist says. In fact, he adds, being more selective with feed antibiotics and dosage rates could lead to marked improvements in feed efficiency, average daily gain, days to market, and overall health of the animal.

"Each antibiotic on the market today has its strong points and weaknesses, and you can't say that one is better than another," says Dr. Ralph Fell, director of animal technology, A. L. Laboratories, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. "The point is, some antibiotics are better for disease control and others are better for growth promotion. Understanding this distinction could help producers cut their costs for feed additives in half – without sacrificing animal health or performance."

Breaking Tradition

Traditional antibiotics such as tetracyclines and penicillin are well accepted for controlling respiratory infections and other diseases in hogs. The problem, says Fell, is that many producers use these antibiotics longer than necessary. Research has shown that continuous use of these drugs can help create resistant bacteria and reduce antibiotic effectiveness.

"Farmers begin using them at farrowing to protect young pigs from disease – and that's fine," says Fell. "The trouble starts when they keep using the same antibiotic in the growing-finishing stage – not necessarily to prevent or control disease, but to promote growth and enhance feed efficiency."

Though tetracyclines and penicillin are effective growth promotants, even in disease-free hogs, Fell thinks producers would be wise to reserve these resistance-prone drugs specifically for special-need uses. "This type of antibiotic should be your ace in the hole – your trump card to play when the chips are down and your hogs are genuinely sick," he says.

Fell also notes that producers who use these drugs solely for growth promotion must often increase dosage rates 50 to 100 percent to bring unexpected diseases under control.

"That can get pretty expensive," he says. "I've seen far too many producers have to push antibiotic rates up to 400 grams, when ordinarily a 200-gram dose should be sufficient. Anyone using tetracycline or penicillin solely for growth promotion ought to talk to their vet or feed dealer about more cost-effective alternatives."

Cut Costs in Half

For the sake of reducing bacterial resistance and holding down costs, Fell suggests using one type of antibiotic for growth promotion and another on an as-needed basis for disease control. For example, after pigs reach 75 pounds and begin to develop a natural immunity to certain diseases, producers should consider discontinuing tetracycline or penicillin in favor of a 30-gram level of BMD (bacitracin methylene disalicylate), which is primarily intended for growth promotion.

While some antibiotics work best as disease control agents, others are effective growth promotants, says A.L. Laboratories' Dr. Ralph Fell.

"Unlike drugs used for respiratory problems; BMD works in the gut of the animal, where digestion takes place," Fell says. "It doesn't enter the bloodstream, so there is no withdrawal. Nor has the growth promotant been linked to any cases of bacterial resistance – even when fed continuously at low levels."

On the other hand, disease-control antibiotics work in the bloodstream and, as a result, may require a withdrawal period before marketing to eliminate residues in the animal tissue. They are also more expensive. Using a growth promotant such as BMD costs about $2 per ton of feed, while the other type of antibiotic costs in the neighborhood of $4.

"Both types of antibiotics are important to modern hog production," Fell concludes. "But to get the most from each one, you have to understand their difficult modes of action and how they can affect your bottom line. Investing time now to learn the difference between growth promotion and disease control could yield a high return when you take those hogs to market."

Falklands Bull Cited by Polled Hereford Assoc.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The naming of the first "Gold Trophy-Plus Sire" highlighted the announcement of this year's American Polled Hereford Association Gold Trophy Award winners.

Enforcer 107H became the first Polled Hereford to qualify for the Gold Trophy-Plus award since the 1983 announcement of the new recognition category. He is owned by Falklands Farm, Schellsburg, Pa.; Wests Polled Herefords, Spanish Fork, Utah; Cen-Cal Polled Herefords, Napa, Calif.; and Pudding River Polled Herefords, Salem, Ore. The Gold Trophy-Plus award honors Gold Trophy sires and dams for their daughters' achievements in cow calf classes at APHA Standard of Perfection (SOP) Shows and the annual National Polled Hereford Show.

In addition, three bulls and 13 females qualified for the Gold Trophy Award during the 1985-86 show season, based on the showring performances of their progeny this year and in recent years.

To earn the Gold Trophy title, a bull must accumulate 100 points, based on the performance of his calves at SOP shows. A cow must earn 35 points through her offspring's showring winnings to win Gold Trophy Dam status.

In the overall Gold Trophy Sire rankings, WSF PRL Justa Banner held on to his number one ranking for a record seventh year. He has a total of 3,068 points and is owned by Wooden Shoe Farms, Othello, Wash.; Wingert Bros., Ottawa, Kan.; Woelfel Polled Hereford Farm, Banner Elk, N.C.; and Ponderosa Ranch Ltd., Lloydminster, Sask. Moving up on the front-runner though is Enforcer 107H with 2,826 points. He gained 173 of those points during the just-completed show season.

On top of the Gold Trophy Dam roster for her fifth consecutive year is Coppertone F Sara, owned by Beartooth and Split Butte Ranch, Rupert, Idaho. With 309 points, she has more than double the points of the second-ranking Gold Trophy Dam.

Delmarva Reports Record Fundraising Effort

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Attendance reached 2,500 at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury, Maryland, for the 31st Delmarva Poultry Booster Banquet held on Apr. 29. The event is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., the regional trade group representing Delmarva's billion dollar broiler industry.

David VanHoose, fund drive chairman, unveiled the plaque announcing the new record of $348,693. This year's goal was $330,000, which was the highest ever set in the association's 39-year history.

An annual highlight of the event is the recognition of outstanding poultry and hatching egg producers. Those honored from the three states comprising Delmarva were:

Delaware- Palmyr & Eleanor Brown, Camden; Gary & Connie Carmean, Laurel; James L. Carpenter, Jr., Milton; Francis Reed Dunlap, Lewes; Bruce & Jean Enslen, Felton; Laura & Roland Hill, Jr., Lewes; Leroy & Barbara James, Seaford; David & Lois Peterman, Wyoming; and Francis & Betty Toomey, Georgetown.

Maryland- Bonnie M. & Paul Adkins, Allen; Mark A. Eck, Henderson; Gary & Terri Griffin, Parsonsburg; Wesley & Millie Parker, Salisbury; Hance J. Pepper, Nanticoke; Mr. & Mrs. John R. Rue, Cambridge; James & Carole Spicer, Vienna; Jackie Ward, Marion; and Mr. & Mrs. Edward Warren, Berlin.

Each year DPI presents the Medal of Achievement to a public servant for outstanding accomplishment and service on behalf of the poultry industry. This year's recipient was Dr. Cecil E. Howes, former professor and head of the Department of Poultry Science at Virginia Tech.

He established the first U.S. poultry industry/university cooperative education program which continues today. He has been honored over the years with the Poultry Science Resident Teaching Award, was made a Poultry Science Fellow, and received both the Meritorious Service Award and Distinguished Service Award from the Virginia State Poultry Federation.

Delmarva's Distinguished Citizen Award for 1986 was presented to W. Simpson Dunahoo of Hebron — poultry grower, farmer and part time poultry company employee. This is the association's highest honor and recognizes the individual's contributions not only to the poultry industry but also to community affairs.

Biosecurity Includes Segregating Species

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — This is the time of year when wild waterfowl get the nesting urge. And many of them — particularly mallard ducks — are not timid about where they place their nests. They'll crawl under chicken houses and other outbuildings, often a surprising distance from water, to hide their caches of hatching eggs.

No one knows exactly why Mother Nature arranged for ducks, other web-footed birds, and various seabirds to be some of nature's main carriers of avian influenza viruses. But we do know they are. They may not exhibit symptoms of the infection; but their infected droppings can carry high numbers of influenza viruses, which can under optimal conditions wreak havoc on chickens, turkeys and game birds.

So producers should keep two major points in mind, says Edward T. Mallinson, Extension poultry veterinarian at the University of Maryland in College Park.

1. Discourage wild waterfowl from nesting under or near poultry houses.

2. Keep all web-footed birds away from chickens, turkeys and game birds; even domestic waterfowl can be carriers of avian influenza.

Dr. Mallinson theorizes that seabirds and waterfowl (web-footed birds) have reached a state of accommodation or compromise with avaian influenza viruses over many generations. For reasons not fully known — perhaps different basic habitats or genetics — other kinds of birds, such as chickens, turkeys and game birds have not reached the same level or type of accommodation.

As a preventive measure against avian influenza, national and international veterinary specialists alike are admonishing farmers these days to practice segregation in their poultry activities.

Keep web-footed birds away from those that aren't web-footed. Even better, make a choice on one type or the other.

You'll probably be better off to specialize in one kind of fowl in order to develop a quality product. The alternative is dealing with a menagerie and its inherent risks of hidden and obvious health problems.

USDA to Deny Overtime Meat, Poultry Inspections

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Department of Agriculture will deny meat and poultry plant requests for overtime inspection during the last weeks of fiscal 1986 in order to meet reduced spending levels required by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget law.

"This is one of several actions to keep the inspection budget in line with the budget law, which requires us to reduce all spending by 4.3 percent–whether costs are borne by taxpayers or by industry," said Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

"In fiscal 1986, the agency must spend no more than $37.4 million on overtime and holiday inspection services–about $1.7 million less than was received and disbursed in the last fiscal year."

Under the federal meat and poultry inspection laws, appropriated funds support inspection during regular working hours. However, said Houston, when plant officials request overtime and holiday inspection services, USDA assigns inspectors if they are available, and is then reimbursed by the plant, importer, exporter or broker.

Houston said USDA expects the spending ceiling to be reached about Sept. 12 and will issue a Federal Register notice in August noting the date overtime and holiday services will be discontinued

Slaughtering and processing plants must operate under federal inspection in order to sell their meat or poultry products in interstate commerce.

Penn State Names Professor

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. – Michael M. Miller has been named assistant professor of animal science extension in The Pennsylvania State University's Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Miller, who comes to Penn State from western Iowa, will be responsible for developing management software for swine producers.

For the past three years Miller has worked as an extension associate at Iowa State University, developing multi-disciplinary microcomputer applications and assisting in training programs. He has also instructed part time in Iowa State's Mobile Microcomputer Program, which emphasizes the application of microcomputer technology for farmers, agribusinesses and other agriculturalists.

Miller received his Ph.D. in swine breeding, M.S. in animal production, and B.S. in animal science from Iowa State University. His interests include swine breeding and herd management as well as computer modeling.

Kelley Offers Low-Profile Backhoe

The new Kelley Model B30FE low profile backhoe has an 8-foot, 6-inch maximum digging depth. The low profile provides a more comfortable seating position for the operator. Oscillating stabilizer pads provide better stability with less turf damage, and wider bearing supports at the pivot points increase the machine's durability. Increased reservoir capacity reduces heat to increase cylinder seal life.

An extensive listing of frame kits allows the backhoe to fit small and mid-size three-point hitch tractors. For additional information contact Hamilton Equipment, 567 S. Reading Rd., Ephrata, Pa. 17522, or phone: 717-733-7951.

Upjohn celebrates 100th birthday

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — "Keep the quality up" were the watchwords of William E. Upjohn, M.D., founder of The Upjohn Pill and Granule Company in Kalamazoo, Mich., in 1886.

One hundred years later, employees of The Upjohn Company still adhere to that advice. Dr. Upjohn's pill-making firm has grown into a worldwide, research-based manufacturer and marketer of pharmaceuticals, health care services, fine chemicals, bulk pharmaceuticals, and veterinary and agricultural specialties.

In the early 1880s Dr. Upjohn, a young physician with a practice in rural Hastings, Mich., invented a new kind of pill. He called his invention the friable pill, which meant it could be easily crumbled. Because the mass-produced pills of the late 19th century were so hard, they often passed through the patient undissolved. The properties of Dr. Upjohn's new pill made it more easily digestible and this guaranteed that patients got the full benefit of the medicine.

With his new invention, Dr. Upjohn began a business that by the century's end had expanded to include compressed tablets, fluid extracts, ointments and powders — all produced with the careful attention to quality that the exacting doctor demanded.

With the hiring of the company's first research scientist in 1913. The Upjohn Company (renamed in 1902) inaugurated a lasting commitment to the development of new pharmaceutical products. Digitora, used in the treatment of various kinds of heart failure, was introduced in 1919. It was the first standardized digitalis product on the market and one of the first drugs to have a warranted shelf life.

Citrocarbonate, introduced in 1921, was the first nationally-recognized product for the treatment of acidosis--a derangement of the blood chemistry that often accompanies serious illness or injury.

The establishment of a nutritional research laboratory in 1927 marked Upjohn's entry into the vitamin supplement market. Super D Cod Liver Oil (1928) was the first standardized vitamin D product to reach a mass market. It played an important role in combating rickets in children. Other vitamin products followed in the '30s, culminating with Unicap line of multivitamins in 1940.

During this first half-century, two Upjohn products appeared which still have a place in the nation's medicine cabinets: Cheracol (1924), a flavored cough syrup and Kaopectate (1936), an antidiarrhea medicine.

Aids War Effort

During World War II, wounded Allied soldiers often received battlefield transfusions of serum albumin made in Upjohn laboratories. Others treated themselves with sterilized sulfa powders and "wound tablets," nearly 600 million of which were stamped with the Upjohn name.

Perhaps the biggest Upjohn contribution to the war effort was its participation in the joint effort to produce penicillin. The successful and timely mass-production of this first antibiotic by a coalition of government and industrial forces saved countless lives.

After the war, Upjohn researchers turned their efforts to the synthesis of cortisone. In 1950, Upjohn researchers discovered an inexpensive way to manufacture cortisone and hydrocortisone steroids and made these products available to millions of rheumatoid arthritis sufferers. As it enters its second century, Upjohn remains a world leader in steroid research and production.

Recent Upjohn entries into the important field of central nervous system (CNS) drugs include the first entirely new CNS compounds in nearly 20 years: the anti-anxiety agent Xanax, and Halcion, useful in the short-term management of insomnia.

Pharmaceuticals remain the heart of Upjohn's business. Over the years, however, vigorous internal expansion and outside acquisitions have involved the company in many new and exciting fields–all in some way related to the company's concern for bettering human health and welfare.

Upjohn's Ag Division

The Upjohn Agricultural Division produces and sells worldwide a variety of animal health products, feed supplements, agronomic and vegetable seeds and parent breeder stock for broiler chickens. The division includes the Asgrow Seed Company, Upjohn/TUCO Animal Products Division and Cobb, Inc.

The Fine Chemicals Division produces bulk pharmaceuticals and fine chemicals for use by Upjohn and for sale to other industries. Upjohn HealthCare Services (UHCS), another division of the company, provides for the home care and institutional staffing needs of the sick, convalescent and the aged from more than 300 offices in 200 cities across the U.S. and Canada.

Upjohn enters its centennial year as a multinational and multifaceted corporation with research, production and distribution centers in more than 45 countries. Upjohn products are marketed in more than 150 countries.

From a humble beginning in rural Michigan 100 years ago, The Upjohn Company has grown to become one of the top 15 drug companies in the world. But Dr. Upjohn's admonition to "keep the quality up" has remained central to the company's philosophy.

BUSINESS NEWS...

Upjohn, Tyson Announce New Corporation

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — A new broiler breeder corporation, Cobb-Vantress, Inc., has been formed by Cobb, Inc., a subsidiary of The Upjohn Company, and Tyson Foods, Inc.

David A. Phillipson, D.V.M., corporate vice president and general manager of the Agricultural Division of The Upjohn Company, and Leland Tollett, president of Tyson Foods, recently announced formation of the new company following the signing of the contract.

Cobb-Vantress, Inc., a close corporation owned equally by Upjohn and Tyson, will begin operations May 1 with administrative headquarters at Siloam Springs, Arkansas, and research headquarters at Jane, Missouri. The new firm will be headed by president Anthony H. Barnes and a six-member board of directors comprised of three members each from Upjohn and Tyson.

Cobb-Vantress will market the Cobb 500 female and Cobb breeder pullet, as well as Cobb and Vantress males.

Cobb-Vantress will continue operations of the former international Cobb subsidiaries and affiliated operations in Europe, South America and the Far East. Becoming part of Cobb-Vantress are: Arkansas Breeders Corporation, a joint venture of Cobb and Tyson; the Cobb hatching facilities in Gainesville, Georgia, and Siloam Springs, Arkansas; and Vantress research facilities at Jane, Missouri.

With the establishment of the new company, Cobb facilities in Concord, Massachusetts, along with its production farms in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, will be gradually phased out and closed. The Vantress hatchery in Greensboro, Georgia, also will be eventually closed. This will lead to expansions of research facilities at Jane, Missouri, and hatchery operations at Siloam Springs, Arkansas.

Deutz-Allis beefs up 6200-Series tractors

MILWAUKEE, Wisc. — Deutz-Allis offers two new row-crop tractors in its 6200 series line. The model 6265 produces 65 PTO hp and the 6275 has a 73 PTO hp unit. Both are available in two- or all-wheel-drive models. The 6200 series is now comprised of five tractors, ranging from 43 PTO hp to 73 PTO hp.

"The 6265 and 6275 are also powered with fuel-stingy, direct air-cooled diesel engines that don't require head gaskets. These four-cylinder engines have impressive power reserve, low maintenance requirements, long life and proven economic payoff," says Bob McIlrath, tractor product manager.

"These engines need no radiators, water pumps or hoses. All cooling is accomplished by a high-capacity fan which forces air around cylinders and past oil coolers. Cooling system maintenance consists of little more than occasionally checking fan belt tension and cooling air chamber," McIlrath explains.

The power is put to work via a multi-range mechanical transmission with 12 forward speeds and four reverse speeds. All gears are sychronized in each range.

Both models offer Transfermatic hydraulic systems of open center design with tandem engine-mounted, gear-driven pumps. A category II, three-point hitch like linkage stabilizers is standard equipment.

These two new tractors are available with the unique Twin-Power option. This feature doubles a tractor's working ability because it provides a PTO and 3-point hitch at both the front and rear of the machine. With this option two jobs can be completed with one pass.

Farm Credit Names Scholarship Recipient

WEST CHESTER — The Board of Directors of the Southeast Farm Credit Service takes great pleasure in announcing that Sylvia Lee (Cissy) Trotman has been selected as the recipient of its 1986 scholarship.

Cissy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jennings of West Chester, Chester County. She is a senior at Avon Grove High School, West Grove, and will enter the Pennsylvania State University, Delaware County Campus, in the fall. Cissy intends to major in Wildlife Biology.

A $500 check and commemorative plaque will be awarded to Cissy at the Avon Grove High School graduation ceremonies on June 13. Philip Pyle, school principal, will make the presentation.

This scholarship is offered annually to a high school senior who is planning to major in some field of agriculture of agribusiness at a four-year college on a full-time basis. The Southeast Farm Credit Service, with offices in Avondale, Creamery, Silverdale and West Chester, serves agriculture in the five-county Philadelphia area with long, intermediate and short term loans.

Asgrow expert chosen as Agronomy Society Fellow

KALAMAZOO, MI. – Dr. John A. Schillinger, Director of International Agronomic Research for the Asgrow Seed Company, has been selected as a Fellow of the American Society of Agronomy, 1985. He is being recognized for his accomplishments in soybean cultivar development, his leadership in directing research programs and his contributions to the seed industry.

The award was presented to Dr. Schillinger at the Society's annual meeting in Chicago, Illinois.

Schillinger has rendered invaluable service to agriculture, as noted by his peers, with the development of superior soybean cultivars during portions of his career at the University of Maryland and with the Asgrow Seed Company. These soybean cultivars are currently grown on more than six million acres in the United States (10 percent of the soybean acreage) and in over 10 percent of the soybean acreage in Argentina.

Schillinger's talents at leadership have been apparent throughout his career, but most especially at Asgrow Seed Company, where he rose from Soybean Research Project Leader to Director of Worldwide Agronomic Research in just eight years. In the process, he received the coveted Upjohn Award, The Upjohn Company's highest recognition for service and achievement for research personnel.

Dr. Schillinger also played a major role in the origin of the Commercial Soybean Breeders Association. He has served as Chairman of this group for three of its nine years of existence, and has served on the executive committee six of the nine years. The Commercial Soybean Breeders group consists of approximately 60 members, representing 23 companies.

Other contributions to agriculture include research, course development, teaching duties and extension work while at Michigan State University and the University of Maryland.

Between the years 1965 until 1967, he held a joint appointment as research entomologist with the USDA and Michigan State University. During that time, he conducted research in host plant resistance to the Cereal Leaf Beetle and instructed graduate-level students.

A native of Severn, Maryland, Schillinger was raised on a vegetable and tobacco farm. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in agronomy from the University of Maryland in 1960 and 1962, respectively, and earned a doctorate degree in Crop Science from Michigan State University in 1965.

DICKEY-john celebrates 20th birthday

AUBURN, IL – DICKEY-john Corporation, Auburn, Illinois, introduced its first product twenty years ago. The company was formed to build and market the first successful planter monitor, invented by a farmer, Bob Dickey and his brother-in-law, Jack Littlejohn. (Hence the spelling of the company name with the john always in "little" letters and the DICKEY in all caps.)

The first planter monitor has been followed, over the years, by many other firsts: the first digital readout battery-operated portable hand-held moisture tester for grain; the first universal area based grain loss monitor for combines; the first electronic control system for agricultural sprayers; the first radar ground speed sensor for true measurements of ground speed for farm tractors – and many others. In all, the company's innovative and aggressive research and development programs have earned over seventy patents.

Today, DICKEY-john is the world leader in agrionics® – agricultural electronics combined into a term coined and registered by the company. In addition to marketing a full line of products under its own name, DICKEY-john is also the leading supplier of instrumentation to the major farm equipment manufacturers.

DICKEY-john is also involved in designing and manufacturing instrumentation for grain elevators, flour mills, oil seed processors, food processors, the meat and dairy industries, public works departments, and the medical field.

DICKEY-john products are marketed world-wide with offices in Canada and Europe. Corporate headquarters are located in Auburn, Illinois, a farming community fifteen miles south of the Illinois capital, Springfield.

The Kubota L4150.
It's more than a match for any job you want done, and done well!

We feel that the Kubota L4150 is one of the most versatile mid-size diesel tractors you can find anywhere It has the engine and PTO power to handle a wide range of farm jobs Its size and agility make it ideal for orchard and vineyard work. As a hauler, transporter and worker for livestock operations, it can't be beat People in the mowing and turf care business will appreciate its workability and adaptability to terrain and conditions. And the L4150 is ideal for landscaping and light construction tasks, particularly where box blade, back hoe and front loader work is concerned

How can one tractor be all things to all people? Simply because the L4150 features an 8 x 8, partially synchronized transmission... 40HP two-speed (540 and 750 rpm) live PTO. . position and draft control. a roomier operator's area designed for more comfort on-the-job... and a custom-matched front loader that can be mounted in minutes, and which is operated by a single joystick lever. Plus lots more!

Velsicol's V.O.T.E. program aids pork producers

CHICAGO, Ill. – The National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) announced that Velsicol Chemical Corporation's 1985 Operation Trade Expansion (V.O.T.E.) program has generated an additional $11,500 for investment in NPPC's food editor liaison program. Over the past two years, the V.O.T.E. program has generated more than $32,000 for investment in NPPC's product promotion efforts. Velsicol's 1985 V.O.T.E. funds were presented at the American Pork Congress in St. Louis.

NPPC's strategic editor liaison program is aimed at getting the word out to consumers that fresh pork cuts are nutritional, low in calories and easy to prepare, according to Robin Kline, director of consumer affairs for NPPC.

"With this project, we will reach food editors who have a great deal of credibility and high visibility with consumers," says Kline. "Working with food editors, NPPC gets the message to consumers that lean, boneless pork is healthful and versatile in a cost effective and efficient manner," she stresses.

NPPC's message focuses on the fact that lean pork is low in cholesterol, high in protein and high in nutrients, Kline says.

The liaison effort with editors, in conjunction with pork advertising, will help increase the consumption of pork, according to NPPC.

"Farmers and ranchers have realized they can make a difference by working through their commodity organizations to promote their product," says Howard Davis, district sales manager for Velsicol Chemical Corporation who presented the 1985 V.O.T.E. funds to NPPC. "The V.O.T.E. program gave producers the opportunity to become directly involved in market development and, in turn, the ability to help generate demand for the commodities that they produce," he notes.

Under the terms of the V.O.T.E. program, for every gallon of Banvel and other Velsicol herbicides purchased and reported on a V.O.T.E. ballot, the ag chemical company donated 50 cents in the farmer's or rancher's name to a commodity group of their choice for market development projects.

Last year, NPPC used their 1984 V.O.T.E. funds to reach students, teachers and editors with the message that lean pork is healthful and versatile.

Velsicol's Operation Trade Expansion was launched two years ago to help develop and expand markets for U.S. ag products at home and abroad. As a result of the 1985 program, more than $100,000 was generated for six commodity groups representing pork, beef, corn, wheat, soybeans and cotton. This brings the total V.O.T.E. dollars generated over the last two years for investment in critically needed market development and expansion efforts to more than $350,000.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Establishing fair rental rates

I have been writing one or more farm related columns per week since 1957, the year after starting my extension career. My first columns were home garden advice columns written for the "Potter County Enterprise" and the "Pottery County Journal".

In the years that I have been writing columns, suggestions from people who write or call with column ideas have been invaluable. Usually I put their suggestions into a file folder titled "future column ideas". Most of those ideas do get used.

A second source of column ideas come from the questions people ask either individually or at a meeting. In the next few columns, I will be using some ideas from both of these sources.

One question was posed as a column idea some time back. The question was "How can farm owners come up with a reasonable rent to charge for their farm? This is really a number of questions in one. The answer will vary depending on the needs of the prospective landlord and the prospective tenant.

Rent-How Much To Charge

How much rent is a farm or land or a farm building worth? The answer is that "it depends". It depends on the location of the property. It depends on the use the tenant will make of the property. It depends on accessibility, condition, convenience, and size in relation to intended use.

Last year I developed three computer rent programs for county agents to use to help both landlords and tenants arrive at a fair rental value. Two of them are primarily for landlords who are interested in the range in rentals that their property is worth. The third is for the tenant who must be concerned with "How much can I handle?" Prospective landlords and tenants may be interested in the results from those programs as a guide to—what is a reasonable rent that the tenant can afford. With declining farm commodity prices, a reasonable rent may be considerably less now than it was a few years ago.

Some other considerations for a landlord are (1) the price or monetary value of the property in relation to it's productive or use value; (2) other things the tenant might furnish in addition to the rent paid-plow out roads, raise some meat animals for the landlord, etc; (3) the competition for the property; (4) the costs the landlord must pay from the rent. These considerations may result in the landlord accepting a lower rent than the value of the property might indicate.

Rent-How Much To Pay

Tenants must also do some calculating as to how much they can pay for rent. In many cases, rent is a cost in place of other ownership costs such as interest, taxes, insurance, and depreciation. Prospective tenants may want to keep this in mind when they are looking at a possible rental property.

Most farmers are limited in the percentage of income they can afford to pay for debt service. In most dairy farm situations, this limit is under 25 percent of cash income. Since rent is being paid in place of debt service (interest and principal) plus taxes and insurance, a tenant must count that rent payment as part of the 25 percent. This percentage is considerably less than 25 percent for farm enterprises such as beef (may be as low as 0 percent grain, (5 to 15 percent), and hogs (10 to 20 percent).

Lorsban okayed for dogwood borer

MIDLAND, MI – The Dow Chemical Company announces that Lorsban 50W insecticide has recently been approved for control of Dogwood borer in apples by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Dogwood borer, a common apple pest in Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania and other eastern states, infests clonal rootstock by boring into the burr knots or adventitious (aerial) roots which grow just below the exposed graft union on dwarf and semi-dwarf trees.

For control of Dogwood borer, Lorsban 50W should be applied to the lower trunks of apple trees to the point of runoff at a rate of three pounds per acre. To ensure thorough coverage, a directed spray application with a handgun or other suitable ground spray equipment is recommended.

Good Silage Is No Accident

From Planting to Storage, Silage Quality Depends on Attention to Details

By: S.K. Dash, D.V.M.

Silage is a product of anaerobic (oxygen-free) preservation of a moist forage crop or crop residue by acidification caused by fermentation.

The silage fermentation process is caused by: the conversion of carbohydrates (sugars) into organic acids, like lactic acid thereby lowering the pH and preserving the ensiled material.

The aim of preparing silage is to produce material suitable for animal feeding which can be preserved for long periods of time with minimum loss of nutrients.

Making good silage requires common sense, attention to details and sound management.

FACTORS WHICH AFFECT SILAGE QUALITY:

1. CROP: Grow any crop that offers the greatest economic advantage agronomically and can produce maximum nutrients per acre.

2. STAGE OF MATURITY: Optimum maturity to harvest crops for silage: Alfalfa - late bud to 1/10 bloom. Corn - kernels fully dented. Perennial grasses - prior to head emergence. Sorghum - soft-dough kernels. Wheat, barley, oats - soft-dough kernels.

3. MOISTURE: Moisture content of forage plays the most important role in the success of silage fermentation. Moisture content of 60-65% is desirable. Ensiling above 75% moisture may produce seepage and undesirable fermentation. Ensiling below 50-55% moisture creates problems in eliminating air, desirable fermentation and preventing mold growth and spoilage.

4. CHOPPING: Fine chopping of ¼ to ½ inch length is recommended.

5. PACKING: Pack the silo as rapidly as possible, and seal the surface where necessary.

6. SILO STRUCTURE: The type of silo affects the quality of silage and amount of nutrient preserved.

SILO TYPE	DRY MATTER LOSS
Oxygen-limiting	3 to 8%
Concrete upright	5 to 15%
Trench or bunker	12 to 25%
Open stack	20 to 40%

7. FEEDOUT: Good quality silage must be kept fresh on feedout. If and when exposed to air for long periods, the silage quality deteriorates.

8. WEATHER: Rainy weather can prevent the crop from harvesting at proper drying condition and may interfere with other above mentioned factors.

9. ADDITIVES: Provides added assurance for a good quality silage when management and other conditions are less than ideal.

WHY SILAGE ADDITIVES

Good silage results from good silage fermentation. Desirable fermentation preserves nutrients, reduces dry matter loss and makes palatable feed.

Conditions for making silage are not always ideal. Bad weather, composition of the forage at the time of harvest, moisture content of forage before ensiling, activity of plant enzymes, presence of air in silage and others affect silage fermentation adversely. To overcome these problems and assure a desirable fermentation, several products are being aded to silage.

It should be noted that cultures used in various University experiments and those available on the market may vary considerably in potency and type of organisms present. This is the reason why results from research trials with such fermentation products have been variable.

Good fermentation products containing L. plantarum-2B (like UAS Silage Inoculant) should be used to stimulate lactic acid production and to speed up the normal process of ensiling by reducing the time required for silage to reach a stable acidity thus reducing oxidative losses.

It is essential to achieve and maintain anaerobic conditions, restrict continued plant respiration, and avoid oxidative activities of anerobic micro-organisms to preserve nutrients of green plants by fermentation. If suitable micro-organisms are present, adequate nutritional substrates are available, and a suitable physical environment is maintained, a lactic acid fermentation can predominate. The bacteria responsible for production of good quality silages are primarily lactic acid producers. For this reason, different Lactobacillus bacteria are being recommended by many silage inoculant manufacturers. It has been demonstrated that Lactobacillus acidophilus and many such others had no positive effect on corn, sorghum, and wheat silages.

The desirable characteristics for a potential organism that would be satisfactory sor use in silage production include the following: 1. The organism should have a high growth rate and be able to compete with and dominate other organisms likely to occur in silage; 2. the organism should be homofermentative; 3. the organism should be acid-tolerant and produce a final pH of 4.0 rapidly; 4. the organism should be able to ferment glucose, fructose, and sucrose, and preferably able to ferment frustosans and pentosans; 5. the organisms should not react further with organic acids.

Many University studies indicated that Lactobacillus plantarum cultures and sugar can provide improved silage fermentation and decreased silage spoilage losses. University of Georgia research indicated that all Lactobacillus plantarum products (strains) are not alike. It developed a process which makes use of a strain called Lactobacillus plantarum-2B, which was isolated from a successful silage fermentation. It produces superior results in ensiling process. It can be used with all types of forage, including corn, alfalfa, wheat, rye,

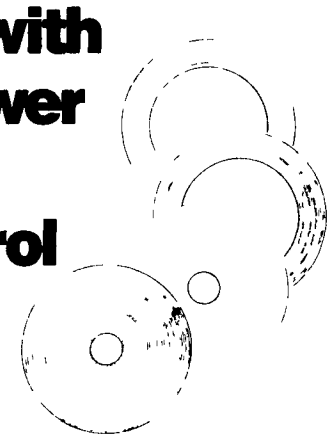
Faster baling with less horsepower plus Total Density Control



Gehl round balers give you more ways to save First they require less horsepower to operate than the competition That adds up to big fuel savings and less wear and tear on your tractor

Designed for efficiency

Gehl's unique patented baling chamber design saves you valuable time That's because the unique roller arrangement provides a more circular bale chamber that starts bales quickly and takes your biggest windrows At a faster speed than competitive machines Whether you're working in the toughest hay slippery straw or tangled and shredded cornstalks!

And of course the biggest potential savings of all uniformly shaped bales that stand up to weather retain valuable nutrients and hold their shape

The secret is Gehl's air draulics a system that gives you total density control (TDC®) With a simple adjustment of the hydraulic triggering mechanism you can determine the size of the bale core And by adjusting the hydraulic pressure up or down you can select the ideal outer wrap

Automatic bale wrap

To finish off your bale quickly Gehl's optional Auto Electric Wrap system ensures a uniform twine wrap automatically

COMPTON, Calif. – Kubota Tractor Corporation recently introduced the BF350 front loader with a 50-inch bucket and a lift capacity of 838 pounds.

The advanced design of the front loader enables both the loader and a custom-matched RC60-92H mid-mount mower to be attached to the Kubota tractor concurrently. This unique front loader subframe design has eliminated the extra step of removing the mower in order to attach the front loader.

The BF350, at a full height of 84.4 inches, has a lift capacity of 838 pounds, and maximum dump angle of 38 degrees. The overall height of the bucket while in the carry position is 46.8 inches. With a 50-inch material bucket, the BF350 has a digging depth of 6.3 inches, and a brief 3.4 seconds raising time to full height.

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a complete line of tractors from 10 to 85 PTO h.p., along with a variety of lawn and garden implements, compact excavators and outdoor power products. For more information contact Kubota Tractor Corporation, 550 West Artesia Boulevard, Compton, California 90220.

Both the new 50-inch material bucket and mid-mount mower can be attached to the Kubota BF350 at one time.

Producing Silage

The new process has better control than other methods of producing silage over unwanted types of bacteria, yeast, and mold populations. It provides silages with higher nutritional value than other processes, and it increases the stability of silage after opening so that it stays nutritious longer.

Inventors of the new silage making process where Dr. Lane O. Ely, Dr. E. Max Sudweeks and Dr. Nancy Moon of Georgia Experiment Station.

Recently this unique silage making process using Lactobacillus plantarum-2B has been patented by University of Georgia Research Foundation. Under licensing agreement this process is currently available from United Agri-Services, Inc., 7864 12th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55420, (Phone 612/854-2233.)

OUTSTANDING ADVANTAGES OF SILAGE

1. IMPROVED CROPPING PRACTICES: Increased land use; ability to harvest a crop as silage at a fixed date; not to wait for an exact stage of maturity.

2. REDUCED WEATHER DAMAGE AT HARVEST.

3. TOTAL MECHANIZATION: A unique advantage for silage production.

4. HARVESTING MAXIMUM NUTRIENTS PER ACRE: Total plant is used as silage.

5. IMPROVED FEEDING PROGRAM: A steady and even source of roughage - helpful in balancing and maintaining a good feeding program.

6. SILAGE IS A BETTER METHOD OF PRESERVING FORAGES.

7. LESS FEEDING WASTE FROM SILAGE.

8. SILAGE PREVENTS OR CORRECTS SUBNORMAL BUTTERFAT PERCENTAGES IN MILK.

HOLD IT

...in a RED ROSE utility building.

There's plenty of room for all the things you value and want to protect—cars, trucks, vans, motorhomes, boats, etc.—with lots of space left over for a workshop or hobby area, if you want one. It's a wonderful way of life. Why settle for anything less? Especially right now, at Red Rose special Spring prices.

Forestry Association Offers Publications

MECHANICSBURG — The Pennsylvania Forestry Association, a non-profit, citizens conservation organization, now offers two publications that are of special interest to anyone who owns forestland.

Timber Harvesting Guidelines, a 17-page booklet which describes how logging operations can be planned to minimize long-term disturbance to your land is available, free of charge, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: The Pennsylvania Forestry Association, 410 East Main Street, Mechanicsburg, PA 17055.

Another outstanding information source for landowners is the PFA Woodland Owner's Handbook, a handsome, 3-ring binder featuring the Timber Harvesting Guidelines booklet, plus 30 other publications from The Cooperative Extension Service, Pa. Game Commission, Bureau of Forestry and others.

Everything in the Handbook is neatly organized into individual sections — forest ecology, forest management planning, wildlife management, timber sales and sources of forestry assistance to name a few.

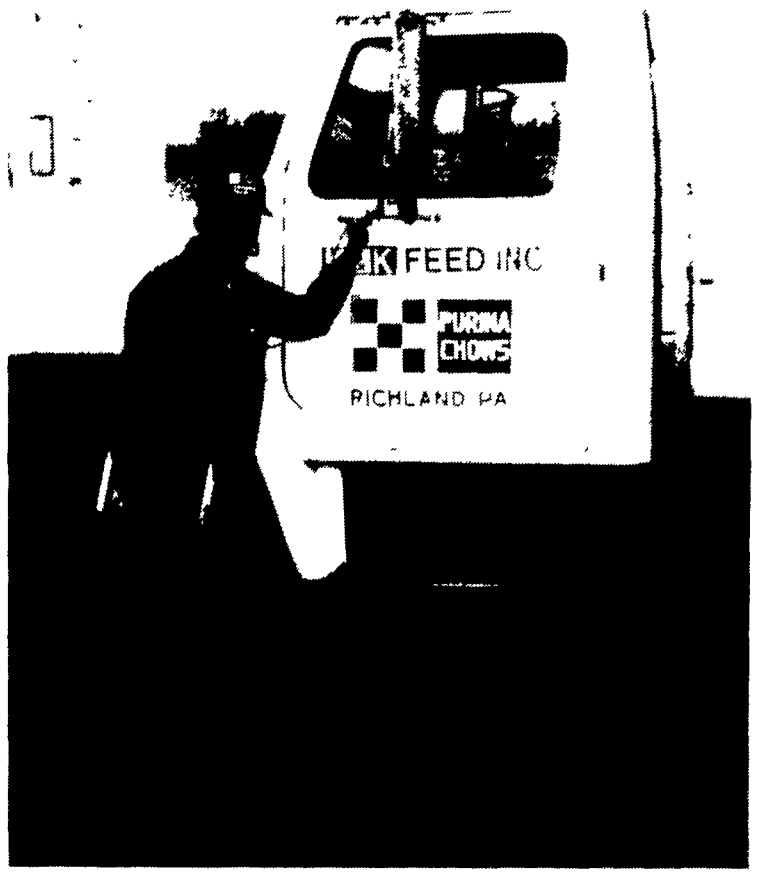
Ask Your Purina Farm Consultant.

Pictured is Ken Reeder, farm consultant for K & K Feed, Inc., in Richland, Pa. Following are some of the most common questions asked of Ken by dairymen in his area.



Q Is there an easy way to care for my dry cows & heifers?

A With Purina's Easy Care Block you get a 22% protein block formulated specifically for dry cows and heifers. Since it is weatherproof you can place it where dry cows and heifers can self feed to save time and labor. They are available in 50 + 500 pound blocks.

Q: Is there an easy way to challenge feed my cows without the big expense of a computer feeder?

A: For those times when you would like to challenge feed those high producers, without the expense of mechanical feeders or extra labor, consider the free choice feeding convenience of Purina Hi-Octane Milking Block. This high energy complete feed block contains enough nutrients to provide 2 pounds of milk for each pound consumed.
